DEMOCRATS IN LONG SESSION Finally Nominate the Same Ticket Put Up by Popullata at Grand Island. For Supreme Judge JOHN J. SULLIVAN. Platte For Regents ... E. O. WEBER, Saunders W. O. JONES, Adams.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) COLUMBUS, Neb., Aug. 25,-(Special Telegram.) The democrate of Nebraska, in convention here tonight, nominated this ticket, adopted a platform, heard speeches from parry leaders and passed numerous votes of thanks to the people of Columbus. Edgar Howard, who was introduced as "Mayor Bec." welcomed the delegates to the democratic state convention after it was called to order by Chairman Hall of the state committee this evening. This speech followed a prayer by Father Cash and the announcement by Mr. Hall that Judge Sullivan had been nominated by the Grand Island convention. It was 9 o'clock before Judge Loomis, temporary chairman, began his speech. He said:

Hon. George L. Loomis, the temporary chairman, said in part: In democracy the individual man stands first and foremost, and his rights and interests are the niatter of supreme consideration. Not one must think from this, however, that there is any design or purpose in democracy inimical to capital, for such is not the case. The true spirit of democracy urges every one to save and accumulate by all honorable means and rejoices in the success and prosperity of all men.

At 11 o'clock a recess of fifteen minutes was taken.

There are many able and consistent democrats who have shown themselves entitled to the confidence of the party and the people and under the leadership of one of them, the next battle will be fought.

May it be one in whose election the true principles of democracy will triumph and in whose keeping the rights of the people and the great principles of our government will be safe from all manner of assault, whether open or insidious.

Conditions are fast ripening for a grand fastional victory. The party in power, evidently mistaking its success in the past few elections to mean an irrevocable vote of confidence on the part of the people, has become arragant and corrupt atterly regardless of personal rights, openly definit of all law that stands in the way of party purposes and shown itself unworthy to be longer entrusted with power.

In its government of the Philippines it has refused to extend to that people the protection of the constitution, has denied the most eacred truths or the Declaration of Independence, suppressed the Bill of Rights and founded a government based on

Upon accepting the nomination Judge Sullivan said:

Mr. Chairman and Gentiemen of the Convention: I have no words with which to adequately express the sense of gratitude and obligation I feel for the generous treatment I have received at your hands. Tonight, more than ever before, am I impressed with the conviction that it is, after all, even from the low standpoint of expediency, worth while for a public servant to be steadfastly faithful in the execution of his trust. The action of this convention and the action of the populist convention and the action of the populist convention and the action of the expressions of commendation and approval that afford me the keenest satisfaction. I am fully conscious of my own imperfections and shortcomings and i realise that if charity were not an element in your judgment my judicial record would hardly pass muster. I brought to the bench neither wide experience nor broad scholarship, and I lay no spechal stress upon my industry but the one thing of real value that I did bring to the discharge of my duties—the thing above all others that has contributed most to whatever measure of success I have achieved—was independence.

I went onto the bench a free man, and if I continue there I shall remain a free man. Having at no time desired a renomination or re-election, it has, of course, involved no strain upon virtue to hew steadily to the line, giving no thought or heed to the flight and fall of the chips.

Our method of choosing the Judiciary is, it seems to me, an unfortunate one. Geography and partisanship have absolutely nothing to do with the administration of the law, and yet, strange as it may seem absurd as it is, these are determinating considerations in the nomination and election of judges. Whatever may be the character of a judge; whether he be wask or strong, he ought to be under no temptation to count the political consequence of the law and yet, strange as it may seem absurd as it is, these are determinating considerations in the nomination and election of judges a distinguished bar and an enlightened people.

The candidate of the republican party is my personal friend. He is a worthy and generous rival, and I bespeak for him at your hands fair and corteous treatment. Let the campaign be conducted on a high plane, in a temperate spirit, and in accordance with the humane doctrine that a man does not forfeit his civil rights and become an outlaw by running for office.

The contest this year is important, but not vital. We must not get excited; we can afford to keep cool. Whatever happens the state will survive and the democratic party, is, of course, indestructible. There is in this state a large body of square-headed men. These men see not much swayed by mere sentiment. They understand that in a judicial campaign an appeal to party loyality is nothing else than flap-doodle and clap-trap. In their own good time, between now and election, they will think the matter over and if they are satisfied with the supreme court as at present constituted, it is not improbable that they will conclude, regardless of politics, to let well enough alons. President Regrets Besignation.

OYSTER BAY, Aug. 4.—Hon. Elihu Root, Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.; My Dear Mr. Root—it is hard indeed for me to accept your resignation, and I do so not only with keen personal regret, but with a lively understanding of the gap your withdrawal will create in public life.

My sense of personal loss is very great, and yet my sense of the loss to the nation as a whole is even greater. Fou have been four years secretary of war. I wonder if you yourself realize how much you have accomplished during that period. If you will turn to your first reports and will read therein the recommendations you made in order that the army might be put on an effective basis you cannot but be pleased at the way these recommendations nave been adopted by congress, as well as by the administration, and have become enacted into law or crystallized into custom.

We have never had a public servant of the government who has worked harder than you have worked during these four years and a halfrand not merely in point of time, but above all, in point of intensity, and your success has been equal to your labor.

Knowledge of Successful Work, The only reward you have had, or can have, is the knowledge of successful achievement, of the performance in fullest fashion of a great public duty, the doing of which was of vital apportance to the na-which was of vital apportance to the nation's welfare.

Your duties have included more than merely the administration of the department, and the icorganization of the army on an effective basis. You have also been the head of a department which dealt with the vast and delicate problems involved in our possession of the Philippine islands, and your success in dealing with this part of your work has been as signal as your success in dealing with the purely military problems.

To very few statesmen, indeed, in any country has it been given at one and the same time to achieve signal and striking triumphs in the administration and reform of the military branch of the government in the administration of what was in effect a department of insular iependencies, where the problems were new to our people and were in themselves of great difficulty.

The nineteen seconds was dead loss. The starting time was: Reliance, 11:00:36; Shamrock III, 11:02:00. The actual starting time of Shamrock was 11:02:19. Both went across the line on the starboard tack, but held that tack for not more than a minute and then headed for the Jersey coast. Once fairly away Captain Wringe of lutely unfounded.

Shamrock III resumed his tactics of previous races-gave his boat a good ray full, sailed through Reliance's lee and got under its lee bow, while Captain Barr pinched Reliance close into the wind and began to cover the distance to the windward mark. Captain Wringe's maneuver gave him a wind clear of interference, and when once satisfied that Reliance could not blanket his boat he flattened in his sheets and began to point closer to the wind. Captain Barr, however, was nursing Reliance up to windward in masterly fashion Half an hour after the start the gap between the two boats had widened materially, Reliance pointing higher and Shamrock footing faster. They were half a mile apart when they tacked off Highland Beach at 11:42.

Reliance Begins to Gain,

Reliance was the fist to go about. When both yachts were filled away it was clear that Reliance was gaining. Shamrock III was far astern and very little to windward of Reliance's course. Meantime the wind had been increasing and was now blowing at the rate of seven knots. Shamrock III was heeling prettily, moving at a fast elip and making considerably more fuse under its bows than the American boat. Captain Barr was pinching Reliance into the wind until its little baby jibtop safi fluttered. The race was being fought out on the same lines as the previous one. Reliance sought to make its gain by outpointing the British boat, while the latter endeavored to make up for what it lost in latter's resignation. Both were heading off their course a bit in order to make their spinnakers draw well, and they ran that way for half an hour, when Reliance smothered its spinnaker and began to set its stay sail. During that time it did not appear to have gained an inch, but immediately on laying its true course H began to draw away. III also took in its spinnaker, set its staysail and headed for the mark. With the wind over three quarters both yachts made fast time of ft, but it was apparent that Reliance was gaining. They made the second turn as follows: Reliance, 1:17:50; Shamrock, 1:21:45.

It was heeled just enough to bring its long-overhangs to bear and give it the benefit of its great sailing length.

Passes the Guide Vessel.

The guide vessel, Coastwise, was scurrying along ahead at full speed, but Reliance was overhauling it inch by inch and when the lightship hove fair in sight about two miles away was not more than a quarter of a mile astern of the guide vessel. A mile further on Constwise sheered off and gave

The two yachts held their methods for reporting a yacht race, the relative positions for about a mile. When wireless telegraph system, the fleet of Reliance was a quarter of a mile from the small boats carrying the news from the finish line the wind died away consider course to the shore and a line of shore ably, but Shamrock III came booming observers along the Jersey and Long Island along carrying a splendid breeze and fast coast. This was a day on which all three overhauling the leader. It looked as though the British boat was going to get within its time limit, but the finish was too close, and Reliance slipped across the line with one minute and nineteen seconds to four knots an hour, not enough to send spare. Shamrock III finished in a softenthem over the course within the time limit, ling wind and both boats were taken in tow to Sandy Hook. The next race will be sailed on Thurs-

I figure my defeat at a little more leg, the first leg south, the second northcast by east half east, the third northwest by west half west. The wind at that time was due south and had begun to freshon.

In the preliminary jockeying Captain Barr of Reliance got the windward position, blanketing Shamrock III, and clung to it through various mancuvers until the warning gun had been fired, when Captain Wringe fought clear of Reliance.

At the sound of the gun Shamrock III bore off to leeward and away from Reliance, while Captain Barr tacked under now we'll get ready for the third." Lord Shaftesbury said: "We are licked.

The Reliance is jolly well the best boat. C. Oliver Iselin said: "I don't suppose anybody ever saw thoats better handled than were those day. It would seem that Reliance proved its superiority in all kinds weather and under all conditions.
