DES MOINES, Nov. 22 .- (Special.)-The feature of the biennial report of the Board of Trustees of the State College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts at Ames, transmitted to Governor Cummins, is the showing that is made in two directions, both calling for increased appropriations and greater facilities for accomplishing results. The first is in the matter of general support of the college, and the other is in that of enlargement of the work and increase of departments, and branches of work along scientific lines. The report is the last of the reports to be filed. Fresident Storms joins with the trustees in recommendations, and it is made plain that the entire board is harmonious and working to secure the greatest good for the college. At the same time the legislature is not asked to do anything unreasonable, and the report merely places before the legislature the actual needs of the college. The legislature will have to decide what can be done in view of the growing needs of the college, and the plain showing of reason why there should be more appropriations.
