Light Guards Team Disbands. The game with Creighton college Thanksgiving day will mark the close of the career of the Dodge Light Guards' football team. The team has proven a had one financially for the last few years and the close sees them several hundred dollars short. The Dodge Light Guards football team, formed as it was from a nucleus of the famous team of the old Fifty-first Iowa Volunteer's team after the return of the regiment from the Philippines, has been disbanded and that was by Ames Agricultural college this fall. Twice before only in his career had the team been scored against and that was by Highland Park college and the State Normal school during the four years that it was in the field.

The members of the team consider that they have earned laurels sufficient and are now willing to lay down. Nearly every member of the eleven is engaged in business and has not the time to devote to practice that he should. For this reason and none other, the team after the game with Creighton college Thursday decided to disband and rest on the laurels that it had won during the four years it had been in the field and open to meet all comers.

REVIVE TELEPHONE PROJECT

Meeting to Be Held Today Expected to Develop Plans of the Independent.

QUESTION TO BE VOTED ON IN MARCH

Thomas D. Metcalf, Head of Local Corporation, Says Company Has Simply Been Waiting for Opportune Time.

By those who are interested locally in the project, it was stated yesterday that the meeting today of the representatives of the independent telephone companies in this section of the state meant a renewed and more determined effort to secure an entrance into Council Bluffs. Thomas D. Metcalf, head of the local independent company stated that while he and his fellow promoters had been lying low for some time past they were by no means out of the field and were simply waiting for an opportune time to come before the people. This, he said, they believed had now arrived and he thought he was safe in saying that the citizens of Council Bluffs would be called upon at the city election in March to vote upon the proposition for the establishment of an independent telephone system in this city which would give the business men of Council Bluffs an opportunity to connect with the several thousand subscribers to independent telephone systems in southwestern Iowa. A member of the executive committee of the Commercial club, in discussing the matter yesterday, stated that in his opinion the question of Council Bluffs securing connection with the rural telephone lines had been delayed too long and that as far as he was concerned this connection would be secured before the opening of next summer, after the Nebraska Telephone company liked it or not. GETS NO TURKEY FOR DINNER

Elkhorn Man Makes Acquaintances and Winds Up by Being Robbed.

Chris Larsen, a farmer from Elkhorn, Neb., came to Council Bluffs Thursday to spend Thanksgiving day with relatives, but missed out on eating any of the turkey and other good things which had been provided in his honor. On alighting from the depot he became imbued with the idea that his first need was to get a drink. He repaired to the nearest saloon. Here he became mixed up with some congenial company and the hours sped by before he was aware of how fast the time had flown. In stead of taking one drink, as he originally intended, Larsen was induced by his new formed acquaintances to imbibe several. It was late in the evening and in fact it was drawing on well to night when Larsen tore himself away from his convivial companions and ventured forth to seek the residence of his relatives, where they had awaited him for several hours. He reached a point between the yards of the Illinois Central and Northwestern railroads, somewhat out of his proper direction, but this was not noticed by him at the time. While he was vainly looking around for some landmark which would direct him to where he wanted to go a man stepped from the shadow of a tall tree and ordered him to hold up his hands. This was a new experience for Larsen, but he had read in the papers of people being held up and robbed and he decided to take no such chances. He started to run, but his feet failed to respond to his will to get away from that locality and before he knew exactly where he was the robber was on him. Larsen then decided that discretion was the better part of valor and offered to hold up his hands while the fellow went through his pockets, abstracting therefrom $22. All the money which Larsen had, Larsen then obeyed the order to turn about and start toward Broadway in preference to becoming a dead man, as the thug suggested. About daybreak yesterday morning Larsen found his way to police headquarters, where he reported the hold up. Fred Wroth was arrested on the description given by Larsen and the latter identified him as one of the boon companions with whom he had been drinking in the evening. Wroth, who denies ever having seen the farmer from Elkhorn before, will have his preliminary hearing in police court this morning. In the meantime Larsen is awaiting funds from home so that he can return to Nebraska.
