

WOMEN CANDIDATES TIED

Degree of Honor Election Develops Evenly Divided Popularity.

MRS. LATEKY IS GRAND CHIEF OF HONOR

First Place Goes to Lexington Woman, with Mrs. Koerber of Norfolk for Grand Lady of Honor—Election Completed Today.

After a session which continued all day, the grand lodge of the Degree of Honor elected officers with the exception of the grand officer, grand outer watch and trustees. It required 152 votes to elect and in the contests for these places no one received the necessary number.

The officers elected were: Mrs. Mary Lateky, Lexington, grand chief of honor; Mrs. Anna Koerber, Norfolk, grand lady of honor; Mrs. Ella Hall, South Omaha, grand chief of ceremonies; Miss Teresa Hempel, Lincoln, grand recorder; Mrs. Mary Miller, Dillard, grand receiver; Mrs. Mollie Erickson, Brewster, grand inside watch; Mrs. Adella Harding, Mrs. Ella M. Hostetter and Mrs. Teresa Hempel, representatives to the superior lodge.

Result Not Yet Known.

A second ballot was taken for grand usher, grand trustee and grand outer watch, but the votes will not be counted until this morning. The lodge adjourned at 6:30 o'clock.

For Next Grand Lodge.

Another important matter of business to be disposed of is the selection of the place for holding the next grand lodge. Very little interest has so far been shown by the delegates, but it is said there will be a contest over this when the time comes for voting.

After the vote was announced yesterday afternoon Mrs. Rose C. Robinson, grand recorder of the Degree of Honor of Missouri, presented Mrs. Harding, the retiring grand chief of honor, of Nebraska a beautiful bouquet of roses at the same time highly complimenting Mrs. Harding upon the work she had done for the order in this state. Mrs. Harding was first elected grand chief of honor in 1898 and has been re-elected at every grand lodge since that time until the present lodge met.

Mrs. Morgan Is Gratified.

Mrs. Almarita Morgan, grand chief of honor of the Missouri Degree of Honor, and Mrs. Rose C. Robinson, grand recorder, were present at the morning session. Mrs. Morgan had just returned from a meeting of the grand lodge at Toledo, O., and recently attended a meeting of the superior lodge at Portland, Ore. She stated that the Nebraska grand lodge was one of the largest she had ever attended and the members were unusually enthusiastic. The reception given Tuesday night by the home lodge, she said, was one of the most enjoyable ever given a grand lodge.

The grand receiver of the Nebraska lodge yesterday morning announced that she had brought with her to Omaha $1,000 to pay the expenses of the grand lodge and has $1,000 more in bank to draw on. This she gave as an indication of the financial condition of the lodges in Nebraska.

General Manderson Repeats the Advice on Tariff Question.

CUBAN RECIPROCITY MASKS SUGAR TRUST

"Scratch a Suffering Cuban and You Uncover a Grasping Refiner," Says the Former Senator from Nebraska.

General Charles F. Manderson, speaking of the present tariff discussion, said: "If any experience were needed to add to that of the times alternating depression and prosperity, I have passed away, to confirm a protectionist in his faith and show the immense advantage to this country of the American system, it is the present prosperous condition of production, trade and commerce. Prosperity, unprecedented, and in its extent one may well say unexpected, has come to us and the present policy continues will remain with us, except where it may be locally disturbed by uncalculated strikes and deplorable disputes between employers and employed. There is no crying demand for tariff revision at this time, and the effort of qualification is not to be revised as to administer a blow at the trusts is mere balderdash. Revision based on that idea would afford no remedy against trust evils and would simply destroy the numerous manufacturers who are not connected with any trust and wipe out the foreign market that we are now enjoying for our surplus production. England, Germany and France would quickly take advantage of our error and not only retake the trade we have captured from them, but make serious inroads upon our domestic market. The proposition is to attack the protective system by a subterfuge.

Danger in Reciprocity.

"I remember to have heard dear old Senator Morrill of Vermont, the father of modern protection, say 'The American system can be attacked and destroyed in two ways—first, by the open, above-board method of the free trader, who denouncing all tariffs save those merely for revenue, makes his assault; second, by the secret underground plan of the advocate of reciprocity treaties, who by deceit and in underhand fashion saps the foundation of the system and by stealthy approaches brings the noble edifice down in ruin. I have respect for the manly effort of the free trader, but despise the covert methods of the reciprocity dealer. I have never voted for such a treaty, and while I have a vote in the senate I never will."

Best Sugar Interests.

"Such are the proposed reciprocity treaties with Cuba and Canada. If they should succeed they would destroy commercial conditions all over the country. Eleven states have embarked in the production of sugar from beets. Forty factories have invested $50,000,000 in the industry that never in the history of the United States by the publication of thousands of volumes on the subject of beet culture, the taking off for a period of the duty upon sugar-making machinery, the imposition of high upon imported sugar, the purchase of a bounty for a limited period upon domestic sugar, by costly experiment arduous maintained for years, induced this employment of capital and labor to the benefit of both agriculturist and manufacturer and to the saving of $100,000,000 paid out to foreign countries for the 2,500,000 tons of sugar consumed by our people. Now that the experimental days are over it is proposed to strangle it by admitting Cuban sugars either free of duty or at such a reduction from the schedule as to permit her to profitably increase her output. Her ability to grow sugar is shown by the fact that the war with Spain being over, she jumped from 200,000 tons to 800,000 tons in a single season. This increase is capable of still greater growth. It has been induced by American investment, for it is notorious that there has been an enormous investment in Cuban sugar lands by the refiners' trust. The fact is that Cuban reciprocity means very little for Cubans, but a great deal for the refiners. Rub the glasses off a suffering Cuban and you will find a grasping refiner.

Other Ways to Pay Cuba.

"There need be no trouble in our minds over the ethics of the situation. We have done much for the fair island of the Antilles and have shed blood and spent many millions to set her for nationality. If we are still indebted to her there are other ways of settling the obligation than that by ransoming the sugar and tobacco industries of this country. There is no need at this time to change the tariff, either by the direct method of revision of its schedules or by the indirect plan of reciprocity. The demand of the American people, especially in the west, by the way, is not enough alone. No protectionist can consider the present schedules absolutely perfect or too sacred to be touched. Conditions change and duties must change with them, but import rates should not be changed until conditions demand them and when it is sure that the commercial equilibrium will be disturbed, it is foolish to disturb the tariff. When changes are to be made they should be on protection lines. If our democratic friends should obtain the power and, either by horizontal cut or otherwise, base a new tariff bill upon revenue lines, we would have a repetition of 1892, with the ruin and disaster that followed in the wake of their last effort at tariff tinkering.

Time to Be Careful.

"A very slight tampering with the schedule might upset our present prosperous business world, and nothing ought to be done until the need is apparent. That need had better be shown by some such tariff commission as I take it, President Roosevelt has in mind, namely, a conservative body that would carefully investigate, prevent rash action, and enlighten the country and the law makers upon the whole subject. When the evils complained of by the democrats and some of the unwise republicans that went off at halfcock in Iowa are shown to be of sufficient importance to justify the commercial unrest that comes every time the tariff schedules are considered by congress, the republican party will revise the law. It should not and will not do it under existing conditions and if there were no elections this fall no one would be heard demanding it."

DRIVER IS FINED, REPLACED BY JUDGES

Say Cares Did Not Push Judge Cullen as He Should Have Done and Bets Are Declared Off.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 8.—Under ideal weather and track conditions three races were completed at the second day of the Kentucky breeders' meeting. The 2:13 trot was unclouded with four best winners after a fine drive.

The unusual incident of horses walking in with a field of three was witnessed in the third heat of the futurity for 2-year-old pacers, when, after a fast seven-eighths, Hudson pulled up Josie Hero. The other two contestants were driving hard for second, but did not overtake the walking filly.

When the judges thought F. Cares was not pushing Judge Cullen, the favorite, the driver was taken out, fined $100 and Hudson put in the sulky. After finishing second in the fourth Judge Cullen took the next two heats and the race. Bets on the third heat were declared off.

Tomorrow the famous Transylvania, $4,000 for 2:12 trotters, and the $6,000 3-year-old trotting futurity will be contested.

HARVARD HAS HARD FIGHT

Amherst Puts Up Big Game Against Crimson Men's Splendid Team.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 8.—In the presence of 4,000 spectators the Amherst foot ball team, which was defeated 2 to 0 by Yale, held Harvard down to 4 points today and much of the time seemingly outplayed the crimson eleven.

In the middle of the second half Harvard pushed the ball to Amherst's eight-yard line where Lindsay was sent through for the only touchdown of the game. Bernard kicked an easy goal.

Amherst was within scoring distance, but a fumble on the line of the visitors prevented a touchdown. The interference of the crimson team was poor, while the backs started very slowly and failed to take advantage of holes opened up by the linemen. On the other hand, Amherst played a snappy game, forcing Harvard to kick a number of times, and although not getting within the crimson twenty-five-yard line they kept Harvard continually on the jump.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—The Haverford college foot ball team succeeded in scoring on Pennsylvania today a game on Franklin field. In the latter part of the second half Decker, Haverford's left end, kicked a goal from the field after the eleven had failed to gain on plunks.

Haverford fought hard, but successive line smashes gave Pennsylvania a comparatively easy victory, the score being 15 to 0.
