RAILROAD MEN MAKE LOW ESTIMATE

Engineer Whom Officials Charge with Responsibility for the Collision Thus Far Escapes Arrest.

DETROIT, Nov. 28.—When night fell over the scene of last night's calamity on the Wabash railroad near Seneca, Mich., those who had been investigating the disaster had found nothing to alter the estimate of about eighty lives lost as a result of the collision.

However, in support of the larger estimate it is pointed out that there are now fourteen passengers known to be dead. The bodies of eight of these have been recovered and it is considered that the fragments of other bodies now in the morgue will account for many more than the twelve dead necessary to make up Superintendent Burns' estimate of twenty. In addition to the comparatively few fragments recovered and sent to the morgue, those who were early on the scene say that many more pieces were discovered which crumbled to powder while they were being removed.

Burns Gives Low Estimate. Superintendent Burns said to the Associated Press tonight that he was unable to tell the exact number of Italian immigrants on train No. 13, but thought that there were not more than a number of passengers on the train and a number of those who were early on the scene dispute this and say the number was nearer eighty. Superintendent Burns has received no report as yet from Ticket Collector Omes of train No. 13, who probably knows more than anyone else the number of Italians on that train.

Coroner Hamilton of Adrian this afternoon impounded a jury and will begin an inquest into the disaster tomorrow morning.

Steps have been taken as yet toward the arrest of Engineer Strong whom Superintendent Burns says is responsible for the collision.

Give Dead as One Hundred. The official list of the dead given to the local papers shows the names of but ten dead and forty-eight injured, but Detroit newspaper men, who were at the scene of the wreck and talked with survivors of both trains, make the official list does not bear out the statements of those who were early on the scene of the accident.

The Free Press tomorrow will say that the loss of life was, in round numbers, 100, and that the number of injured was 50. The Italian immigrants on train No. 13 bear out this claim. These immigrants say that there were about 125 of their nationality on the train and that only about twenty-five of them escaped. While there are only ten names known to be dead, it is asserted that the other ninety were completely incinerated and that with the removal of the wreckage the bodies crumbled to dust, which was scattered by the winds. If the names of these dead are ever known it will be when friends make inquiry for them and in many instances this seems highly improbable.

One Eyewitness to Wreck. A Tribune staff correspondent, writing of the scenes about the wreck, says:

"Only one man was found who was an eyewitness to the collision. A. W. Ely, an old man 70 years of age, residing at Seneca, stood at the depot platform and saw No. 13 go by. He watched the train as it came down the level track to destruction. His attention was arrested by a crash. Then a stream of flame and smoke shot 100 feet into the air. Ely rushed to the wreck and was the first outsider on the ground. According to his statement the scene was one of awful horror.

"When I got there the immigrant car was already on fire and the shrieks were terrible. I got hold of one man in the collapsed car and pulled him out. He was horribly injured and his legs were broken. He died almost as soon as I got him out of the car. Then I went to the burning cars and what I saw made me wish I had never gone to the wreck."

The old man covered his face with his hands. "I don't believe more than fifteen of the Italians got out of the wrecked car, for I saw very few. Those who could get out rushed around like crazy men, calling to heaven for protection and weeping and walking in their horror. Those poor Italians! Nothing could be done to save them and we were simply compelled to let them burn."

Considerable light was thrown on the cause of the disaster by the orders which the conductor of No. 13 showed as his authority for proceeding past Sand Creek. The order, which was delivered to the train at Holloway, read as follows:

Order No. 23. Trains No. 13 and 14—No. 4 engine 609 will meet No. 13 at Seneca, and hoist red engine 522 at Sand Creek. Engines No. 13 and 14 will double-head No. 13.

TERRY SEES HIS WATERLOO

"Young Corbett" Knecks Out McGovern in Cyclonic Second Round.

VICIOUS RIGHT HOOK THE DECISIVE BLOW

McGovern, the Once Invincible Champion, Too Slow for Denver Lad, and Loses the Battle Within Six Minutes.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 28.—Knocked out in the second round of which one minute and forty-four seconds had elapsed, the referee's verdict of the fight between "Young Corbett" and Denver, Colo., and Terry McGovern of Brooklyn, who has held the featherweight championship unflinchingly since he won it from George Dixon eighteen months ago.

Outwitted and outpointed, with a fighter just as fast as himself, McGovern had to lower his colors this afternoon at the Nutmeg Athletic club to "Young Corbett" within six minutes from the start of the fight.

"Young Corbett," who outside of ring parlance is known as Billy Rothwell of Denver, Colo., got the better of the champion in less than five rounds of fighting and he did it so perfectly that he has no doubt about it. The shock to the New York enthusiasts who crowded the boxing pavilion when the little champion was knocked out in the second round was a repetition of the disappointment exhibited by the admirers of Sullivan when Corbett defeated him in New Orleans.

Terry Not Past Enough. Terry was an fit as the proverbial fiddle, but he was not fast enough for his man. From the word "go" the lads went at each other like gamecocks and it looked as if either would go out in the first round. McGovern got the worst of the opening round in his endeavor to get in left himself in an open several times.

Corbett just stood off McGovern on every lead and trick, but the little Brooklyn boy went on as if there were nothing to it but the winner's end of the purse. When McGovern was knocked down in the opening round there were some who thought he was a backer, but his wonderful recuperative powers were equal to the occasion and he was on his feet within seven seconds.

However, his downfall seemed to take it out of McGovern, but he fought the round in clever style and tried hard to stem the tide of defeat which seemed to be against him. He tried all his rusing work, which proved so profitable on former occasions, but Corbett met his every curve and countered hard on neck, jaw and head.

When Terry came back to his corner at the end of the first round he was the toughest guy I ever met, but I'll lick him just as soon as I see an opening." That opening did not come very handily for the New York boy, as the little Denver pugilist had then taken his measure.

Rushes Like Wild Man. Down went Terry again in the second round and when he got up quickly he charged like a wild man. He was in a lack of self-restraint and in a burst of bad temper hit out left and right irrespective of all rules and usages. These tactics apparently were just what Corbett was looking for. Terry was mixing things up with wild punches and throwing science to the winds.

It was always a fight at this stage, but Terry fell into a trap as Corbett feinted and sent his right out when McGovern was side-stepping. This blow just grazed McGovern's head, but a moment later Corbett feinted again and after he had feinted sent his right over to the jaw and Terry went down and out. While the fallen champion was frantically trying to regain his feet the crowd yelled madly.

Wins on His Merits. The referee declared that the young Denver lad had won.

He had won on his merits, as he took charge for himself. Terry was crestfallen after he returned to his dressing room. He said: "Well, you can't tell how things can be accounted for. I hope to make another match with Corbett and I am more than confident he will not be able to put it over me again."

"Young Corbett" was very demure when he emerged from his dressing room. At first he was reluctant to talk, but finally said:

"I was sure I could beat McGovern and my opinion was based on what I had seen and heard of him. I was sure I had him from the first punch, but I was not headed all through. When I began to sting him he lost his head and when he lost his head it was all over. I had him right there and with a right swinging uppercut I landed the blow which won the battle."

"Young Corbett" will remain here for some days. Dave Sullivan was one of the first to send a challenge to the winner as soon as Charlie White, the referee, announced his decision.

CRAZY SNAKE IS UNRULY

Leader of Recent Creek Rebellion Causes More Trouble in the Council.

GUTHRIE, Okl., Nov. 28.—A special to the Capital from Tulsa, I. T., says:

Crazy Snake, who led the rebellion last spring against the government, is causing the Creek council much trouble. The Snake band will send a strong delegation to Washington to protest against the dealing of Creek lands.

A joint resolution was passed unanimously today by both houses of the Creek council, demanding that deeds be issued immediately and that Oklahoma be admitted as a state.

Chief Porter will probably sign the resolution to Secretary Hitchcock. The delay has caused widespread discontent. The treaty of last May promised deeds immediately and the Indians only ask justice.

Nebraska University 18, Haskell Indians 10. (From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Eighteen to ten was the result of the game which gave the Cornhuskers the championship of the states of Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri this afternoon.

It was a spectacular and fiercely fought contest. Throughout the first half the Indian braves kept piling over the Nebraska line and the playing was all one-inopportune fumbles and ineffectual decisions in their favor. In the second half the Nebraska players were admitted superior to that of the Nebraska.

But there was a decisive change in the second half and in whirlwind fashion the Cornhuskers smashed the Indians' strong defense for long and sensational gains. Pillsbury, Bell and Bender each crossed the line for a touchdown and three goals were kicked by Drain.

The Indians showed marvelous strength in the first half and in the single department was Nebraska's only weak point. Comparatively little distance was made around the ends, but on straight line bucking most of the ground was made.

The game was one of the most stirring and exciting exhibitions of football ever witnessed on the Nebraska campus. It meant much to both teams and both fought with a determination seldom seen.

Tonight the champions are being banqueted at the Lincoln hotel by the University Athletic board. The event today is the climax of the most successful season ever experienced by a Nebraska team and the hospitality of the board knows no restrictions against the men who carried the scarlet and cream on to victory.

Nebraska Wins Toss. Nebraska won the toss and at 2:35 the pigskin was carried into the center of the field for a kickoff of thirty-five yards by Drain. The Indians who caught the ball was downed in his track, but in the first play the Cornhuskers were backed down the field for a distance of three yards.

On the second down the Nebraska recovered the ball on a fumble and then began a series of terrific and effective line bucks and end runs, but in the first attempt the distance gained was but slight. Then five yards was gained through the Indians' left end. The playing of both teams was fast and furious, but the Indians took a decided brace against the Cornhuskers' onslaught.

The Cornhuskers, who kept gaining steadily, but an unlucky fumble lost the ball to the visitors and Nebraska was again on the defensive, ten yards from the center of the field, and in the Indians' territorial.

Across Nebraska's Goal Line. The ball was carried a short distance over the center line and failing to get distance in two downs the Indians made a long punt, low but swift, straight down the field and across Nebraska's goal line. Pillsbury, who was playing far back of the Nebraska line, was hot after the ball, but missed it by several yards, and it sped on its course untouched. A Nebraska man caught it, however, and made a touchback.

The ball was kicked back forty yards, and falling to get distance on downs a goal from the field was attempted by Falls, the Indian right half, resulting successfully. The ball passed directly between the posts and was as clean a goal as was ever seen on the Nebraska field, but the Indians were upon him and he was downed after advancing a few yards.

Nebraska kicked off into the Indians' territory, but recovered the ball through a fumble's always reliable and effective double-pass trick was put into operation. Drain took the ball and was far around the Indians' right end before they had recovered from the surprise, gaining about twenty yards by the maneuver. The rosters and all the spectators jostled in a tumultuous manner and the Cornhuskers came quickly into position again to continue the advance.

But ill luck again played havoc with them. A fumble gave an Indian the ball and a clear field, but he was downed after a short run. Again the Indian got around Nebraska's right end for a gain of ten yards, but the next two downs failed to give the Indians any headway and a punt for sixty yards was made, taking the ball twenty-five yards into the Nebraska territory. Drain caught it, but the Indians were upon him and he was downed after advancing a few yards.

Goal Again in Danger. Still another fumble, this one by Bell, gave the redmen the ball and it was carried ten yards nearer the Nebraska goal. On the next down the Indians were penalized ten yards for offside, leaving the ball twenty-five yards directly in front of the goal. Bain, the Indian right tackle, was given the ball and kicked a clear goal from the field, which brought the score up to 10 points.

Nebraska again kicked off from the center and the down which resulted was successfully the Indians kicked forty-five yards into the Nebraska territory, but were penalized the entire distance for holding, thus bringing the ball back to the point where the punt was made. The Cornhuskers partially regained their lost spirits, straightened up their defense, and forced the Indians to resort to punting, which gave the Nebraska, the ball just beyond the center of the field, but in their own territory.

Pillsbury went straight through the solid line of redmen for a gain of five yards. For the first time since the struggle began an Indian was injured, but after a sympathetic

HELD FOR LINCOLN MURDER C. E. Heywood Arrested at Havelock in Connection with John J. Gillilan's Death.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Detective Malone tonight arrested C. E. Heywood at Havelock on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of John J. Gillilan. The man's name was the charge of burglary, but it is announced that the county attorney will assume control of the case tomorrow and file the necessary complaint to bring him to trial if he thinks the evidence at hand will justify him in so doing.

According to the story told by the police Heywood and a man named George Arnold arrived in Lincoln two days before the murder and engaged a room in a downtown tenement. They frequented saloons and other resorts and were seen in company with the night burglar, Arnold was arrested and kept in jail six days, but he denied any knowledge of the affair. His pal, Heywood, escaped arrest and the police have been on his trail ever since. The evidence against Arnold was slight and he was released.

Arnold and Heywood have both served terms in the penitentiary. The former is a civil war veteran and the latter a young man of 28, for a short time a mechanic employed in the Havelock shops.

"The Gillilan murder is solved," said Detective Malone, "and the legal authorities now have the case in their own hands. I do not know what course the county attorney will pursue, but I presume a complaint will be filed charging Heywood with murder. We don't know where Arnold is and don't care. I believe that Heywood is the man responsible for the crime."

Arnold was surprised by the detective while he was visiting relatives at Havelock. He was told he was wanted on a burglary charge and no mention was made of the real burglar, who was against him. The police authorities insist that the murder of Gillilan was the result of an attempted holdup and have worked on this theory practically to the exclusion of all others.

CROWD AND EVENT ARE SENSATIONAL

Four Thousand Enthusiasts Cheer Double-Headed Afternoon's Sport, Which Merits the Warmest Support.

Omaha High School 11, Genoa Indians 6. Creighton University 6, Lincoln Medics 0. Four thousand people voiced their exultation at the double victory of Omaha foot ball teams at Young Men's Christian Association park yesterday and the youth of the city was loose in wild demonstration last night, for both the teams of local gridiron athletes had won and the dual achievement was one to be duly celebrated.

Six to 0 was the score by which the Creighton university team defeated the Lincoln Medics, and the Omaha High school lads were victorious over the Genoa Indians by a score of 11 to 6. The fact that both games were so close helped to make the occasion most memorable in Omaha foot ball circles.

It was a great crowd that attended this, the culminating event of the foot ball season for the two big Omaha teams—great every particular. The grandstand was packed, both sides of the field and both ends were a mass of spectators, behind the crowd on the north side were many carriages and to top it all the row of high trees just outside and to the east were bent over earthward under a load of youthful human form. Both games were so close that every sympathizing heart was on a strain till the close. Not till the last half minute of play did the High school boys snatch a victory and there was but one touchdown and a goal between the Creighton team and the doctors when time was called.

Proceedings Are Businesslike. Probably the most commendable feature of the entire contest, because of its novelty, was the smoothness with which the machinery of the management worked. A host of Omahans was out to spend its holiday and the time was not exhausted with futile quibblings and delays in getting started. Both sides of the field and both ends were a mass of spectators, behind the crowd on the north side were many carriages and to top it all the row of high trees just outside and to the east were bent over earthward under a load of youthful human form. Both games were so close that every sympathizing heart was on a strain till the close. Not till the last half minute of play did the High school boys snatch a victory and there was but one touchdown and a goal between the Creighton team and the doctors when time was called.

Just before the game occurred a little incident that was one of the most interesting of the afternoon. An open carriage entered the gate and rolled up along the north side of the field. In it sat a boy with dark curling hair and a rather pale face. It was a long career across that field, but the eyes of the Omaha fans were riveted on the grandstand were keen enough for it, and it did not take them long to herald the visitor.

"Correll! Correll! Correll!" they screamed and in a moment the whole field had taken up the cry. It was indeed, the High school halfback, sufficiently recovered to attend the last game of the season and see his teammates victorious for the last time. From then on "What's the matter with Correll?" was an often voiced as any other slogan, and the response always came with a will. The boy's father and mother were with him.

Of all the forty-seven players who struggled and strained on the field there was just one man who stood out from all the rest as of plainly different class and clay. Many stars there were, with which the High school halfback, sufficiently recovered to attend the last game of the season and see his teammates victorious for the last time. From then on "What's the matter with Correll?" was an often voiced as any other slogan, and the response always came with a will. The boy's father and mother were with him.

Porter is a Good Indian. Porter is not so big, for many of his mates are larger. He weighs only 150 pounds with his foot ball to
