Colonel C. G. Saunders and family had a narrow escape from asphyxiation Tuesday night, at their home on Fifth avenue, from excaping gas from a hard coal heater. Mrs. Saunders arose during the night to sttend one of her little daughters, who occupied an adjoining room and who complained of feeling ill. Colonel Saunders was awakened and attempted to follow his wife to the children's room, but fell. Feeling the air close and stiffing, he struggled to the kitchen door and succeeded in opening it, but collapsed again and fell on the floor. He remembered nothing more until he found himself on the lounge in the sitting room with his wife bathing his head. Mrs. Saunders in the meantime had telephoned for a nearby doctor and the eldest daugh-ment. Plaintiff's counsel asked for time to make a showing in resistance to the motion for continuance. This was granted and Judge Macy at 4 o'clock adjourned court until this morning at 9 o'clock when the plaintiff will be given an opportunity to make his showing in resistance to a continuance of the case. The jury was excused until 9:30 o'clock this morning. No evidence was taken yesterday and the entire day was consumed in the arguments on the several motions. The proceedings during the afternoon were enlivened by a tilt between Senator Patterson and John N. Baldwin, which brought forth a sharp rebuke from Jadge Macy. It occurred when Senator Patterson opened his argument in support of the notion to strike out the amendment, Mr. Baldwin having just closed his argument. The senator from Colorado accused Mr. Baldwin of hurling anathemas against counsel on the other side and the defendant and of being lacking in that

The warning of the court had its effect and the rest of the afternoon was free from any trouble between the two eminent

On the convening of court counsel for Dovle filed an amendment to their original petition without waiting to take any further evidence. The defense claimed that the action of the plaintiff came as a surprise and asked for time to meet the new illegations in the amendment and Judge Macy adjourned court until the afternoon in compliance with the request.

The amendment alleged that the agreement between the plaintiff and Burns was made solely for the purpose of prospecting for, locating and developing mining claims upon the public domain in the Cripple Creek mining district, then situated in E Paso and Fremont countles, for their joint benefit and that it provided solely for the discovery and location and completion of mining claims and the acquisition of interests therein as the result of labor and expenditures of the plaintiff and defendant, in and upon claims the location of which had been initiated, but not completed; that none of the mining claims referred to were at the time of the agreement perfected or completed lode mining claim locations, but that each and every one thereof was perfected under this agreement by the labor and expenditures of both the plaintiff and the defendant; that in accordance with this agreement the plaintiff performed labor, rendered services and furnished supplies and money for and upon

> TRAIN HITS OPEN SWITCH forthwestern Passenger, Westbound, Crashes Into String of Cars on the Siding at Carroll.

CARROLL, Ia., Oct. 9 .- (Special Telegram.)-Passenger train No. 11 on the Chiago & Northwestern, ran into a line of lead cars on a siding at Carroll. No. 11 s scheduled to pass No. 1, the westbound imited, at Jefferson. No. 1 was late and Engineer Wheeler on No. 11 was given a blank order to take the siding at Carroll The dispatcher gave orders to the operator at the block at the east end of the Carroll yards to let No. 11 in on the siding. Engineer Wheeler was pushing the train along at fifty miles an hour, thinking that he was to pull in at the station and then back in on the siding. When he found the switch open at the east end he applied the emergency brake and had slowed up to a speed of thirty-five miles an hour when he hit the cars. The shock jarred the passengers considerably and demolished a car of corn, two empty oil tanks and a car of empty been kegs. Engineer Wheeler was the only one injured, austaining a broken jaw. The wreckage was cleared away in a short time and traffic resumed.

$200 on his person. Canney drove to the city early last evening to meet his wife and sister, who were returning from a visit at Osceola. The trio remained down town until about 9 o'clock. Returning home the two women went into the house and Canney remained at the stable to attend to the horse. He secured a lantern to go to the haymow and his wife and sister waited a half hour. As he failed to appear they went to the barn, where they saw the lantern in the stall. They found his hat on the floor and his pocketbook in the alley. A little way from the barn they found a bunch of keys that he had carried. Search was continued all night without avail.

Murder Case Reversed.

The Iowa supreme court reversed the case of Loren R. Bone of Cerro Gordo county, under sentence of sixty years for murder in the second degree for killing his former friend, James Allison, at Mason City. They had quarreled in town and Allison threatened to kill Bone and the latter secured a knife and followed him to the edge of the town, where the fatal fracas occurred. Bone pleaded self-defense, and the reversal is because the question of selfdefense was not stated sufficiently plain to the jury. The court lays down an import ant rule that, where one has a belief that dead on April 21 by Steffin in a fight on a he is in danger, he may arm himself for farm where they both lived. William resistance, and if he afterwards takes blood Beaver, Steffin's hired man, and Peter Pe- in an encounter, the fact that he armed terson, a neighbor, are implicated in the himself in advance does not preclude the
