with Stuefer. The suggestion is made that when Mr. Stuefer drew the two checks for $10,000 and $7,000 respectively, dated them ahead and handed them over to an irresponsible bond broker, that he had no idea the checks were to be endorsed over to the treasurer of Burt county, but rather was acting with the understanding that the bonds were to be delivered as agreed upon at the First National bank in Omaha on July 5, and that Neligh would have cashed these two checks in at the bank on which they were drawn in Omaha and consumed his bond purchase at the appointed place, with good currency instead of the checks.

The sum and substance of the situation is simply this: Burt county has sold its refunding bonds for $50,000. The same bonds have been bought at an expense to the school fund of $50,000. The whole transaction was conducted with the money of the state. The take-off of $12,000 was apparently made in a fallacious manner, and the state treasurer, who is also one of its close business associates. This money would have been saved either to the school fund or to Burt county had State Treasurer Stuefer dealt direct with the county authorities.

ALL STATES FOR TEMPERANCE

Delegates from Far and Wide Gather at Fort Worth—Address of President Stevens.

PORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 15.—The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance union began its sessions here this morning at 10 o'clock today. President Lillian M. Stevens of Maine was in the chair. After devotional exercises the roll call disclosed the presence of delegates from all states and territories and from Cuba, Great Britain, Ireland, Scotland, and the Hawaiian Islands.

Our is a land and ours a nation where there should be no hatred of race, where there should be no prejudice of color, where there should be no distinction of sex, where there should be no distinction of religion, where there should be no distinction of nationality, where there should be no distinction of language, where there should be no distinction of birth, where there should be no distinction of wealth, where there should be no distinction of power, where there should be no distinction of rank, where there should be no distinction of position, where there should be no distinction of honor, where there should be no distinction of fame, where there should be no distinction of glory, where there should be no distinction of power, where there should be no distinction of rank, where there should be no distinction of position, where there should be no distinction of honor, where there should be no distinction of fame, where there should be no distinction of glory.

RUHLIN IS EASY PREY

the pavilion indicated that one of the principals had arrived and was proceeding to his dressing room. The word was soon passed that Gus Ruhlman, the Akron giant, had reached the scene of conflict from Blanken's Six-Mile house and an uproar ensued. Ruhlman, who is a knockout, was accompanied by Billy Madden, "Dever" Ed Martin, Charlie Goff and Young Gibbs, who later appeared in his corner when the fight was called.

A rumor emanating from Oakland reached the crowd nearby early in the evening. Jeffries had suffered an injury to one of his hands before starting for San Francisco, but popular sentiment condemned the story as a canard, and the betting at the ringside was not affected by the incident. M. H. DeVaux, the millionaire editor, Mayor James D. Phelan, Mayor-elect Schmitt, and almost the entire bench of the county of San Francisco was already at the ringside. Billy Jordan, the veteran announcer, was early on the scene.

The assembled thousands betrayed the extent of their excitement and wrought-up feeling and cheered vociferously, although the curtain-raiser was unimportant. Jeffries, accompanied by Billy Delaney, Bob Armstrong, "Kid" Egan, his brother Jack, and Dewitt Vanocour, left the Oakland side of the bay on the 7:30 train, reaching San Francisco shortly after 3 o'clock. The champion entered the building while the first preliminary was in progress, and as Captain Whitman, chairman of the police department, cleared the way, proceeded to his dressing room, while the throng that entered the building made a demonstration. In great impatience the crowd waited for the appearance of the two gladiators, taking not a passive interest in the fight, but rather a keen one. Billy Condon and Mike Curtin, and in the encounter between Joe Field and "Spider" Joe Welch.

The second preliminary between Fields and Welch, an eight-round affair, was announced. The first preliminary was declared a draw. The police put some of the spectators out of the gallery, it being much overcrowded. At 9 o'clock people were turned away from the doors, and probably the greatest assemblage of people ever gathered to witness a prize fight was packed within.

odds Two to One. 9:15 p. m.—The betting at the ring-side steadied down before the big struggle to odds of 2 to 1, although there were bursts of enthusiasm from either side, in which longer odds were offered. Ed Kelly, the Chicago bookmaker, had $2,000 which he sought to place at 10 to 4. Of this sum $1,000 was covered by the Ruhlmanites. A miner named Bell, just arrived from the Klondike, wagered $5,000 at the same odds. Aside from this the betting was comparatively light.

When the second preliminary had been completed, resulting in the victory of "Spider" Joe Welch over Joe Fields in four rounds, a corps of workmen pounced into the ring. The operator at the kinetoscope machine adjusted his instruments and a flash of lights through the array of lamps proclaimed that all was in readiness as far as the company was concerned. A moment later a burst of time light, 250,000 candlepower, illumined the vast reaches of the pavilion and further enhanced the great array of spectators as the immediate forerunner of the championship struggle.

George Harting, an official timekeeper of the Twentieth Century club, took his position on the south side of the ring, being followed, timekeeper for Ruhlman, closely following. Pugilists Enter Ring. At 9:25 p. m. Jeffries entered the ring, shading his eyes. He was followed by trainer, Billy Delaney, Kid Egan, Bob Armstrong and "Brother" Jack Jeffries. Harry Corbett, the referee, then stepped in the ring. Two minutes later Gus Ruhlman entered, followed by his seconds.

They tossed for corners and Ruhlman won, taking the south corner. The extreme heat from the powerful light over the ring made itself felt from the very beginning, but was not as intense as that which hampered the Sharkey-Jeffries fight. Two minutes after the men entered the ring they were in the ring, and the referee, who then presented Referee Harry Corbett.

Deafening cheers greeted the big fighters, but an instant later when Police Captain Wirtman entered the ring to examine the gloves and hisses filled the vast auditorium. Jeffries, in a daring red sweater, looked on with a violent impatience, earnestly in his corner, while Martin talked earnestly with "Dever" Ed Martin. On behalf of Tom Sharkey Tim McGrath challenged the winner of tonight's contest. Time was called at 9:37.

First Round. Ruhlman leads for head and lands lightly and cleverly with both hands, causing Jeffries to duck and retreat. Ruhlman's right hand is not so accurate as his left, but he is a great blessing to have so safe and delicious a food as this. East Brookfield, Mass. MERCHANT KILLS A ROBBER

Wakened from Sleep by Shot Fired by Thief and Which Killed His Wife.

HUSBAND PROMPTLY RETURNS THE FIRE

Dead Man Had Frequently Been Harassment by Merchant Whose Wife He Killed and Whom He Sought to Rob.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 15.—A special to the Star from Galena, Kas., says that at 2 o'clock this morning Mrs. S. C. Kramer, wife of a merchant, was shot dead in her bed by Ed Watkins, a town tough, who had been frequently harassing her for some time. Watkins shot and killed Watkins. Watkins had formerly been employed by Kramer in the latter's general store. Kramer had disposed of considerable property in town yesterday and was accompanied home by Watkins.

Mrs. Kramer was awakened during the night and found Watkins standing over her bed and pointing a revolver at her. She managed to scream, "Why, Ed, you know I have no money," and Watkins, without paying heed to her plea, fired the ball entering Mrs. Kramer's temple and killing her instantly. Kramer arose by his wife's side and fired three times at Watkins, but the latter escaped to his partner, who was in an adjoining room. "Ed, do your duty."

Then Watkins died without speaking a word, his wife, whose identity is unknown, escaped. Kramer's little 18-months old girl was sleeping between them when the mother was shot.

ROBBERS QUICKLY CAPTURED

Two Masked Men Held Up Crowd in Saloon, but Are at Once Pursued.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 15.—(Special Telegram.)—Two masked men held up and robbed Saunders' home ranch saloon, south of Rawlins, last night, but the robbers were overtaken by a posse and captured on an Indian reservation. The men, wearing masks, entered the front door of the saloon with drawn revolvers. They compelled the bartender and loungers to throw up their hands. While one robber kept the crowd covered with his gun, the other went behind the bar and secured $200 from the cash drawer. The robbers then backed out of the saloon and disappeared in the darkness.

A posse of cowboys, saloon men and others quickly formed, horses were mounted and the outlaws were promptly run to Rawlins. It is thought the men are members of a gang of outlaws from the Robbers' Roost rendezvous.

HECKED HAD BEEN DATED AHEAD.

The exchange of these checks for the order for the bonds was made on the afternoon of July 4. Treasurer Ashley returned to Tekamah on the morning of the 5th, but Neligh had left the city. The two checks were turned over to Mr. Ashley by his secretary and a post office check was signed by Stuefer as treasurer. The number of the First National bank check is 13,449. Immediately after receiving them Treasurer Ashley deposited the three checks in the First National bank of Tekamah and simultaneously drew against the deposit a New York draft to take up the old bonds. His letter book shows the following letter of transmittal:

TEKAMAH, Neb., July 5, 1901.—Kourtas Bros., Bankers, New York: Dear Sirs: Herewith I enclose New York City, N. Y., check No. 13,449, payable to your order for $10,000. With this you will please return the unexpired railroad bonds of Burt county, Nebraska, which I have deposited with you. Very truly yours, JOHN G. ASHLEY, County Treasurer.

There is on file in this office the following reply: NEW YORK, July 5, 1901.—Hon. John G. Ashley, Treasurer Burt County, Tekamah, Neb.: Dear Sir: We have received your check for $10,000, which we have cashed and the proceeds have been placed at your disposal. Yours truly, KOURTAS BROS., Bankers, New York City, N. Y.

As soon as Treasurer Ashley had been satisfied that the checks given by Neligh had been paid by the banks against the following receipt: TEKAMAH, Neb., July 5, 1901.—Mr. W. T. Neligh, West. Union National Bank, Omaha: We have received your check for $10,000, which we have cashed and the proceeds have been placed at your disposal. Yours truly, JOHN G. ASHLEY, County Treasurer.

Rates School Fund for $3,200. It turns out that the bonds sold by Burt county to Neligh for $50,000 passed immediately into the school fund of the state of Nebraska for $40,000, although the purchase was plainly made with money belonging to the school fund, with the exception possibly of the $500 check drawn on Mr. Stuefer's bank.

When the bonds were delivered to Stuefer as state treasurer, interest coupons amounting to $4,000 were detached and retained by Neligh as a premium, making the investment for the school fund on the basis of 3 1/2 per cent.

The discovery of the fact that by this sharp practice, to call it by a mild name, either the school fund or the taxpayers of Burt county had been cheated out of $3,200 naturally excited considerable indignation here. A committee, consisting of Speaker W. G. Sears, ex-Treasurer John P. Piper and ex-Senator John F. Nesbit, took it upon themselves to investigate further by inquiring into the records of the state board at Lincoln. These gentlemen made a trip to Lincoln in February of this week and have returned, more firmly convinced than ever that the bond sale deal will not stand the light of day. Hon. John F. Nesbit tells of the work of the committee as follows:

What Investigation Disclosed. W. G. Sears of Tekamah, John F. Piper of Lyons and myself called upon Treasurer Stuefer Tuesday night, November 5, 1901, and talked over the Burt county bond matter with him. We also went to his office on the following morning for the same purpose and Treasurer Stuefer showed us papers in the case. He denied that he had ever received any letter from Franklin Everett, chairman of the Burt County Board of Supervisors, notifying him that the county would have $50,000 worth of funding bonds for sale, which letter Everett informed us he had written on November 15, 1901, and the letter itself is not accessible at this time.

Treasurer Stuefer's explanation does not fit in with the indisputable records in the case here. The fact that the checks were paid to Deputy Treasurer Pallen on the evening of July 4 shows conclusively that the checks were drawn before July 4 and dated ahead to the 5th. The committee discovered when they were down at Lincoln that Neligh had been at Lincoln and registered at a hotel on July 3, leaving early on the 4th. He did not get to Tekamah until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. He was assigned to a room at the hotel here, so that he must have stayed all night, and he could not possibly have gotten back to Lincoln before the afternoon of the 5th.

How Did Neligh Get the Bonds? Worse than that, Neligh must have had access to the bonds before ever he had an order for them, because, according to Deputy Treasurer Pallen, he had brought one of them with him from which the seal had been left off, to have that checked remedied, and after having the seal attached carried it back with him in his pocket. He had no right whatever to have this bond in his possession at that time any more than he had to have money belonging to the state school fund in his possession, as he was not connected officially with the state treasurer's office and was under no bond to the public for their safe keeping.

The people up here look on the letter which Neligh wrote to Stuefer, representing himself to be the owner of these bonds and offering them for sale to the school fund, as a mere bludgeon to cover up his relations
