

RECEPTION OF PRINCE HENRY

Series of Elaborate Public Entertainments on His Visit to America.

TO RECEIVE SALUTE OF TWENTY-ONE GUNS

He Is an Admiral in the German Navy He Will Be Greeted the Same as President Upon Arrival.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—During this week plans will be considered for the reception of Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia, the brother of Kaiser Wilhelm, who will land here next month to witness the launching of the Kaiser's new yacht. The prospect now is that from the arrival of the prince in New York waters will date a series of public receptions, fêtes and kindly greetings of an international character such as have been paralleled in this country only during the visit of the prince of Wales, now king of England, forty years ago and when a welcome was extended eleven years later to the Grand Duke Alexis, brother of the czar of Russia.

Many German-American citizens, including Jacob A. Caster, president of the borough of Manhattan, and former Mayor Schieren of Brooklyn today discussed plans for the prince's reception. Mr. Schieren said:

"I think Prince Henry should be welcomed appropriately by the city and the nation, not only because of the graceful courtesy of the Kaiser's inviting Miss Roosevelt to christen his new yacht, but more especially in view of the very pleasant relations existing between the two countries. Whatever the German-American citizens may decide to do will be done in co-operation with the city at large."

Plans in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The announcement that Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of Emperor William, will come to the United States at an early date already has caused much interesting speculation as to the details of his reception. The program for his entertainment will be an elaborate one, appropriate for his high station.

He will be met at New York by representatives of President Roosevelt. An officer will be detailed from the army and one from the navy to arrange for the convenience of the prince and to accompany him. He is an admiral in the German navy and when he arrives at New York will be greeted by a salute of twenty-one guns, which is the same as a presidential salute. He may make an address at the launching of the imperial yacht, which is to be christened by Miss Roosevelt, and it is not improbable that President Roosevelt may attend the launching and respond to the prince's address.

Guest of the Nation.

On his arrival in Washington Prince Henry will be received by the president and will be invited to become the guest of the nation. Whether he will care to accept this invitation or to stay at the German embassy is not known. His call upon the president will be returned in person by Mr. Roosevelt, who will invite him to a dinner where there will also be the most prominent men of the country. Everything will be done to make Prince Henry's visit a pleasant and memorable one.

The imperial yacht Hohenzollern will also be given a cordial reception. It is possible that the north Atlantic squadron may find its itinerary cut short and that it will be ordered to leave the port at sea, commanding it to port and take its share in doing honor to the prince of Prussia.

A gripe cough often continues for months and sometimes lead to fatal results after the patient is supposed to have passed the danger point. Foley's Honey and Tar afford positive protection and security from these coughs.

DEATH OF GOULD P. DIETZ

Well Known Citizen Passes Away Suddenly—Funeral to Be This Afternoon.

Gould P. Dietz, for eighteen years a resident of Omaha and engaged in business here much of that time, died suddenly of heart failure Saturday evening at his home, 1902 North Twenty-eighth street. Mr. Dietz had been ailing for ten days previous to his death, but the end was not expected at that time. His illness had not been so serious as to confine him constantly, as he had been in the down town office of his sons as late as Friday, feeling fairly well at the time. During the entire ten days, however, considerable physical weakness and palpitation of the heart had indicated trouble with that organ. His death resulted immediately after a severe coughing spell.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the First Methodist church, and will follow at Fremont Hill cemetery. Rev. D. K. Tindall of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church and Rev. J. W. Jennings, presiding elder of this district, will officiate, owing to the absence from the city of Rev. A. C. Hirst of the First Methodist church, of which Mr. Dietz was a member.

Mr. Dietz leaves a wife, three sons and two daughters, all of whom are now in Omaha. Gould Dietz and C. N. Dietz are in business in this city, and J. F. Dietz, with his wife, hurried in from their home at Aurora, Colo., Saturday night. Mrs. E. M. Stickney of Minneapolis, a daughter, arrived with her husband Sunday morning. The other daughter, Mrs. E. A. Nelson of Philadelphia, chanced to be in Omaha visiting her parents at the time. Mr. Nelson will be unable to come.

Gould P. Dietz was 74 years of age. He was a pioneer in the west, having come to Anamosa, Ia., from his birthplace at Ontario, N. Y., at a time when there were no railroads west of Davenport, Ia. From Anamosa he came to Omaha, and his entire life was devoted to a business career.

MAY BE A DELIVERY POINT

Rumor that Branch of Commissary Department of Army is to be Established Here.

Officers of the army at Omaha profess to know nothing of the establishment of a delivery depot at Omaha for cured meats intended for the army in the Philippines, rumor of which has been received from Washington. In former times Omaha houses have received contracts for the delivery of much of this meat, but it has been delivered to the government at other cities, the most of it going to Kansas City, but a considerable part has been delivered in this city and they say that they can see little change to be made by the new order if it is issued.

Omaha has, without a general order upon the subject, become a distributing station for quartermaster supplies intended for the Philippines and the western posts, and the change in the order of the commissary department may place it in the same condition with respect to that department of the service.

When Colonel John M. Pullman came to Omaha he found that the quartermaster's depot in this city was practically unoccupied; that some of the rooms were filled with useless articles fit only for condemnation. While this depot was practically empty the government was piling up stores at Jeffersonville, Ind., Philadelphia and other eastern cities, paying high rent for buildings used as warehouses. On the recommendation of the quartermaster the rooms at Omaha were cleaned out, much of the useless stuff being sold or destroyed, and the buildings were filled with materials for the use of the army.

At this time there is at the depot all sorts of quartermaster's supplies, such as are required by the troops in the Philippines and the west. The supplies here are held as emergency stores. Regular supplies, which are made for officers or ordinary troops, are filled from the regular storerooms, but where orders for immediate delivery are received, the Omaha stock is drawn upon and the space thus vacated filled at the convenience of the department.

The result of this change has been a saving in freight charges and an earlier delivery of supplies. With this experience of the department, say officers at headquarters, it would not be surprising if the commissioners general would not follow the steps of the quartermaster general and make Omaha a distributing point at least for rations where the demand may be urgent and the delivery required to be immediate.

EQUALS ROUND TRIP TO MOON

Total of J. G. Conrad's Mileage is Nearly Half Million, Used in Forty Years.

"If astronomers are right in their estimates and if I had traveled in the right direction since I took the road I would have been to the moon and back by this time," declared J. G. Conrad of Chicago at the Ille Grand hotel yesterday.

"My mathematical computation is simple. I have been a traveling salesman for forty years and have used an average of 12,000 miles of mileage per year. That makes a total of 480,000 miles, and the distance to the moon is said to be only 240,000 miles. Still, I am glad I didn't go up there, for there is no telling what kind of trade I might have found, while here in Nebraska I have a sure thing. It is a fact that the credit of the merchants of this state averages up with the credit of the merchants of any state in the union."

The Mexicans say that the Chileans understand their demand that the compulsory plan shall not be reported to the conference, and they drop all sorts of mysterious hints about what they will do if it is. The Chileans base their claims not only on the general understanding that nothing disagreeable to Chile was to be discussed by the conference, but upon the alleged verbal and specific promise made to their minister, Bellococido, in an interview, by Hon. Ignacio Mariscal, minister of foreign relations of the Mexican government, that the subject of compulsory arbitration should not be brought up.

The Mexicans say that the Chileans misunderstand the real import of this interview. Nevertheless, at the present time it looks as if the Chileans were going to have their way, though it is impossible to make any certain forecast. If the Argentines and their friends withdraw they will all march assembly so do during the course of the present week. No one here can clearly understand why the Chileans should not take the same stand as the United States in this matter, viz., refrain from having anything to do with the compulsory treaty, but allow those who want to sign it full liberty to do so.

Preserve Archaeological Monuments.

The committee on general welfare has adopted the resolutions of Mr. Foster of the United States and Senor Chaves of Mexico, looking to the preservation of archaeological monuments in the countries of America. The resolutions are as follows:

Whereas, There exists in the territory of the republics represented in this conference archaeological, anthropological and ethnological remains of inestimable value, which are threatened by the forces of vandalism are effacing and destroying; therefore, be it,

Resolved, That this conference recommends to the respective republics represented, that an International American archaeological commission be created, the members of which shall be appointed by the respective governments, and that the government thus represented shall defray the expenses of its commissioner or commissioners for the expense of travel, and in contemplated and for the publication of the report of said commission shall be proportioned to the number of members in the same manner as now in force for the support of the Bureau of American Republics; that the organization of the American archaeological commission shall be in charge of the Bureau of American Republics; that the commission shall meet at least once a year, and shall be open to the government of each of the republics which shall be represented by a sub-commission, charged especially with the work of exploration or other duties.

Morgan is the man who tried the same plan with Dr. George Tilden, president of the Board of Insanity Commissioners, after his conviction and before the judge sentence him, and the doctor concluded that his subject was weak-minded, but not so foolish as he sought to prove. In attempting to convince the physician that his mind was a blank Morgan went too far and declared that he didn't know whether he was 10 years old or 150 years old, nor whether he had two children or twenty children. The genuine victim of dementia, the expert says, is in many things quite rational and is not prone to make such statements as does Morgan. The latter's face is pale and his appearance somewhat haggard, and his eyes retain their normal appearance.

Morgan, the man who tried the same plan with Dr. George Tilden, president of the Board of Insanity Commissioners, after his conviction and before the judge sentence him, and the doctor concluded that his subject was weak-minded, but not so foolish as he sought to prove. In attempting to convince the physician that his mind was a blank Morgan went too far and declared that he didn't know whether he was 10 years old or 150 years old, nor whether he had two children or twenty children. The genuine victim of dementia, the expert says, is in many things quite rational and is not prone to make such statements as does Morgan. The latter's face is pale and his appearance somewhat haggard, and his eyes retain their normal appearance.

GOES TO THE THIRD HOUSE

C. W. Miller Leaves for Washington to Promote Bills of Letter Carriers' Association.

C. W. Miller of South Omaha, a member of the executive committee of the National Letter Carriers' association, leaves this week for Washington to attend a meeting of the committee. The association has secured the introduction of several bills in congress designed to improve the condition of the letter carriers and to promote the efficiency of the service.

The letter carriers will be pushed as assiduously as possible. The letter carriers do not maintain a lobby at the national capitol during the sessions of congress, but it has been found desirable to have members of the executive committee present to explain from the standpoint of the employees the probable effect of the legislation proposed.

Memorial Services for McKinley.

Clarke L. Thurston, who is secretary of the United States legation at Buenos Aires, sends The Bee a copy of a memorial petition containing a full account of the memorial services held in the Argentine capital in memory of the late president. The services were attended by President Roca of Argentina and all the resident diplomatic corps and their wives. The principal and consular corps representing the countries maintaining friendly relations with Argentina were also present. The government took an active interest in the funeral services, which were conducted by the Argentine ambassador. The services were managed by North Americans and English residents there.

Another Man in Zola Case.

Clarke L. Thurston, who is secretary of the United States legation at Buenos Aires, sends The Bee a copy of a memorial petition containing a full account of the memorial services held in the Argentine capital in memory of the late president. The services were attended by President Roca of Argentina and all the resident diplomatic corps representing the countries maintaining friendly relations with Argentina were also present. The government took an active interest in the funeral services, which were conducted by the Argentine ambassador. The services were managed by North Americans and English residents there.

Memorial Services for McKinley.

Clarke L. Thurston, who is secretary of the United States legation at Buenos Aires, sends The Bee a copy of a memorial petition containing a full account of the memorial services held in the Argentine capital in memory of the late president. The services were attended by President Roca of Argentina and all the resident diplomatic corps representing the countries maintaining friendly relations with Argentina were also present. The government took an active interest in the funeral services, which were conducted by the Argentine ambassador. The services were managed by North Americans and English residents there.

GOES TO THE THIRD HOUSE

C. W. Miller Leaves for Washington to Promote Bills of Letter Carriers' Association.

C. W. Miller of South Omaha, a member of the executive committee of the National Letter Carriers' association, leaves this week for Washington to attend a meeting of the committee. The association has secured the introduction of several bills in congress designed to improve the condition of the letter carriers and to promote the efficiency of the service.

The letter carriers will be pushed as assiduously as possible. The letter carriers do not maintain a lobby at the national capitol during the sessions of congress, but it has been found desirable to have members of the executive committee present to explain from the standpoint of the employees the probable effect of the legislation proposed.

Memorial Services for McKinley.

Clarke L. Thurston, who is secretary of the United States legation at Buenos Aires, sends The Bee a copy of a memorial petition containing a full account of the memorial services held in the Argentine capital in memory of the late president. The services were attended by President Roca of Argentina and all the resident diplomatic corps representing the countries maintaining friendly relations with Argentina were also present. The government took an active interest in the funeral services, which were conducted by the Argentine ambassador. The services were managed by North Americans and English residents there.

Another Man in Zola Case.

Clarke L. Thurston, who is secretary of the United States legation at Buenos Aires, sends The Bee a copy of a memorial petition containing a full account of the memorial services held in the Argentine capital in memory of the late president. The services were attended by President Roca of Argentina and all the resident diplomatic corps representing the countries maintaining friendly relations with Argentina were also present. The government took an active interest in the funeral services, which were conducted by the Argentine ambassador. The services were managed by North Americans and English residents there.

GOES TO THE THIRD HOUSE

C. W. Miller Leaves for Washington to Promote Bills of Letter Carriers' Association.

C. W. Miller of South Omaha, a member of the executive committee of the National Letter Carriers' association, leaves this week for Washington to attend a meeting of the committee. The association has secured the introduction of several bills in congress designed to improve the condition of the letter carriers and to promote the efficiency of the service.

The letter carriers will be pushed as assiduously as possible. The letter carriers do not maintain a lobby at the national capitol during the sessions of congress, but it has been found desirable to have members of the executive committee present to explain from the standpoint of the employees the probable effect of the legislation proposed.

Memorial Services for McKinley.

Clarke L. Thurston, who is secretary of the United States legation at Buenos Aires, sends The Bee a copy of a memorial petition containing a full account of the memorial services held in the Argentine capital in memory of the late president. The services were attended by President Roca of Argentina and all the resident diplomatic corps representing the countries maintaining friendly relations with Argentina were also present. The government took an active interest in the funeral services, which were conducted by the Argentine ambassador. The services were managed by North Americans and English residents there.

BECOME TIRED OF DELAYS

Representatives to Pan-American Congress Disappointed by Postponement.

DO NOT FAVOR COMPULSORY ARBITRATION

Chilean Delegates Have Not Abated Their Demand that the Plan Shall Not Be Reported to the Conference.

UNIONS SEEK RECOGNITION

Labor Organizations at St. Louis Confer with Management of Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Iron Hill Property at Carbonate Camp is Being Worked Over.

ORE CARRIES MUCH LEAD AND SILVER

Tailings of Stamp Mill Prove Profitable Under Cyanide Process and Record-Breaker Mine is Reopened.

LEAD, S. D., Jan. 12.—(Special)—Occasional shipments of silver ore are being made from the old Iron Hill mine at Carbonate Camp to Denver. The mine is being worked by W. A. Remer under lease. A number of miners are employed on the 200-foot level, dividing their time between cleaning out the old workings and taking out ore, the former being preliminary to more extensive work. Several new bodies of silver ore have been encountered since Mr. Remer took the lease on the property, the most promising being on the 200-foot level. The ore carries lead as well as silver and has been handily processed by the miners themselves. Mr. Remer has concentrated his machinery at work on the old stamp mill and is shipping the product. During the '80s the Iron Hill was a world-beater as a silver mine. Some of the ore was so rich that the pure metal was found in seams and crevices, so soft that it could be whittled with a knife. The ore was very successfully treated in a stamp mill for several years. The tailings at the old stamp mill have been partially worked over during the last six months by the cyanide process, netting $12,000 in silver.

C. W. Sterns, managing editor of the Building Compendium, official organ of the National Building Trades' council, says that body will hold its annual convention at Worcester, Mass., tomorrow, when he expects action similar to that taken at the Milwaukee meeting last year will be the result. At the Milwaukee meeting, Mr. Sterns said, resolutions were adopted requesting the Building Trades' council of St. Louis to take early action looking to an amicable agreement with the world's fair management. According to Mr. Sterns, the building trades have been concentrating on the 200-foot level. The ore carries lead as well as silver and has been handily processed by the miners themselves. Mr. Remer has concentrated his machinery at work on the old stamp mill and is shipping the product. During the '80s the Iron Hill was a world-beater as a silver mine. Some of the ore was so rich that the pure metal was found in seams and crevices, so soft that it could be whittled with a knife. The ore was very successfully treated in a stamp mill for several years. The tailings at the old stamp mill have been partially worked over during the last six months by the cyanide process, netting $12,000 in silver.

C. W. Sterns, managing editor of the Building Compendium, official organ of the National Building Trades' council, says that body will hold its annual convention at Worcester, Mass., tomorrow, when he expects action similar to that taken at the Milwaukee meeting last year will be the result. At the Milwaukee meeting, Mr. Sterns said, resolutions were adopted requesting the Building Trades' council of St. Louis to take early action looking to an amicable agreement with the world's fair management. According to Mr. Sterns, the building trades have been concentrating on the 200-foot level. The ore carries lead as well as silver and has been handily processed by the miners themselves. Mr. Remer has concentrated his machinery at work on the old stamp mill and is shipping the product. During the '80s the Iron Hill was a world-beater as a silver mine. Some of the ore was so rich that the pure metal was found in seams and crevices, so soft that it could be whittled with a knife. The ore was very successfully treated in a stamp mill for several years. The tailings at the old stamp mill have been partially worked over during the last six months by the cyanide process, netting $12,000 in silver.

C. W. Sterns, managing editor of the Building Compendium, official organ of the National Building Trades' council, says that body will hold its annual convention at Worcester, Mass., tomorrow, when he expects action similar to that taken at the Milwaukee meeting last year will be the result. At the Milwaukee meeting, Mr. Sterns said, resolutions were adopted requesting the Building Trades' council of St. Louis to take early action looking to an amicable agreement with the world's fair management. According to Mr. Sterns, the building trades have been concentrating on the 200-foot level. The ore carries lead as well as silver and has been handily processed by the miners themselves. Mr. Remer has concentrated his machinery at work on the old stamp mill and is shipping the product. During the '80s the Iron Hill was a world-beater as a silver