DECIDES TO OUIT BUSINESS

National Bank of Commerce Determines to Close Up Its Affairs.

TURNS ACCOUNTS TO OMAFA NATIONAL

Institution is Perfectly Solvent, but Finds Its Margin of Available Capital Too Small to Compete with Larger Banks.

The National Bank of Commerce, corner of Farnam and Fifteenth streets, is going out of business. All of its accounts have been transferred to the Omaha National bank and beginning this morning the las mentioned bank will pay all checks drawn by depositors of the closed institution.

It was at a meeting of the stockholders and directors of the National Bank of Commerce held Saturday afternoon that it was finally decided to turn over the business to the Omeha National and close up The bank is said to be perfectly solvent, the only reason for closing up being that the bank had but $200,000 capital and owned real estate to the value of $150,000, leaving too small a margin for it to compete with the larger banks of the

At the meeting of the directors it was voted to give J. H. Evans, the president of the bank full authority to settle up all the affairs of the institution and to convert its real estate into cash as fast as he deemed advisable for the interests of the stockholders. Mr. Evans will continue his office in the present banking room, where all business in connection with the closing up of affairs will be transacted.

Condition of the Bank. The last official report of the condition of the National Bank of Commerce, made at the close of business on September 30. showed the following items: Loans and discounts, $236,415.56; United States bonds to secure circulation, $150,000; stocks, securities, etc., $28,464.41; banking house, furniture and fixtures, $9,612.70; other real estate. $99,447.89: due to state banks and bankers, $9,191,66; individual deposits, $233,-

352.88; undivided profits, $15,910.37. According to the last published report of County Treasurer Elasser, October 1, the National Bank of Commerce had $14,879.68 of county money on deposit and according to the report of State Treasurer Stuefer on the same date it had $11,719.48 of state current funds. The city had on deposit on October 1 the sum of $34,514.72. No school funds nor special funds were deposited in this bank. The bondsmen to secure the city deposit are John H. Evans and George E. Barker, each of whom justifies in the sum of $50,000, giving the city a band of $100 .-000 to secure its deposit. This bond was approved by the city council on April 3, 1900, and by the mayor one week later.

Outgrowth of Private Bank.

The National Bank of Commerce was the outgrowth of a private banking establishment, started by Frank B. Johnson and Robert L. Garlichs in May, 1885, under the firm name of Garlichs & Johnson. Their place of business was on the west side of Sixteenth, between Cass and California streets, and their capital was $50,000. September 1, 1886, they organized the Bank of Commerce with George E. Barker as president, Mr. Garlichs as vice president and Mr. Johnson as cashier and with a capital of $100,000, which was increased in 1888

In 1888 the bank was removed to the Barker building, corner of Farnam and Fifteenth streets, where it has remained ever since. In April, 1890, the business was reorganized under the national banking with J. N. Cornish as president, George E. Barker as vice president and Ellis L. Bier bower as cashier.

The bank successfully weathered the financial storm of 1893-6. Early in 1896, at a time when banks all over the country were shaking on their foundations, J. H. Evans succeeded Mr. Cornish as president of the National Bank of Commerce and he has been at the head of the establishment

Creighton-Orpheum.

As has been the case each week since the Orpheum opened its season, the bill which had its initial presentation Sunday afternoon is one well balanced and with the exception of a single number praiseworthy throughout. 'The Girl with the Auburn Hair" somes to us this season with the same beautiful illusion, although somewhat more elaborately staged than when seen here last year. She sings one new song, "The Invisible Choir," which replaces "The Holy City," which she sang during her previous engagement here. The young lady, whose name is somewhat of a mystery in the theatrical world, has a deep contralto voice, very rich in tone and of splendid quality. It is perhaps heard to the best advantage in her final song, an 'Ava Maria.'

Next in popularity on the bill is "The Bridegroom's Reverie," a playlet presented by the Misses Delmore and Walter Caryl, with the stamp of novelty as well as clever interpretation to recommend it. Press Eldridge tells a lot of new stories that are laughable and sings some parodies that are reached. simply "screams." The balance of the program includes Joseph Adelmann, an extraordinary xylophone player; Bicknell, who models in clay; Weston and Raimund, billed as travesty stars, and the kinodrome.

Minco's Trocadero.

"A Merry Chase," portrayed by a company of capable performers, pleased two large audiences yesterday at the Trocadero. The engagement was limited to Sunday only, as necessary repairs and alterations to the stage necessitated cutting the engagement, leaving the house dark for the balance of the week.

Unusual Amount of Activity Being Displayed in Packing House Circles.

WORK AT HAMMOND'S BEGINS TODAY

Inderstanding is That Hammond Plant Will Not Be Closed Again-Armour Will Rush Work of Replacing Burned Building.

An unusual amount of activity is being displayed in packing circles at the present time. This morning the beef killing department of the Hammond plant opens with 300 men at work. In addition to this force mechanics are now engaged in placing the hog and sheep departments in proper order so that it is now expected the plant will be running full force within ten days. A portion of the office force needed will come from Chicago, while others will be sent here from St. Joseph, Mo. Some of the men 1902. The first date is March 18 and will not be closed again, but that improvements will be made to the buildings and machinery. Superintendent Felch said last evening that his working force was well organized and that the abattoirs would be working full time as long as the supply of cattle held out.

Dr. Don C. Aver, chief of the bureau of animal industry, has received instructions from Washington to furnish a sufficient number of inspectors and taggers for the plant. It is understood that Dr. Beecher will have charge of the inspection at Hammonds, for a time at least. As the work grows the force will be increased. praise of Mr. Fitch's pretty play which

In the meantime a portion of the fertilizer product will be handled at Chicago and Kansas City.

More Vinduct Talk.

The reopening of the Hammond plant has revived the talk about a viaduct across the tracks. When the Hammond house closed it was given out unofficially that it would be a long time before a bridge would be built across the tracks. In making its repairs and extensions the Union Pacific tore up the crossing leading to Hammond's, while the Union Stock Yards company fenced its property and closed the eastern entrance to teams. It was stated that the Union Pacific proposed to fence its tracks all the way from Omaha to the southern city limits.

Now the crossing will have to be re placed and watchmen employed or a viaduct erected. A few days ago officials of the Union Stock Yards company and the Union Pacific went over the plans for a viaduct drawn some time ago, but as far as known no definite conclusion was

In speaking of this matter an officer o the Union Stock Yards company said yesterday that the prospects for the building of a viaduct across the tracks were brighter now than for some time past. A bridge is certainly needed, as those who have business at the yards and packing houses can testify. Numerous petitions addressed to the Union Stock Yards company and the Union Pacific have been signed by dealers in livestock at the yards, but no attention has been paid to these by the corporations interested. The city council has even been called upon to take a hand in the matter and insist upon a viaduct being built, but the agitation of the matter in the council ended as such things usually do. However, the people hope to see a bridge across the tracks before long.

Electroonting Dogs.

The Nebraska Humane society recently made a request of the Omaha city officials to electrocute dogs at the city pound instead of following the old system of drowning them. This scheme is not new by any means, as it was tried here one summer and worked nicely. The apparatus necessary was planned and built by E. S. Dimmock, who was then superintendent of the local electric light company. The electrocuting apparatus was placed near the company's power house on Railroad avenue. All canines left in the pound over four days
