Deal Firmly with Sultan.

Another foreign complication with which the State department is trying to deal is that culminated in the affair in Beyroot. The United States minister at Constantinople, acting under instructions from Secretary n Tuesday demanded the removal in this he had the co-operation of ministers from other powers stationed at the court of the sublime porte. The objectionand a general uprising against Americans other foreigners is no longer feared. Still the administration realizes the gravity of affairs in Asiatic Turkey and the Amerhe kept in the vicinity of the trouble for some time to come. In the meantime the troversies which have so long existed between this country and Turkey. The sultan, who has more than the ordinary desire of the Oriental for postponing settlement of his obligations, is to be made to ances and his inability or indisposition to Admiral Cotton's fleet will not be withdrawn from Turkish waters until the Amertean minister : t Constantinople shall have nollfied the State department that all matters in controversy between the two countries have reached that stage where a settlement is assured.

Minor Matters of Department.

These four subjects are occupying the full attention of Secretary Hay at the present time. In fact the secretary has little time consider anything else and less grave subjects have been turned over to his assistants in a large degree. The American foreign office is always called upon to settle innumerable disputes growing out of the restless desire of American citizens to occupy all corners of the earth, and scarcely a day goes by that the secretary of state is not called upon to consider some subject wherein an American citizen claims to have been imposed upon or robbed in some foreign country. Most of these cases arise in Latin-America or in eastern Europe.

"Some years ago I was afflicted with sun stroke which left me with a shattered nervous system and exceedingly poly health. I suffered terribily with pain in my head, the top of my head would feel hot. I could not study, and after striving for two years to wear the trouble of, I was compelled to give up my pastoral labor and retire to my farm where I spent nearly two years trying to reciperate. It was all of no avail. Priyaicians' treatment and patent medicines failed to relieve me. I was exceedingly nervous and irritable and sometimes would shake terribly. I could not bear any noise. At the least excitement this blood would rish to my face and head. Two years ago I was induced to try Dr. Milles' Restorative Nervine. After using one bottle I could see improvement in my condition so I continued taking it for nearly a year. I am happy to say I no longer have those pains in one head or nervous apells. Cripple Creek New a Modern City with No "Bad Men"-Change in Methods of Mine Working.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Sept. 13 .- (Special.)-The Washington correspondents had their first real knowledge of a great gold camp as they were shown through the mines at this place and Victor by the representatives of the city and the Press club The tents of the Colorado National guard at Victor, however, told a story of reatlessness that belied the apparent nonchainnee of our escorts. Sentries were patrolling the properties of the mine owners, for a strike is on at Victor that promises to be farreaching. In anticipation of a long struggle the railroads and the manufacturers are laying in great stocks of coal. There is general apprehension throughout the region of a bitter and disastrous contest between labor and capital. The employers are given courage by the attitude of the governor, who is determined to use the utmost resources of the state to protect non-union workmen. His position is best explained in his own words. At a reception given the newspaper correspond ents at the capitol yesterday, in discussing the Cripple Creek situation, Governor Peabody said:

"I intend to see that every man, whether union or nonunion, who wants to work shall have the opportunity, if I have to keep every member of the Colorado militia duty during my entire term of office."

Is a Sympathy Strike. The strike of the Cripple Creek miners

irritated the employers and precipitated the decision to attack unionism. There are 4,000 pany which immediately proceeds to put workmen in the Cripple Creek district, of whom 80 per cent are members of the union. They were all working under union rules and getting union wages. The hours of labor were satisfactory to the union, ranging from eight to nine, according to the requirements of each mine.

The workers in the ore-reduction mills struck for an eight-hour day. The miners declared that they would not work in any mine which shipped ore to the mills affected by the strike. The mine owners contended that as their own employes were satisfied they could not strike because another class of employes in another industry were not being treated fairly by their employers The nonunion men in the mines were anxlous to work. After several of them had been beaten up by the strikers, and in consequence of threats to prevent resumption trous results. It will also take steps in case of public disturbance, to protect its members until the state takes hold.

The Cripple Creek gold district is the greatest camp in the world. Since its discovery in 1891 it has produced $120,000,000 in gold. It is turning out $18,000,000 a year. with the output constantly increasing. The district comprises an area of about twentyfour square miles with a population of 00,000. The payroll of the workmen in the mines and mills is $652,000 a month. Cripple Creek would meet anything but the popular of pick, pan and cradle. No gambling houses, no "bad men" with ever ready "shooting irons." The "wide open" days are gone for good. The city of Cripple Creek is electric lighted, with water works, paid fire depar' nent and trolley cars. The "bad men" who should come careering into Cripple Creek, all spraddled out, to shoet up a saloon, would be overhauled by a uniformed policemen, carted ignomini off in a modern patrol wagon and put to breaking rock for ninety days. The change in conditions comes about largely by the change in mire working. No free gold is found in this district. It all comes in rock and quartz and has to be delved for deep into the mountains. Some of the shafts go down 1,200 feet. In one of the mines there are thirty miles of underground workings and miles of tramway operated by electricity. The ore is extracted by blasting and is holsted to the surface by ma chinery that costs fabulous sums to install. It is then taken to reduction mills and treated by various scientific processes to get the yellow metal from the dross.

Investment is Enormous. Riding over the district we visited the principal mines. The investment in property, outside of the mine itself, is enormous. The region is gridironed with railway tracks and trolley lines. Great brick and stone structures are erected at the mouth of the mines to contain the hoisting and ventilating machinery. Down in the bowels of the earth, a thousand feet below the surface, human lives are absolutely at the mercy of these fans, pumps and holsters. Gold mining in Cripple Creek has thus come an industrial proposition strictly Labor enters into it as an element of cost Man are bired to work so many hours at running an electric drill, tamping a charge, throwing down the ore, loading into a cart, hoisting to the mil. running it through a process and packing the gold into boxes. They handle millions and get for their labor a stipulated sum. The big mines are owned by great corporations which are capitalized as any other in dustrial concern. Seme pay dividends and some others peter out after a year or two. A mine that is making a profitable output today may become absolutely useless tomorrow by reaching the end of vein it is working. The individual miner is a thing of the past. His place is filled by the prospector. The prospector loads some supplies on a burro and goes poking about the mountains looking

SOFIA, Sept. 13.-The Albanian and Turkish troops collected in the vilayet of Adrianople appear to be pursuing their usual tactics of burning and plundering the villages and killing the peasants, instead of making an attempt to break up the insurgent bands. The Albanian soldiers in the vilayet of Adrianople are stated to be entirely

The Turks lost twenty. The final arrangements for a revolutionary outbreak in eastern Macedonia have been completed, but for some inexplicable reason the rising hangs fire.

The whole district is divided into six sections, the insurgents being under the following leaders: General Zontcheff, Colonel Jankoff, Captain Jordan Stoyanoff and Lieutenants Stoyantcheff, Darvingoff and CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 13.-Calm continues at Beyroot, but trade is at a standstill. Reishid Pasha, the dismissed vall, left there Saturday for Constantinople. The other powers have now abandoned their intention of sending warships to Beyroot. The Christian refugees from that place encamped in the mountains refuse to return, in spite of the promise of the authorities to protect them.
