twenty-third annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor today reassem bled for deliberation on subjects, the im-portant nature of which has drawn to Boston labor leaders from all parts of the country.

President Gompers' address and the reports of Secretary Morrison and Treasurer ennon were presented yesterday, so that the principal item of routine, as arranged for today, was to be the report of the executive council of the federation.

It was expected that the many recommendations contained in President Gomper's address would be acted upon by the convention. His declaration that the great danger which confronts the federation is the internecine strife between affiliated unions over the jurisdiction of trades has been the chief topic of discussion among the delegates. It was generally accepted that some decided action on this matter would be taken.

Directors Will Meet to Provide Facili-

The Auditorium directors will hold a meeting today to consider the question of roofing the building, if possible, before severe weather. They still hope that this can be done. There is a question to be settled as to the material to be used, either slate or tiling answering the specifications. The latter material probably will be decided on. If not held back by the stone workers, the brick contractor asks for only two weeks to finish the walls.

A large amount of work is being done daily, but it is of the kind which does not show fo the casual observer. The brick work on the south wall has been completed, with the exception of a small section at the east end, and the scaffolding removed. This wall stands four stories high and the iron beams, which are riveted in flush with its top, will support the roof promenade which will encircle the building. The brick workers on this wall had no stone work of the other sides. The stone men are busy in placing the stone cornice, which him to call a special session to pass laws extends for the full length of the three street faces, and this is necessarily slow work. The Corinthian capitals for the brick pilasters have been put in position only roughly blocked out and will be carved later, as it would have taken too much time to do this during construction. Another thing which has been done to save time is the omission of the stone columns from the north and west fronts where the entrance steps are to be placed. A footing for the stone work which will rest on these eighteen columns has been left and this work will be done next year,

Practically all of the iron beams which will support the balcony are in place and considerably more than half have been riveted. Seven of the ten roof-girders have been pulled up and the lateral bracing boited in. The derrick has been jacked up to the stage platform and is ready to raise the proscenium arch, the heaviest of the fron work. This has been assembled. In full the message reads:

To the Senate and House of Representa-I have convened the congress that it may consider the legislation necessary to put into operation the commercial treaty with Juba, which was ratified by the senate at its last ression, and reprequently by the Cuban government. deem such legisla-tion demanded, not only by our interest, but by our honor. We cannot with propriety abandon the course upon which we he have so wisely embarked. When the acceptance of the Platt amendment was required from Cuba by the action of the congress of the United States, this government thereby definitely committed tself to the policy of treating Cuba as or cupying a unique position as regards this country. It was provided that when the island became a free and independent republic she should stand in such close rein ions with us as in certain respects to come within our system of international policy; and it necessarily follows that she must also to a certain degree become included within the lines of our economic policy.

Situated as Cuba is, it would not be possible for this country to permit the strategic abuse of the plan by any foreign military power. It is for this reason that certain limitations have been imposed upon her financial policy, and that naval sta-tions have been conceded by her to the United States. The negotiations as to the details of these naval stations are on the eve of completion. They are so situated as to prevent any idea that there is the intention ever to use them against Cuba, or otherwise than for the protection of Cuba from the assaults of foreign foes, and for the better safeguarding of American in-
