PREFERS DEATH TO LAWSUIT

His Thront When Shortage

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 28.—A special to the Times from Dawson, January 27, says: rather than suffer arrest for embezzlement. He was a native of Leeds, England. He had been missing for several days, during which a thorough examination was made of his books and a shortage approximating $10,000 was discovered. When confronted with proof of his defalcation he offered no excuse and was cool and collected. When the interview was terminated he excused himself a moment. A second later the officers heard the fall of a body followed by groaning. Middleton had cut his throat from ear to ear.

John Durand was killed in the shaft of the Thirty-five Below mine on Hupker
