

An Up-to-date Undertaker and a View of His Chapel Room

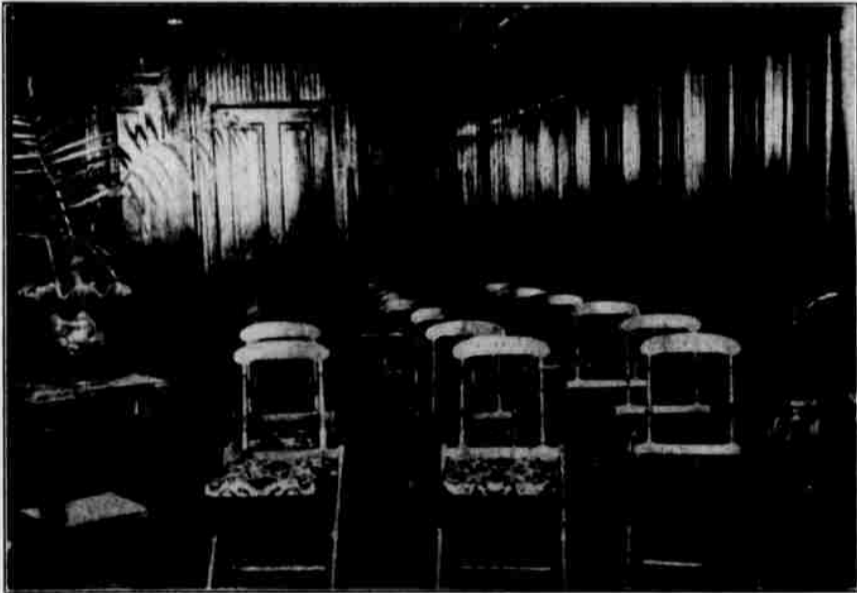

It has been well said that success is the keynote of any business, and it is doubly so of the business of an undertaker, for it is, as a rule, only their success and skill in the taking care of business that has been entrusted to them in the past, upon which their patrons have to judge as to their ability to please them.

Success is and has been for years the foundation of Mr. Burket's business as a funeral director and embalmer, and it is at the present time, and has been in the past, the goal for which he has always striven. What greater success can there be than a man who has proven himself successful in the business of his choice, and who is more entitled to this great honor than he who has always made it the aim of his life to succeed.

H. K. BURKET IN HIS PRIVATE OFFICE.

I suspect if there is one quality more than another that has contributed to Mr. Burket's rise in the business world it has been his ability to grasp new inventions and adapt them to his particular business. An incident some time ago well illustrates this. When automobiles were not so common as now, Mr. Burket received a call from Blair, Neb., and it so happened that there was no train by which he could reach the city in time. Most men would have thought of a livery team, but not so with Mr. Burket, he thought of an automobile instead, and as some of our readers may remember, our staff artist caught him just as he was leaving the city, and it is needless to say that he reached Blair on time and added another success to his long list.

THE CHAPEL ROOM OF HIS UNDERTAKING ESTABLISHMENT, 412 N. 16TH ST.

The old saying, "That a man may be known by his surroundings," holds good with Mr. Burket, as he has supplemented his ability as an undertaker with one of the finest and most complete establishments of its kind to be found in this country, as can be seen in the above illustration of his chapel room, and a short visit to Mr. Burket's business home might well repay any one.

Mr. Burket is at present chairman of the committee on organizations of the National Association of Undertakers, which is one of the most important committees of the organization, and especially so at this time, as there are many of the western states still to be organized. Mr. Burket is at present gathering information regarding these states and will soon begin the work of organization, which will, perhaps, lead him to pay a visit to many of our western states.

For this work Mr. Burket is well adapted, as he was one of the organizers of this state's association and was for some time its president. Besides, his regular attendance of the National association for many years has given him a thorough knowledge of the workings and the benefits to be derived from a membership in the association, and the committee on organization are to be congratulated upon their wise choice of a chairman.

Day Nurseries

The endowment of the cribs and the income from the children's care renders the home about two-thirds self-supporting, the other third being readily made up by contributions from friends and the efforts of the women supporting the organization.

Within a few years after its organization the work had become so extensive that need was felt for a branch Creche to accommodate the women of the north part of the city that found it too far to bring their children to the Harney street home. No sooner was this need recognized than the women set about to supply it, soon raising a considerable sum, though not enough to secure the necessary equipment. In the meantime the work of the Harney street Creche had become so extensive that a remodeling of the building became necessary and it was decided to use all the funds for this purpose. This work has recently been completed, giving to Omaha one of the most complete day nurseries of the west.

During the last year 359 children have been cared for there and though the place has been quarantined once, careful nursing restored all of them.

For some time the kindergarten has been suspended, but it is the hope of the women to reopen this work at some not far distant time and secure it as a permanent feature of the institution.

Through the fourteen years of the nursery's existence Mrs. T. L. Kimball has served as its president and while other workers have come and gone it is still being supported practically by the same women who organized it.

the Municipal hospital, doesn't it?" "That's what it does," said the first one. Sitting next to them was a man who had been taking it all in. At this point he leaned over and said, "Say, when did you fellows get out?" "Only yesterday," loudly remarked one of the kidders. "Is that so?" exclaimed the man. "So did I. What ward were you in?" Well, say, those fellows jumped off the car as though it had been struck by lightning, and you couldn't see their heels for dust."

Vaccination in the Hub

It was at a dinner party, reports the Boston Journal. The bright young man found himself privileged to sit next to the young woman with beautiful arms and neck. He thought himself the most favored personage in the room. Suddenly his fair companion exhibited signs of nervousness. Two of his very best jokes, saved for a special occasion, passed by unnoticed. Her face wore a look of alarm. Apprehensively the young man gazed at her and meeting the look she said:

"I am in misery."
"In misery?" echoed the man.
"Yes," she replied. "I was vaccinated

"Outing" Art Calendar 1902.

WE offer this week the second in our series of beautiful art calendars for 1902. The first, our "Century Girl", may still be had, the second is now ready for distribution. For want of a better name we have decided to call this one "Outing," because that title seems most appropriate to the dainty and artistic drawings. Each plate is from a water color painting by Miss Maude Stamm, and all the delicate shades and artistic atmosphere of the originals have been faithfully reproduced. There is no advertising upon these calendars, nothing more nor less than shown in the illustration herewith except the colors, which are of course impossible of reproduction in a half-tone. We have secured a large number of these calendars, but the demand is steadily increasing and it will be well to send in your orders as early as possible. They will make very attractive and inexpensive gifts and are most appropriate at this season of the year. You cannot secure such calendars at the art stores for several times the price at which these are offered.

THE above half-tone gives but a faint idea of the first page design of the new "Outing" Calendar for 1902. There are two other designs in Miss Stamm's happiest mood, and rather than attempt a description we have given each a name which will convey to you some idea of these clever sketches:

- "The Hunt for Happiness"
- "Landing a Speckled Beauty"
- "Bruin's Fate."

The "Outing" calendar is uniform in size and style with the "Century Girl" and may be had upon the same terms. Don't forget the coupon and don't wait until all are gone before you order. Address
