The Independent is obstruct, it is expected they will reach the recognized organ of the fusion forces solid stone in one month. and heretofore has strenuously defended former Treasurer Meserve, as well as other sources. It now says:

Ex-State Treasurer Meserve has been indicted for putting into his pocket $10,000 or $15,000 of interest on school money that came into the state treasury. We are glad a muss has been kicked up on that question. The state treasurer's office has been a perpetual home for thieves for thirty years. All the state officers have always stood up and defended everything done by sail the other state officers. We did have one honest deputy for a while, but as soon as he began to criticise the dishonesty of the state house he was kicked out. It has always looked as though the treasurer did not want to invest the school money according to law, but loaned it out and put the interest money in his pocket. We hope and expect Mr. Meserve will clear his pocket. The balance of the state board seemed to sanction the course and undoubtedly received a part of the interest money. Before the law was made requiring the treasurer to put the state money into banks with bonded security the treasurer never had any money in the fund on which any warrant was presented. There was always someone there to cash the warrant at a discount—then after dark the money would come out of the treasury. The fusionists had an opportunity to correct those wrongs, but they did not do it. They run things too much the same old way. Railroad passes were just as flush as ever. They would ride on a pass and then charge the state 3 cents per mile for doing it, under the head of expenses. Men were installed in office who gambled and drank so much that they were disqualified for tending a sawmill. There were many black spots in the fusion administration.

New Turn on Police Board. In connection with the Omaha Fire and Police board controversy the point has been raised that if the law authorizing the governor to make the appointment is upheld by the supreme court Governor Savage will not, even then, have a legal right to name an entirely new board. It is contended that the board named by former Governor Poynter early in the year 1900 would be revived if the appointing power is again placed in the governor's hands. The board named by Governor Poynter consisted of H. for a term of one

> As to the statements of facts, he said, that in the year 1895, the reservation being of Kearney. S. A. D. Henlin also made an no longer needed for military purposes, an order of abandonment was made and the reservation turned over to the secretary of the interior.

"These abandonments occurred several years after Boyd county was organized. Congress in disposing of the lands within the reservation provided that the oddnumbered sections therein would be disposed of to actual settlers only, and that the pier of concrete on the calsson as it is the state of Nebraska would be allowed being sunk in the water is being pushed at to make indemnity selection for the purpose of purchasing lands to cover the losses sustained by the state from the Claim Prior Settlement.

"Prior to the passage of the act of congress restoring the lands in the reservation to the public domain and prior to the extension of the public survey to include said lands these settlers settled upon and have improved and occupied the land involved up to the present time.

"Owing to the lands being unsurveyed at the date of their respective settlements thereon, these settlers had no way of knowing whether they were upon surveyed or unsurveyed lands. Following the proclamation of the president, opening said lands to entry, in due time applications were received at the United States land office at O'Neill, Neb., at which time these settlers upon the land now involved made application, alleging the date of their actual settlement, which applications were refused by the United States land office, owing to the conflict with the rights of the state of Nebraska, from which ruling the settlers appealed and carried their case through the various departments, but received adverse decision, owing to the preferred rights accorded the state within which to make the indemnity selection.

"The matter was brought before the last egislature of the state, resulting in the passage of a bill for the relief of these settlers, directing the governor to execute a deed to relinquish said lands to envisions thereof is due to a certain legal proposition, which has been met, and matters now indicate an early adjustment, in the interest of the settlers." Persistent Effort to Adjust.

Speaking further of the matter, Mr. Parker asserted that this much vexed question had been persistently followed for the last six years through the various branches of the land service and the courts of the state, wherein certain of the land claims were tied up by injunction proceedings. Also the administrative officers of the state have been appealed to from time to time. Continuing, he said: "The principal objection to an immediate relinquishment of the lands by the state was due to the state phy. KEARNEY, Neb., Jan. 31 .- (Special Telegram.)—The second day's session of the Farmers' institute began this morning. The representatives of the various cream sepa rators, six in number, had their innings right at the start and gave demonstrations of the points of superiority of their machines. Among the interesting exhibits varieties of farm and garden seeds grown in Buffalo county last year by H. C. Green exhibit of seeds and samples of flavoring extracts. The subject of "Orcharding," by J. L. Brown, was particularly interesting principally for the reason that he discarded the accepted theories and gave his own practical ideas regarding tree planting and fruit growing in central Nebraska, and par ticularly in Buffalo county. H. D. Watson entertained the large audience with a talk on "Alfalfa and Forage Crops," and his thirteen years of investigation, experimenting and practical experience have made him a standard on this subject.

The afternoon session was especially in teresting to stock growers because of the lecture of Dr. Peters of the university experiment station on "The Prevention of Animal Diseases." The lecture was confined to four heads of the subject, suggested by the audience as follows: Cornstall diseases in horses and cattle; blackleg in cattle; turberculosis or consumption, and cholera or swine plague. Dr. Peters does not advance any theories, but gives the facts regarding these diseases as he has found them in his regular practice. "The Growing of Pork for Market" was handled by O. Hull of Alma, and this was the close of the afternoon program. The Kearney institute is said by those who have attended these neetings throughout the state to have been one of the most successful and interesting of any held.

carried by him ever since. Mr. Brock is a dignified old gentleman, showing few signs of decreptitude. His family Bible is still preserved, and it shows that the date of his birth was written 114 years ago.

Surely a few words from this remarkable old gentleman, who has had 114 years of experience to draw from, would be interesting as well as profitable. A lengthy biographical sketch is given of this remarkable old man in the Waco Times-Herald, December 4, 1898. A still more pretentious biography of this, the oldest living of his great remedy, Peruna. man, illustrated with a double column portrait, was given the readers of the Dallas Morning News, dated December 11, 1898, and also the Chicago-Times Herald of same date. This centenarian is an ardent friend of Peruna, having used it many years.

proper remedy for allments that are due directly to effects of the climate. For 114 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States.

"I have always been a very healthy man, but of course subject to the little affections which are due to sudden changes in the climate and temperature. During my long life I have known a great many remedies for coughs, colds and diarrhoea.

"I had always supposed these affections to be different diseases. For the last ten or fifteen years I have been reading Dr. Hartman's writings. I have learned much from his books, one thing in particular: that these affections are the same and that they are properly called catarrh.

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy, Pe-ru-na, I have found it to be the best, if not the only, reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years, and I attribute my good health and extreme old age to this remedy.

"It exactly meets all my requirements. It protects me from the evil effects of sudden changes; it keeps me in good appetite; it gives me strength; it keeps my blood in good circulation. I have come to rely upon It almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine

"I believe it to be valuable to old people, although I have no doubt it is just as good for the young. I should be glad if my sincere testimony should become the means of others using this remedy, because I believe it to be the greatest remedy of this age for catarrhal diseases.

"When epidemics of la grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease.

"I had several long sieges with the grip. At first I did not know that Pe-ru-na was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that la grippe was epidemic catarrh, I tried Pe-ru-na for la grippe and found it to be just the thing.

"It has saved me several times from a siege of the grip. I feel perfectly safe from this terrible malady so long as I have Peruna at hand. I hope that Dr. Hartman may live to be as old as I am, to continue the good work of teaching people the value
