

BRIGHT FOR REPUBLICANS

Governor Mickey Gets Encouraging Reports from Over the State.

VICTORY THIS FALL IS ESSENTIAL

Bonaucum-Murphy Case Said to Be Creating a Stir at Home—Troubles of Tabitha Home Are Ended.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Reports received at republican headquarters during the last few days are encouraging to republicans. From every district comes the news that the rank and file of the party is getting busy in earnest and the vote will not fall short of the general election vote to any great extent. Of the political outlook, Governor Mickey today said:
"I am very deeply interested in the present campaign. The result, in my judgment, will largely determine whether or not Nebraska will be counted in the Roosevelt column next year. Both our state committee and our state convention have pledged in an effective manner unless Nebraska reiterates its faith in republicanism at the polls this fall and elects Judge Barnes and his colleagues on the state ticket by substantial majorities. It is not enough that we carried the state last year. We must repeat the victory this fall and then we will be in a position to make good our oft-repeated friendship for President Roosevelt and his administration. These off-year campaigns are pretty hard propositions at best and it seems to me that party expediency demands from every loyal republican his energetic support at the polls on November 2."

"As is the case in all off years, the rank and file of the party are not greatly enthused. This condition of apathy probably means a light vote. The important point to be looked therefore, is to see that every voter gets to the polls. In this particular a good organization can work wonders. I am familiar with the executive ability which has characterized our state committee in several recent campaigns and I have no doubt but that the present organization of the state will reach every rural district and polling booth. Every republican should feel it a burden on him to see that his neighbor votes."

New Turn in Bonaucum Case.
A telegram was received here this afternoon purporting to have come from Rome to the effect that the propaganda is flooded with accusations and protests against Bishop Bonaucum of this city, dealing principally with Father Murphy. The telegram stated that Cardinal Coste, prefect of the propaganda, expected to bring the controversy before the congregation when it meets in November.

At the recent trial in Seward county of one phase of the Bonaucum-Murphy litigation, it was contended by the bishop that the appeal of the bishop presented a number of documents signed by the seals of the papal court. Father Murphy contended that these were not true copies of the records, but spurious documents getting, first, just the contrary of what the facts were.

Quite a number of thrones in the diocese have taken a stand in opposition to the bishop in his treatment of Father Murphy and there has been an unrecurrent of depreciation even here in Lincoln. It is therefore not at all unlikely that many of these have precedence to Rome. Father Murphy was one of the original St. Bernard union, organized by priests to resist the alleged tyranny of superior church officers and is the only one left in the diocese who has not bowed in submission to the bishop's commands. Others have gone away to other dioceses and a few have made their peace with their bishop. Father Murphy is a skilled canonist and has been able to defeat the bishop or force a draw in all of their contests so far. He now holds the parish of Seward, contrary to the bishop's wishes, by virtue of an order from the papal legate at Washington. From this he cannot be deposed save by proceedings in accordance with canonical law. The bishop has adjudged him guilty of contumacy, but the right of appeal lay against him, and it has been taken. It is this appeal that Rome has now. If it is decided of the civil courts refuse to interfere on behalf of the bishop.

Ready for the Postmasters.
The federal court rooms have been tastefully decorated for the coming of the postmasters, who will meet there at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Some few of the mail men have already arrived and it is expected they will flock in tomorrow from every corner of the state. Governor Mickey will welcome the visitors on behalf of the state and Mayor Adams on behalf of the city. Postmasters Edward G. Hall and H. M. Wells of David City and Crete respectively, will respond. The balance of the morning hour will be devoted to the organization of the convention and the appointment of committee, and an address by Hannibal Allen Hopkins of St. Clair, Mich., secretary of the Michigan association, on "The Postmaster Everywhere."

In the afternoon and evening, in addition to the transaction of the regular business of the convention, there will be addresses by Congressmen Burkett and Hineshaw, Postmaster Joseph Crow of Omaha, Postoffice Inspector D. J. Sinclair, Chief Clerk John M. Butler of the railway mail service; Ed Heiser, ex-postmaster of Sioux City, Ia.; ex-postmaster J. H. Tower of Sutton and Hon. Edward Rosewater of Omaha, the latter on the topic, "The Postal Service in America and Great Britain." L. Dixby will read a poem at the evening meeting. The public is heartily welcomed at all the sessions.

At last the Tabitha home affair is settled and the people can now give to the home all the money they want to give without fear of being prevented by the State Board of Charities and Correction. The matter was settled by Governor Mickey choosing himself, Superintendent Fowler and Secretary Davis of the state board, by Rev. Heiser, superintendent, choosing those as members of the new board. H. F. Bailey, Rev. H. T. Feix, Mrs. H. Heiser, Mrs. R. A. White, W. H. Barth and Rev. H. Heiser.

The articles of incorporation were changed to permit of a Board of Directors, to consist of nine members instead of five as heretofore. The attorney general expressed himself as being satisfied with the change and Governor Mickey stated that now the entire affair was settled. He and others interested, however, will endeavor to get the next legislature to pass a law to place all such private institutions under the control and supervision of the State Board of Charities and Correction.

STILL RETICENT ON POLITICS

Senator Dietrich Unwilling to Talk on Senatorial Succession.

LEARNS MUCH CONCERNING ALASKA

Much Money Spent on Agricultural Experiment Station Without Accomplishing Results of Any Practical Value.

HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 26.—(Special Telegram.)—Senator Charles H. Dietrich returned home this morning from Alaska, where he and his daughter, Miss Gertrude, have been during the past four months. Miss Gertrude has gone to Aurora, Ill., to visit among relatives for a short time, and will come to Hastings later. The senator will remain in Hastings until after election, when he will go direct to Washington to attend the extra session of congress.

When asked whether or not he would be a candidate for re-election to the senate, Mr. Dietrich said:
"You may say that having just returned from an absence of four months I am hardly in a position to state at this time anything concerning what may or may not bear upon the senatorial candidacy. However, I will say that when the proper time arrives, (which will be before long), I will settle all political anxiety along that line."

Senator Dietrich is a member of the senate committee on public lands and his chief object in going to Alaska was to become familiar with the conditions which have been brought about by the new homestead law. Upon this subject the senator had but little to say, as he desires to lay the matter before the proper committee in the senate. From the manner in which he carried out the legislation, it is evident that he feels confident he has gained some valuable information upon this important subject which he intends to guard closely until the proper time comes to divulge it. In speaking of Alaska's agricultural possibilities, Senator Dietrich said:

"The reports that have been circulated concerning the glorious agricultural prospects of Alaska have been very highly colored. At Sitka the government has an agricultural experiment station upon which thousands and thousands of dollars have been expended for experimental purposes and so far no important facts about the agricultural possibilities of the territory have been obtained that were not established fully fifty years ago. One of the principal reasons why Alaska is never to be a great agriculture country is the fact that it costs from $300 to $2,000 to properly clear an acre of ground. There are many sections especially adapted to the raising of cattle, but grain cannot be grown successfully and profitably. In my opinion Alaska is ready in spots of a limited way, for the territory, for agriculture. There is not any doubt such a road would not only build Alaska but it would also mean much for the commercial expansion of the Pacific ports. Until a move of this kind is made Alaska will not be in the progressive march of prospective development."

Senator Dietrich will go to Lincoln in the morning to attend a meeting of the Nebraska postmasters. He will also visit Omaha before returning to Hastings.

CO-OPERATIVE GRAIN WOES

Company at First Meet by Internal Disagreements and Dissensions.

FIRTH, Neb., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—The directors and stockholders of the Farmers Grain and Lumber company here are to hold a meeting within the next few days for the purpose of discussing the advisability of changing the management of their elevator and lumber yard at that point. For some time the stockholders have been at odds among themselves, all because each one has a different opinion as to how the business should be run. The officers of the company consist of J. Martin, president; Henry Hickman, vice president; Van Berg, secretary and treasurer; N. W. Kallenmeyer, manager. The directors of seven consist of M. Kreuger, W. Kreuger, W. Kramer, G. Tenhulsen, E. Richardson, C. T. Springer and M. Kline. The directors are divided as to how the business should be run and the first three are opposed to the management of Mr. Kallenmeyer. They have refused to sell all their grain to the company and are taking it to the other dealers at the same place, although a penalty of 1 cent per bushel is assessed against them by the company for so doing. The company has a capital of $10,000, has a paid up capital of $5,000 and is said to have liabilities amounting to about $5,000, consisting of notes, etc.

Mr. Kallenmeyer, the manager, was formerly a barber here and was instrumental in inducing the farmers to invest their money in the co-operative venture. Many at the time of going into the venture were persuaded they would receive more per bushel for their grain than they did of the regular grain buyer, but the regular buyer pays from 1 to 2 cents more a bushel than the co-operative company. No dividend has been declared on the co-operative stock.

It is the plan to change the directorate and the management at the meeting of the stockholders to be held about the first of November. Meetings have been held by some of the interested stockholders frequently of late, to devise a plan of action. "Co-operation is not a success," asserts one of the stockholders. "We supposed that we would be able to get from 5 to 10 cents a bushel more for our grain by this method than otherwise, but we find that we get less. It is impossible for us to sell as good as the old companies, and as long as we cannot do this we cannot pay more. The old company is not fighting us, but it is experience that counts. When we sell our grain to a regular buyer we get our money and he takes the risk of loss. When we handle our own stuff we do not get as much for it and then if there is a loss, as stockholders we must stand it. Our chances of loss are 100 per cent greater than the regular buyer. I am through with co-operation."

Rural Route May Be Dropped.

FREMONT, Neb., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Rural delivery route No. 3 out of Hooper will probably be dropped November 30 on account of inability to get a carrier to do the work satisfactorily. The route runs into the northeast corner of the county. Swaburg people got only one mail in five days and registered a vigorous gibe on the carrier. The Hooper office has been notified that unless a reliable carrier is obtained by November 30 the route will be dropped. The patrons of the route are anxious to have it kept up and are looking for a carrier that they can depend on.

STEVENS HOLDS THE FORT

Attack Upon Fort Riley by General Carr is Not Successful.

CONCEALMENT OF TRENCHES A FEATURE

Work of Major Leach in This Particular Said to Be Remarkable feat of Engineering—Fighting Was Realistic.

FORT RILEY, Kan., Oct. 26.—Fort Riley still belongs to the government. The enemy made a desperate effort to capture it this morning, but it had not secured it at the time the halt was called. The enemy which sought to capture the post was General C. C. Carr, with nine regiments of infantry, two full regiments and one additional squadron of cavalry and four batteries. The force that withstood him under the command of Colonel Stevens of the Fourth cavalry, was the First battalion of engineers under Major Leach, the Sixth infantry, commanded for the day by Lieutenant Colonel Loughborough, a battalion of the Twelfth infantry, two batteries of artillery and one squadron of cavalry.

The most remarkable feature of the day's work was the ability shown by the officers and men of the defending forces in the construction and concealment of their trenches. At a distance of 200 paces they were invisible even to those who knew their exact location. The outside of the trenches was covered with grass and bushes, so arranged as to resemble the rest of the landscape. In addition, the men twined the grass around their hats or tied branches upon their dress, which served to hide the colors of their hats and blue shirts. In several instances so complete was their concealment that birds flying in from the front perched on the transplanted bushes above the lines of infantry before discovering the men lying beneath them.

Trenches Well Concealed.
Colonel Stevens placed five companies of the Sixth infantry on the right under the direct command of Captain W. K. Jones, with Lieutenant Colonel Loughborough in charge of the entire line. The battalion (the Twelfth infantry) held the center, the engineers and a portion of the cavalry being on the left.

There was a long wait for the approach of the enemy after the defending line was in position. General Carr taking his time to scout the country thoroughly before throwing his men up against the intrenchments, which he found impossible to locate until his men were close upon them. A force of cavalry sent around the Blue left crossed the Republican river and might have been a strong factor in the fight, but "cease firing" was sounded by Colonel Wagner before this detachment was able to get into contact with the defending Blue army. It was on the right, however, where Lieutenant Colonel Loughborough and Captain Jones held the line, that the hardest fighting was done, and here it was that General Carr's attack cleverly managed as it was, met a complete repulse.

Lieutenant Colonel Loughborough had given orders that no fire should be directed upon the Browns until they were close up, but the impudence of a Brown squadron prancing along a ridge within 600 yards was too much for some of his men, who fired a few rifle shots.
Cavalry Develops Position.
One gun of the Seventh artillery roared out and the Brown cavalry scrambled, satisfied with having developed the Blue position. In a short time the Brown infantry in long lines poured over the hills a mile and a half distant and advanced straight upon the trenches. Every advantage of the ground was taken by the attacking force, but there were thousands of them coming down a long slope toward a ravine beyond which lay the entrenched infantry, with a battery and one machine gun, and it seemed as though any man who could hit the hill could not miss a Brown soldier.

The Texas infantry on General Carr's left made a beautiful mark as they passed in a flank march 500 yards away. Company K of the Sixth, under Captain Welch, opened fire, and in an instant the entire line was blazing at the Texans. The volume of fire was so great that the umpires decided that the Texas regiment was for the most part out of action before it reached a position from which it could open fire. Other troops came down, but the steady infantry fire and the unceasing pop of the machine gun, punctuated by the report of the three-inch gun, continued and in a short time the left of General Carr's attack was in a bad way and the umpires decided that it never could have succeeded on that part of the line. In the center and on the right General Carr was still very much in the battle when Colonel Wagner put a period to the fighting.

Tomorrow there will be no maneuvers in the field. The militia regiments will leave for home, and it is expected by Major Baker, the chief quartermaster, that the last of them will be on the cars at 10:30 in the morning.

ROBBERS BLOW OPEN SAFE

Bank at Sheridan, Ore., Loses Seven Thousand Dollars in Cash.

SHERIDAN, Ore., Oct. 26.—At 3 o'clock this morning burglars entered the banking house of Scroggins & Wortman in this place, blew open the safe with giant power, secured $7,000 in coin and made their escape before the sleeping residents of the town could be aroused.
The bank is situated in a brick building in the center of the town. The principal depositors are the farmers of the surrounding country. The robbers took the most opportune hour for their work, as the town was in slumber and enveloped in a dense fog. No watchmen was on duty, as there never has been any need of guarding property.
The building was not materially damaged. The explosion awakened Mayor Eakin, who lives over his store diagonally across the street from the bank. Looking from his window a moment later he saw the robbers emerge from the bank building, jump into a rig and drive to the south.
The mayor secured a rifle and fired three shots at the men as they disappeared down the road. Outside the building a sledge and two picks, apparently stolen from the Southern Pacific, were found. The robbers took nothing from the vault but the money.
