Counsel for Doyle says that the mistake made by the jury in answering the special interrogatories will not affect the verdict and Mr. Baldwin was willing to accept the finding as it was first presented without being amended on reinstructions from the court.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the jury asked for further instructions and was brought into the courtroom. It wanted to box papers, stationery and bric-a-brac, know if it could find for the plaintiff on any one or more of the claims without bringing in a verdict on all of them. The court informed it that it could. This was taken to indicate that the jury had decided on a verdict for the plaintiff, but had not settled as to the amount. The case has been a recordbreaker in this section of the country for the length of time consumed in its trial, six weeks of the term having been occupied to the practical exclusion of all other business. The expenses have been unusually large, as both sides have had an army of witnesses here from Colorado and other points. A notable feature of the great case and the one of particular interest locally was the powerful and dramatically eloquent closing argument made by Mr. J. N. Baldwin. Even counsel on the other side were forced to admit it was one of the most brilliant and forcible arguments they had ever heard presented to a jury. Before 1,000 sporting enthusiasts James

Jeffries, champion prize fighter of the world, showed how vast and yet how agile and active he was at the Trocadero lat-night. By ducking and dedging the futile swings of his brother Jack for four short swings of his brother Jack for four short rounds and being siways ready with lead or counter the champion elicited round after round of hearty applaise. A speech was clamored for both before and after the match, but Jeffries said he was 'too strong,' and then proceeded to bat playfully around the stage the admirers who had thronged there to shake hands and get a closer view of the limmense muscles and superb figure of the man.

Jeffries will be in Omaha till next Tuesday, when he goes to Kansas City to give an exhibition on Christmas day. A battle royal and three preliminary hours preceded the appearance of the champion last royal and three preliminary bouts ceded the appearance of the champion last

Then Terry Mustain put out Sandy Morris in the second round with a lefthand jab to the jaw. These boys were welterweights and also Omahans. The last preliminary was between Paul Murray, colored, and Tom Harl. The latter weighed 180 pounds to Murray's 155, but he went to the mat in the second round clear out from an uppercut on the jaw. The battle royal between five colored men was won by Tom North, he and his final opponent both being so weak that they could only stand up by lenning against each other, when Tom being the heavier, the other man fell down from sheer force of weight.

MICHIGAN MEN DISAPPOINT Famous Foot Ball Team Falls to Arrive in Omaha When Expected.

The University of Michigan foot ball

The University of Michigan foot ball team did not come through Omaha on its way to California last night as had been expected. A sturdy band of loyal Ann Arbor alumin in Omaha was at Union station to meet Northwestern train No. 5, due here at 11:10, but the enthusiastic former Wolverines were doomed to disappointment. The train did not arrive till midnight, and then the phenomenal team that has made 512 points in a single season of foot bail did not materialize.

Michigan is to play Stanford university at Pasadena, Cal. New Years day, and the team left Ann Arbor Friday for Chicago, where the men stopped off. They were scheduled to leave the Windy city Saturday morning and this plan was hersalded by the newspapers far and wide. The Northwestern-Union Pacific Overland route was the one chosen, so the fact that the team did not pass through Omaha makes it plain that the gridiron warriors remained over in Chicago longer than they expected. They have time and to spare before the game, anyway.

The change in plans, however, was a sore disappointment to the Michigan men who awaited the team here. Coach Auck of the Haskell Indian team and C. 15. Mc-Donald, both former Wolverine players, were in the party, and say they will meet every train till the team oomes through. has already secured the pledge of many lantic in this fight, while a large number of others, while not pledged, have expressed themselves as pleased with Atlantic as a Buena Vista Smelting company's plant was DENVER, Dec. 21.—Representatives of western oil companies have decided to establish an oil exchange in this city and as a preliminary step a convention is to be held here on January 8 next for the purpose of organizing the Western Oil exchange.
