

MEET GREAT WESTERN RATES

Rock Island Adopts Stikney Grain Tariff and Burlington Matches It. OTHER ROADS WILL FALL IN LINE, TOO. Freight Official Declares No Discrimination Is Worked on Kansas City by Introduction of These Low Rates.

The Rock Island and Burlington have met the Great Western's proportional rates on grain between Omaha and Minneapolis and St. Paul and other local offices are expecting notification from their head offices to the same effect.

Local officials of the Rock Island have received a wire from the headquarters in Chicago stating that on and after "November 7" the proportional rates announced by the Chicago Great Western to Minneapolis would be effective on that road.

The Chicago Great Western rates were put in effect on October 24 by this announcement: "Effective October 24, the Chicago Great Western will establish a basis of 9 cents on wheat and 8 cents on corn from Omaha to Minneapolis."

Saturday the officials of the Burlington made the announcement that the proportional rates have also been met by their company, and although the Burlington had not adopted the Chicago Great Western tariff, it has made an adjustment of its through rates on grain to Minneapolis to meet the combination rate established.

Makes No Discrimination. "This is not making any discrimination between Kansas City and Omaha, but just reducing the rates in all cases," said an official. "For instance, Beatrice has the same rate to Kansas City as it has to Omaha."

At the Northwestern headquarters no information had been received from the Chicago office, but the local freight men said that any cuts that would be made would be met promptly by their road. The officials of the Milwaukee said virtually the same thing, and all the competing roads now seem to be very eager to meet Mr. Stikney's new rates since some have taken the step.

The Illinois Central freight men had no word about any change in their present existing tariffs, but they all believe that their company will lose no time in making a rate that will be on a par with the ones already established.
