

YIELD NOT TO TEMPTATION

Chancellor Andrews Discusses Subject at First Baptist Church.

CHARACTER STRONGER FOR RESISTING

Example of Christ cited in refusing to Rule the World He Rules Sons of Men Throughout the Ages.

The earthly is often good, and may be of God, but when it stands in the light of the heavenly, then to yield to it is sin.

But it does not follow that this holds true with all men. Some turn away from temptation and are still good.

For instance, when Satan tempted Christ to become ruler of the world, what an opening it was for Him.

FIRST FEAST OF CHURCH YEAR

Elaborate Musical and Ritualistic Service in Celebration of Feast of Immaculate Conception.

With the ceremony for which the church is famous, the first feast of the ecclesiastical year, the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary was observed at St. Philomena's cathedral Sunday morning.

The music was especially fine, selections being rendered from several masses to make a significant musical program for the occasion.

Rev. P. A. McGovern, pastor of the parish, was celebrant of the mass, assisted by Rev. J. F. Stritch, R. J. deacon, and Rev. J. W. Stroman, sub-deacon.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Stritch, who, in opening, told of the Catholic dogma of the immaculate conception.

"Sorrow came to her and she was tried even as in fire, but at no time did she contemplate that which would take her from the most intimate and loving association with the Lord, her son, and with his father."

Continuing the speaker said that the glory of God, reflected in the life of Mary, would be the guide of the faithful until the end of time. She was not immortal, the death

WHY WANDER IN THE DESERT

Like Caleb of Old Go Up and Take Possession of Promised Land.

At the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening the pastor, Rev. Edward Jenks, preached on the theme, "Kadesh-Barnea," saying in part:

"You know the story of the Jews—their visit to Egypt and their sufferings there. Four hundred years of servitude have crushed them to the ground."

"During their wanderings from Egypt they had received many marks of the watchfulness of God. At Kadesh-Barnea he caused them to wander in the desert. Here their faith failed them."

But it does not follow that this holds true with all men. Some turn away from temptation and are still good.

For instance, when Satan tempted Christ to become ruler of the world, what an opening it was for Him.

"Paul tells us that all the scriptures are inspired and that they are all profitable. There is nothing in the scriptures which is not worthy of the careful thought of men who would follow in the steps of the Great Leader."

"In this age we have men who are so learned that they believe themselves capable of picking out the portions of the scriptures which are inspired. Such leaders are not worthy of followers."

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Messrs. Although agreeing that the demand of Dr. Timm was unwarranted the officers realized that prompt action was necessary to restore confidence in the Buffalo tournament.

Arrangements were also made to have a meeting of the officers of the American Bowling Congress officials at the active management of the tournament.

HELP FOR THE WORKING GIRL Branch of the Friendly Society Conducts Services at Trinity Cathedral.

At Trinity cathedral last night Miss Emily Paddock of Boston, vice president and general secretary of the American branch of the "Girls' Friendly Society," who has come to Omaha for the purpose of establishing an arm of that organization here, spoke on the history, the intents and the results of the society.

The lecture was preceded by special music, the service, conducted by Bishop Williams, Dean Fair and Dr. Mackay, being closed instead of a solo by Miss Hungate was another feature.

Miss Paddock detailed the beginning of the Friendly society. It was organized in London twenty-seven years ago under the auspices of the archbishop of Canterbury.

The first meeting being held in his palace, Mrs. Townsend was the moving spirit, she prompted to this action by an appeal from a poverty-stricken and working girl dying in a hospital that the working girls and poverty-stricken ones be aided and their lives made brighter.

The object of the society is not to rescue work, but the establishment of amity and comrad assistance and friendship between working girls and those who cannot find work.

In two years there were 30,000 members in Great Britain, and then the organization began to spread to all parts of the world where the English church is found. Two years ago it came to America, Miss Edson starting a branch in Lowell, Mass. Now the different arms stretch across this continent, being in every division in the United States and all over Canada as well as Asia, Africa and Australia, together with Australia, are now included.

By means of this society any girl can carry credentials from one place to another and be certain of a welcome and aid and good friends in her new home. This class is not the only one included, however, many of the girls of the highest station in England being new members to help the work along.

JEWELRY WORN BY MEN Waistcoat Buttons, Bracelets, Rings and Studs.

The wearing of jewelry by men has recently been attracting the attention of Londoners, who have learned that this form of luxury has very much spread among Englishmen lately. The fashion is observed there in the same way in which it has shown itself in New York.

The use of expensive buttons for waistcoats is the most marked way in which the new fashion is seen here, reports the New York Sun. The buttons are made to match the shirt studs and cuff buttons, except when pearls are worn, in which case moonstones and occasionally opals are substituted. In the case of sapphires, opals, garnets and similar stones the cuff buttons, shirt studs and waistcoat buttons are all alike. Turquoises are also worn to considerable extent by men today, although formerly they were rarely used as a part of a man's dress. Their use is due to the fact that a complete set may be had for a sum not too great for a man to spend on such ornaments.

The great increase in the number of bracelets worn by Englishmen is attributed to the war in South Africa, whither went many men engaged to be married wearing a bracelet put on the left arm by the young woman as a kind of engagement ring before the war separated them. This style of ornament for a man has never become popular here in spite of the attempts made from time to time to prove that it is not in the least effeminate. The German emperor is known to wear a bracelet put on his arm and locked by his wife, and married men in England who wear bracelets are supposed actually to have had them from the same source.

The bracelets are usually made of silver and can be so worn as not to fall over the wrist, but to keep well out of the street cars. The jewelry here used to keep some of these silver chains in stock but the demand for them was so slight that they are to be had in only a few shops except as the result of a particular order. Many of the foreigners who come here wear bracelets and there are always a number of expatriates of the fashion among the singers at the Metropolitan. One man who wore a thick chain of gold when he came here removed it after a while when he was out in the streets. He was especially averse to wearing it in the street cars, as the women who saw it were rarely able to restrain their curiosity within reasonable limits. It always created a sensation? One New Yorker always wears a gold bracelet studded with turquoises, but he is generally able to keep it out of sight in his sleeve.

London dealers also say that the demand for men's rings has increased 50 per cent in the last three years, but it is certain that no similar growth in the fashion has been noticed here. The number of men's rings is an item of his dress that is limited here by good taste.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The international six-day bicycle team began today in Madison Square Garden at midnight. William "Bobby" Walthour, known in the pugilistic world as "Young Corbett," started the men.

The sixteen teams that will fight for a total of $100,000 in prize money are: England; Fisher and Chevalier, France; Lepoutre and Miller, Belgium; Wiltz, Belgium; Switz and Kerf and Drock, Belgium; Varnstedt and Franks, Germany; Freeman and Murray, Sweden; Bawley and McLean, Scotland; Newkirk and Munro, southern; McEachern and Walthour, American; McFarland and Freeman, California; King and Samuelson, Utah; Mays and Wilson, Pennsylvania; Haberer and Jones, Cleveland, Ohio.

The teams were divided as follows: First, $1,000; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $500; fifth, $500; sixth, $500. Each of the six teams will ride twelve hours a day. "Bobby" Walthour and Archie McEachern of the Pan-American team, and the French pair, Gougoltz and Miller, will be the main attraction. Wiltz and Kerf, and Kerf and Drock, will also be the main attraction.

The start was delayed until after midnight by the fact that the American team, Freeman and Gougoltz, had dropped back and had come up again and followed Freeman closely. Murray and Bawley, and McLean and Jones of Cleveland withdrew.

At 1 o'clock the fifteen teams each had a score of 24 miles 64 laps. They were riding closely bunched. At 2 o'clock all of the teams except two had made 48 miles 4 laps. Walthour was slightly in the lead.
