The circumstances of the summary dismissal of General Dragomiroff have just leaked out. They strikingly illustrate the human element of the Russian rule. Combes' position to the clergy the government reserved its course until determination on the question of the separation of church and state had been expressed. GRANT'S LETTER IN RAG FILE

Historic Communication, Accepting Nomination for Presidency is Rescued from Scavengers.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 12.—The historic letter of General Grant accepting the nomination to the presidency and ending with "Let us have peace," has been found among some waste paper by a scavenger here. The letter was addressed to General John R. Hawley, president of the National Republican convention. After General Hawley went to Washington as senator the letter disappeared and was believed to have been lost. Workmen taking waste paper from the cellar of the Courant building found the paper tucked away in a bulky envelope, which was picked up by the man in charge and taken to the office. It proved to be the long lost epistle, the last paragraph of which reads: "Peace, and universal prosperity, its consequence, will lighten the burden of taxation, while it constantly reduces the national debt. Let us have peace."

LAYS IT TO HIS OPPOSITION TO SUMMERS

E. Rosewater Returns to Capital from New York, Where He Found Leading Financiers in a Hopeful Mood.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(Special Telegram.)—Senator Dietrich arrived in Washington this morning. Having been shown telegrams that the United States grand jury now in session in Omaha, would in all probability, be called upon to consider charges made against him that he sold the Hastings postoffice appointment, the senator was greatly indignant. He characterized the action of United States Attorney Summers as malicious in the highest degree and gave reasons for his belief. He stated that for upwards of a year Mr. Summers had been endeavoring to besmirch his character and standing for no other reason than that the senator was supporting another candidate for United States district attorney; that ever since Senator Dietrich had announced that he was in favor of another for the place, Mr. Summers had endeavored to club the senator into submission to his retention in his present office. Senator Dietrich added that threats of like character were made while he was governor of Nebraska by Joseph Bartley, defaulting state treasurer, and that the present depression in stocks would be greatly modified by the beginning of the new year. Some of the men with whom Mr. Rosewater conversed believed that the worst would eventually feel the present depression. This, however, Mr. Rosewater does not consider seriously, for he believes that by the time the worst is likely to feel the contraction the government will be paying out large sums of money for interest on bonds and other items which are settled at every year's beginning.

Tacked up on the four sides of a very neat little cottage in the western part of the city, the above placard is a thoughtful little woman, who did not propose to take any chances by merely pasting it up on one side of the house. The house occupies a corner lot, so that the signs may be read from all sides.
