

ROOT WINS OVER GARDNER

Chicago Man Gets Decision on Claim of Foul.

IS OUTCLASSED BY THE LOWELL LAD

Crowd Cheers the Winner When Referee Awards Him the Fight in Seventh Round and Jeers Gardner.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—In the seventh round of what was to have been a twenty-round encounter between George Gardner of Lowell, Mass., and Jack Root of Chicago, the latter was awarded a decision here tonight upon the claim of foul.

In a hurricane fight that developed Gardner as the aggressor, but Root as the superior boxer, the Lowell man was beaten and finally forfeited the fight upon a blow conceded by a majority of the spectators to have been a straight foul. Gardner found in Root no such easy opponent as Kid Carter had been, and did not find in Gardner so easily handled a man as was Myers when the two met here. Gardner, however, fought on the outside in a wild and uncertain style, while Root fought determinedly and well.

Claim of Foul.

Gardner suffered the disadvantage of having his left eye practically closed by a punch in the second round, and he was never himself after that. In the fourth round, however, he missed his only opportunity during the battle. The Lowell man delivered a vigorous right-hand punch that caught Root apparently behind the ear, and the Chicago man went down. Root took the count to four seconds, then held in a clever clinch, saving himself for nearly half a minute until his head was clear.

Didn't Mean to Foul.

"I did not mean to foul him," was Gardner's statement immediately after the fight. "I did foul him, however, and the decision was a fair one. I started a left-hand swing and Root rushed upon it. I could not stay the blow and it lost me the fight. I think I stood a chance up to this time and had much rather been knocked out than to have lost in this manner."

Fight by Rounds.

First Round—Gardner was on his feet first and waded right in, but did not land. He tried right and left for body. Root tried to put in left to head, but the blow was wide. They clinched. Root neatly blocked a left for the jaw. Root is very clever and so far easily evaded all of Gardner's blows.

Second Round—Gardner landed a blow on the head with a left, but was short. He sent a right in lightly to head. Root jabbed Gardner with left to head, and in a clinch Gardner landed a vicious right for the jaw just as the bell rang. This round, the men trying to get a line on each other's methods.

Fourth Round—Gardner landed two hard lefts on Root's shoulder and the latter went to the floor, partly from the force of the blows and partly from exhaustion. Root freshened up and went in after Root, landing a right swing on the head. Root put a straight left to the head and in a clinch Gardner tried to uproot Root, but the latter got the best of it. Root tried to swing over the head, but went around Gardner's head. Gardner feinted with left and put light right to Root's face. Gardner seemed inclined to rough it in the clinches and was cautioned by the referee.

Fifth Round—Root scored with a light left over the eye and landed a wicked right counter. The referee experienced great difficulty in separating the men. Root blocked Gardner's left. They clinched. Root bored in and pushed Gardner the ropes, landing left to the face. Gardner uprooted Root with right on jaw but the blow lacked force. Gardner chopped Root with left on face. In the clinches Gardner appeared to be fouling Root. Root was smiling while Gardner looked a trifle worried.

KID BROAD BEATS SULLIVAN

Gives Brooklyn Boy a Severe Drubbing in Six-Round Contest.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Kid Broad of Cleveland gained a decision over Tommy Sullivan of Brooklyn at the end of a six-round contest tonight at the Illinois Athletic club. Constant clinching during the last two rounds was all that saved Sullivan from being knocked out. He was on the verge of collapse and hanging to Broad, who was unable to shake him off and land a knockout.

The men met at catch-weights and Broad had a slight advantage in the first three rounds and Broad landed with the hand about when and where he pleased. The first two rounds were slow, neither showing any disposition to fight either being content with feinting and mauling each other. In the fourth round Broad began forcing the fighting and landed several heavy uppercuts to Sullivan's stomach, and the latter claimed a foul. The referee ignored Sullivan's protest and ordered them to continue fighting. This angered Sullivan and he rushed at Broad. In the exchange that followed Sullivan had the better of it and in the fifth round Broad went to his corner looking tired.

The fourth round was slow, both men falling into clinches at every opportunity and hammering each other in the kidneys. The fifth round was the best of the fight, and started in with vigor and each landed several telling blows. After about a minute of fighting, this time they were standing close together exchanging swings. Broad landed a hard right on Sullivan's ear. Broad had the force of his body behind the blow and Sullivan fell to the floor, but managed to get up at the count. Broad shook him off with considerable difficulty and got up with difficulty just as the referee raised his hand for the count of ten.

Broad thinking he had won the fight, turned toward his corner. Sullivan rushed at him and landed a wild swing on Broad's jaw. The blow did little damage, however, as Sullivan was very weak. Broad wheeled around and commenced hammering Sullivan all over the ring. Sullivan was unable to protect himself, but finally managed to clinch and saved himself from what seemed a certain knockout. The round ended Sullivan was barely able to stagger to his corner. He revived somewhat during the rest and did some good work during the early part of the last round.

MAKING "WHITE PRINT."

How Wood Pulp is Transferred into Newspapers.

Let us consider, says a writer in Success, how news paper is made in one of the great mills of the Adirondack mountains. It is a long, never stopping, and scarcely able to supply the demand of a single New York newspaper. The timber, which is felled in the forests of the north, in winter, is floated to the mill in the mountain streams by the spruce franks that piled up in great heaps about the mill buildings, whose many roofs, chimneys and towers form a strange picture in the wilderness against the background of cloud-topped mountains.

By being fed to shrieking saws, the spruce logs are cut into pieces that are longer than a man's arm. "Barking" machines then have discs of rapidly whirling radial knives, attack the wood and tear off the bark. To prevent a waste of any part of the timber, an endless chain conveyor carries the bark to the boiler room, where it is fed to the fires. Another conveyor, like the trottier roulant at Paris, carries the clean logs to the grinding room, where a long line of three-horned monsters is waiting for them. Flumes, beside which men are mere pygmies, bring the mountain torrents rushing down to the grinding room, feeding the energy of forest cataracts to the great turbines. They have an enormous work to do. Within the iron cases of these three-horned monsters are grindstones of a special hardness, turned by the turbines. The "horns" are hydraulic presses which force the logs under them against the stones. Thus the wood is found to pulp, the stones eating away three feet of wood an hour. The engineer tells us that more than 10,000 "horse-power-hours" of energy are needed to convert one cord of spruce into pulp, and that the mills use more power than a whole manufacturing city in New England. Cold water flows continuously on the grindstones to prevent the friction setting fire to the wood, and the mixture of ground wood and water which flows away from the grinder, as a pinkish sludgy-like fluid, runs over dams and through screens and drying machines, until, a thick mass, it is either put in storage tanks, in bulk, or formed by machinery into thick sheets that can be rolled up like blankets. It is then ground wood pulp, ready for the paper machines.

Complaint About Library.

Since the discussion has arisen in the council between the mayor and the members of the council regarding the appointment of a library board it has been learned that there is $75 in the public library fund which has never been drawn. As there does not seem to be any immediate prospect of the appointment of a library board during the present term of Mayor Kelly, owing to the difference of opinion among the councilmen, it may be that the council to be elected in April will select the nine members of the board, as has been noted before, some of the councilmen do not agree with Mayor Kelly in his naming four women for members and this seems to be the contention at the present time.

Philosophical Johnny.

Little Johnny had been gazing thoughtfully at his book of animal pictures, reports the Salt Lake Herald, when he suddenly called out: "Sax, pa, does it cost much to feed a lion?" "Yes." "How much?" "Oh, a lot of money." "A wolf would make a good meal for a lion, wouldn't it, pa?" "Yes, I guess so." "And a fox would be enough for a wolf, wouldn't it?" "Yes, yes." "And a hawk could make a meal of a fox, eh, pa?" "I suppose so." "And the hawk would be satisfied with a sparrow?" "Of course." "And a big spider would be a good meal for the sparrow, wouldn't it, pa?" "Yes, yes." "And a fly would be enough for the spider?" "Sure." "And a drop of molasses would be all the fly would want, wouldn't it?" "Oh, stop your chatter." "But wouldn't it, pa?" "Yes." "Well, pa, couldn't a man keep a lion more a year on a pint of molasses?" "But just at this point it was discovered that it was time for little Johnny to go to bed.

But she was an infant."

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Rumer that Three Democratic Candidates Have Made an Agreement.

DR. ENSOR IS PICKED OUT FOR MAYOR

If Combination Wins John H. Lochner or Tom Hootor is to Take Treasurer's Place on Ticket

—Magie City Gossip.

In democratic circles it is reported that an agreement has been reached between Dr. Ensor and John Henry Lochner and Tom Hootor. One story is that on Sunday the German-American Democratic club will rescind its previous action and adopt a resolution agreeing to support Ensor for mayor, providing Lochner is made the candidate for city treasurer. The other portion of the alleged agreement is that in case Lochner cannot win out for treasurer, Hootor is to be the nominee. C. A. Melcher is anxious to be nominated for treasurer, but it is reported that he is running with the wrong faction of the democracy.

As for city clerk the democrats have three candidates. S. C. Shrigley, the present clerk, will again seek the nomination. Frank Burness, assistant to the tax commissioner, is after the office and W. P. McDevitt is willing to be a candidate. There is a rumor that J. J. Breen, H. B. Fichart and Judge Montgomery will be candidates for city attorney.

"As for the balance of the ticket," the republican said last night, "the rest of the democratic party in South Omaha is clamoring for the nomination for councilmen and members of the Board of Education."

Three members of the Board of Education retire on May 1 and candidates for these positions are numerous, although there is no salary attached to the office.

Rheumatism

Omega Oil Many people believe Rheumatism is a disease of the blood. Perhaps it is, and perhaps it is not. If it is a blood disease, why is it the pain often stays in the same place? Why is it the blood doesn't always carry the disease all over the body and into every muscle and joint? Your doctor may be able to explain it, but it is all guesswork anyhow. Omega Oil is what you ought to use for Rheumatism. It is to be well rubbed on the place where the pain is. No matter whether the trouble is in the blood or not—Omega Oil goes in, finds it out and cures it. What's the odds so long as you get relief? Drink plenty of fresh water every night and morning while using Omega Oil. The water will keep the kidneys well flushed, and will bring about a quicker cure of Rheumatism. Try this plan for two weeks and see the result.

In addition to this it will be seen that many of the wild animals were photographed in their native freedom; take for example that of the giraffe which was taken by Lord Delamere in the wilds of Africa. The animal is seen standing by the side of a mimosa tree on the top shoots of which the giraffe habitually feeds. Every child has seen drawings of the giraffe but probably not one in ten knew positively whether its food was animal or vegetable. After seeing this photograph they will not only see the truth but they will never forget it.
