Defegates Speak of Notable Progress of Past Year-Juniors Score Increase of Thirty So-cletles in Nebraska.

A thousand fluttering handkerchiefs welcomed Rev. Francis E. Clark, father of the Christian Endeavor movement, to the state convention of that organization yesterday morning. Mr. Clark brought to the young Christians of Nebraska the greeting of their associates in states recently visited.

At midnight last night I left the largest Endeavor convention that Missouri has ever had," said Mr. Clark. "I have just been in Arkansas, where the numbers are rew, but the spirit wonderfully active. I have come from meetings in Massachusetts around the haystack monument, where three young men consecrated themselves missionary work with blessed results. In New York there have just closed great meetings at Poughkeepste, and from all of these gatherings I bring to you the heartiest assurance of Christian fellowship and co-oncration

Mr. Clark reviewed his first visit to Omaha, twenty-two years ago, when the town was a struggling hemlet with great possibilities which have been fulfilled.

An open parliament was then conducted by Mr. Clark upon the "Essentials of Christian Endeavor Work." The delegates joined in the discussion without hesitation. One suggested loyalty to the church; another personal work; a third frequently renewed consecration.

Reports of Year's Work.

The morning session at the Kountze Memorial church was opened with reports of the work throughout the state. Rev. H. H. Harmon, president for Nebraska, spoke of the "Encouragements of the Year." Miss Amy Clark, secretary, and L. W. Harringtou, treasurer, reported favorably upon the Andition of their departments, and Mrs. F. F. Carruthers described the growth of the junior department. There are now 225 junior societies in Nebraska, an increase of thirty for the year. In the Omaha and South Omaha district, where Miss McVittle has been in charge, the increase has reached 50 per cent.

The Omeha workers have planned for the state convention now in progress and $600 has been raised in this city to detray the expense.

Good Showing of Lincoln.

The endeavor work in Lincoln was accounted for by Miss Alice Hunter of that city, who spoke of the meetings and personal effort in the penitentiary and asylum. The societies are increasing in numbers and siz other denominational societies intend to cast in their lot with the endeavorers. Miss Mabel Pruyn, missionary superintendent, and A. D. Schermerhorn, Christian citizenship superintendent, also gave reports. A symposium of individual opinions followed the business session on the following topics: "Our Pledge," Rev. H. J. Hindman, David City; "Our Prayer Meetings," Rev. F. Ralston Moore, Schuyler: "Our Membership," J. F.
