

RECOUNTS WHOLE CAMPAIGN

Press Correspondent Given Inquiry Court His Santiago Observations.

QUOTES SCHLEY'S REPLY TO BOB EVANS

Says Commodore Answered Negatively to the Charge that Philip Ran Away - All Praise Applicant's Conduct.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Schley court of inquiry opened today with Lieutenant B. W. Wells, jr., who was Commodore Schley's flag lieutenant during the Spanish war, still on the stand.

He was followed by George E. Graham, who as an Associated Press correspondent, was with Commodore Schley during the entire campaign. Mr. Graham's testimony covered the principal movements of the campaign and especially the bombardment of the Spanish ship Colon on May 31 and the battle off Santiago on July 3.

Only to Draw the Fire.

Mr. Graham also stated that Admiral Schley had told him that the objects of the bombardment of May 31 was to develop the Spanish land batteries and he said that the range was fixed at 7,000 or 7,500 yards, in order to draw their fire.

The witnesses for the afternoon were Dennis J. Cronin, who was Admiral Schley's orderly, and who testified along the same lines as Mr. Graham as to the conversation with Captain Sigsbee; Lieutenant Commander William R. Rush, who said he thought Viscaya had planned to ram Brooklyn; Lieutenant Commander Edward Fitzgerald, who was on duty in the fire room on July 3, and testified that an order had been given early in the action to stand by for a ram.

Afternoon Proceedings.

When the court began its afternoon session Mr. Rayner announced that he had no questions to ask Mr. Graham and Captain Lemly said that he had no questions to ask.

Mr. Graham was then excused and Dennis J. Cronin called. He was ordered to Commodore Schley during the Santiago campaign and he testified that he was present when Captain Sigsbee came aboard Brooklyn May 26.

"Did you see Commodore Schley at any time during the battle?" "Yes, sir, I saw him when he was standing down near the conning tower and then again on the forward bridge."

"His manner was such as inspired the men under him with courage."

Mr. Cronin was excused and Lieutenant Commander William R. Rush called. The witness said he had a vivid impression of the Spanish ships turning toward Brooklyn and he was under the impression that this had occurred before Brooklyn made its turn.

At the time Colon's flag came down I heard the commodore's voice, asking: "What time is it?" and I heard the chief quartermaster answer, "Eight o'clock."

In reply to a question Lieutenant Schley said he had seen Commodore Schley several times during the engagement of July 3, but he remembered him especially as he stood when Viscaya went ashore.

"He was," said the witness, leaning against the turret on the starboard position, holding his glass in his arms."

"What was his deportment and bearing?" "It was that of a brave man, self-possessed, alert to his duties and encouraging to officers and men to do their duty."

When Lieutenant Simpson was excused Lieutenant Edward P. Fitzgerald, who was an assistant engineer on Brooklyn during the battle off Santiago, was called to the stand.

The witness was not questioned on other points nor cross-examined. When he left the stand the court adjourned for the day.

Morning Proceedings.

Lieutenant Wells resumed the witness stand soon after the Schley court of inquiry was called to order, at 11 o'clock today, and continued his narrative of the events of the Cuban campaign of 1898.

Lieutenant Wells was also questioned concerning the department orders concerning the rickling of the American ships to bombardment from the shore batteries, being those of April 6, April 26 and two of May 3.

After having read the different dispatches the witness was asked by Captain Lemly: "Can you separate your knowledge with regard to the conversation with Commodore Schley so as to distinguish between either of the other two orders, or both of these orders, and as to whether or not anything was said with regard to the rickling of information in relation to these letters here which you have before you, at the interview of May 18 in Key West?"

"No, sir. I do not distinguish between any of them. I have given my general remembrance, which is that the order was not to rick the ships."

Lieutenant Wells was excused and Albert V. Mason called.

The witness said that as the log giving an account of Brooklyn's turn had been first prepared it read:

LIPTON'S NEXT CHALLENGE

Already Takes Steps Toward Building a Third Shamrock.

FIFE RELUCTANT TO TRY NEXT YEAR

Is Willing, However, to Construct a Race for 1903—Old Shamrock Preserved for Trials.

GLASGOW, Oct. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton, while desiring to avoid monopolizing the British side of the America's cup contest, has already taken a step toward a third contest for the trophy.

Captain Robert Wringe, who returned here from New York on the Anchor liner City of Rome yesterday, went to Fairley and had a long conference with W. Fife, Jr., as to whether he would undertake designing Shamrock II for a series of races in 1902. It is understood that Mr. Fife was opposed to rushing out a challenger for 1902. He considered the time too short to do his best work, but was willing to design a challenger to race in the autumn of 1903.

Acting on Mr. Fife's suggestion, Captain Wringe went to Gareloch to provide for the better preservation of Shamrock, which will be used in trials on this side of the water, Shamrock II to be employed in trials on the Atlantic side.

Clyde Favors Project.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(New York World Telegram.—A Glasgow correspondent telegraphs that prominent Clyde yachtsmen view favorably Lipton's challenge. They think the second Shamrock can be improved, but the belief prevails that a new yacht will be designed by Fife, with Watson as consultant, and command given to Wringe.
