NEW BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

Country Life in America Issues a Superbly Illustrated Christmas Number.

LARGE SALE OF FRANCES PARKER'S NOVEL

The January Delineator Contains Literary and Art Features of Exceptional Value and Reliable Fashion Information.

A most wonderful Christmas Annual, offering practical suggestions for every preparation one would make to enjoy an ideal Christmas, is Country Life in America for December, the largest magazine with the most beautiful photographs and pages and supplements in color to rival the great annuals of England. It is different, however, in being really American, breathing everything of the outdoor world, from the snowy woods, seeking ice-boating, the animals, birds and flowers to southern plantations and house parties. The beautiful magazine aims to cover all the work and pleasure that goes on under the open sky.

Among the really notable features the "Annual" contains, are "Christmas in the Pine Woods," by E. E. White, the "blazing trail" author; "Skiing" as a popular sport in America, with remarkable jumping pictures; and the beautiful section of the magazine illustrating Christmas greens and floral decorations in natural colors, including the many new southern varieties, which, together with the large supplement, three feet long, entitled "A Parson's Christmas," by Stetson Crawford, and other features, make an exquisite run of color. Also—A. Radelyffe Dugmore's series of photographic studies of wild animal tracks in the snow; the illustrated story of "The Amphibious Scooter," a new kind of ice-boat that not only sails on the ice but in water as well, and slides from one element to the other without a jar; and Mrs. Burton Kingsland's complete article, with color decorations, in the preparation, including games, stories, receipts, and a hundred suggestions,—are entitled to foremost mention; while "Winter Flowers" that bloom outdoors December to March, Christmas in the south in the old regime and the new, by Grace King, and "The Home of the Naturalist," being Ernest Thompson Seton's unique country seat and wild animal preserve in the Connecticut hills, are illustrated in the charming manner characteristic of this large magazine. A hundred other suggestions in many brief articles have to do with nature in general, including wonderful snow-men, how to make a living out of doors, selecting presents from a classified list of 300, flower-growing, animal-rearing, and so on. Altogether it is the largest number this superbly illustrated magazine has published.

Charles P. Chipman, author of two new books, "Two Boys and a Dog" and "Through an Unknown Isle," brought out this year by the Seafield Publishing company, is now a member of the class of 1906 of Colby college, Waterville, Me. He wrote his first story about four years ago in collaboration with his father, a Baptist minister. "Two Boys and a Dog" was written for the amusement of his younger brother and his chum, who are the two lads who figure in the story, and the tale pleased them so much that it was later prepared for publication. "Through an Unknown Isle" touches a new field in juvenile fiction, and is the result of much careful reading. Though the adventures are mainly fictitious, the characters are real lads, as he says: "I have endeavored to make my heroes in all cases real, live boys, not fanciful, youthful prodigies."

The sales of "Marble of the Lower Ranch" in Montana, Wyoming and Arizona, are reported by the C. M. Clark Publishing company, who issued Miss Frances Parker's novel of life in Montana, to be the largest ever attained in the west by any one of their publications. This proves that in one case, at least, an author who is virtually to be classed more or less with a prophet is not without honor in her own country.

The green, ivory and black of the Century's new cover make an effective background for the special design marking the Christmas issue. The coronation of Charles, by Pope Leo III in the basilica of St. Peter's, Christmas day, 800 A. D., is the subject; and the rich browns, reds and blues of the figures and robes are brightened by a liberal use of gold. The whole cover gives the artistic effect of a multi-colored picture framed in ivory and black against a soft green ground.

The January Delineator contains literary and art features of exceptional value and reliable fashion information, including a letter from Mrs. Osborn, the foremost modiste in America. The pictorial presentation of the season's styles is very good. A number of pages are given to a description of "Parsifal," Wagner's great music drama, and an interpretation of the themes by W. J. Henderson, with personal reminiscences of the first performance of the opera at Bayreuth, by Gustav Kobbé. The illustrations are from the only photographs ever made of the opera, and are now published for the first time. Mr. Kobbé also contributes an interesting paper describing the life of Mme. Schumann-Heink at Villa Tini, her home near Dresden, Germany. There are stories by Jack London, whose book, "The Call of the Wild," is one of the most popular of the year, and Kathryn Jarboe, and the fourth installment of "The Evolution of a Club Woman," by Agnes Surbridge. The first part of "The Fountain of Youth" introduces a series of undoubted benefit to women who are in search of, or desirous of retaining, youth. In addition, there is an appealing paper by Little Hamilton French, and much matter of interest to the children, including serials by Albert Bigelow Paine and Gabrielle E. Jackson. There is also helpful information for every department of the home.

The Orange Judd company has published a "Manual on Corn Judging," by Archibald Dixon Shamel of the United States Department of Agriculture. The book is profusely illustrated with cuts, showing types of corn in the ear and kernel. The score cards of the Rules are laid down in plain English. How a person who had the corn to judge how it would score. Prof. Shamel has conferred a favor on the corn raisers in placing this information at their disposal, and without doubt this book will have a large sale among corn growers.

A revised edition of "Barn Plans and Other Outbuildings" is fresh from the press of the Orange Judd Publishing company. This book of 388 pages contains plans and elevations for all kinds of farm outbuildings, general purpose barns, horse barns, beef barns, dairy barns and calf pens. Sheds for cattle, hogs and sheep are illustrated of different materials from straw to stone. It is certainly a valuable work and those who are contemplating building barns or other outbuildings will certainly get more than a dollar's worth of good out of it. There are several plans for hog houses and also for poultry houses and runs.

"The Songs of the Trees" is another of the very pleasing holiday books for children and it will prove instructive and very entertaining. As there are birthstones for each month, so there is a tree for each month, and Mary T. Robinson has given us the trees for each month with a little song, which she has composed for each, and which Josephine Robinson has set to music, a little poem and an interesting biography for each tree as well as a little picture. The tree for December is the "Christmas tree" and the children will all join her in saying of this tree, "I love thee the best of them all." This book is bound in an attractive colored cover. The Hobbs-Merrill company are the publishers.

One of the earliest applications for the limited large paper edition of Richard Henry Stoddard's "Recollections," which has just been brought out by A. S. Barnes & Co., was from a brother poet who of recent years has written more state papers than poems—Secretary of State John Hay. The novelle in Alsace's for January is entitled "The Siege of Sar," whose author, Francis Prevost, had "The Measure of a Man" in October. In tone and setting it is slightly different from what we have come to look for in an Alsace novelle, but the magazine has certainly lost nothing, for the story is equal to the best of the good things it has been giving its readers.

The above books are for sale by the Meigs Stationery company, 1308 Farnam.

RECTOR OF ST. LUKE'S, ASHBURNHAM, ONTARIO, TESTIFIES TO THE GOOD QUALITIES OF Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

ASHBURNHAM, Ont., April 18, 1903.—I think it is only right that I should tell you what a wonderful effect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has produced. The day before Easter I was so distressed with a cold and cough that I did not think to be able to take any duties the next day, as my voice was almost choked by the cough. The same day I received an order from you for a bottle of your Cough Remedy. I got once procured a sample bottle, and took about three doses of the medicine. To my great relief the cough and cold had completely disappeared and I was able to preach three times on Easter Day. I know that this rapid and effective cure was due to your Cough Remedy. I make this testimonial without solicitation, being thankful to have found such a God-sent remedy. Respectfully yours,
E. A. LANGFELDT, M. A.,
Rector of St. Luke's Church.

DOWN ON THE OLD COLISEUM

Building Inspector Withnell Will Urge Advisory Board to Have Building Condemned.

Building Inspector Withnell declares that the Coliseum shall not be used another year by the A. S. Van Ben or any other organization or individual who would bring large crowds into it. Through the evening papers last night he learned that the knights were considering leasing the big building for another year, with a possibility of purchase. The inspector immediately dictated a letter to the advisory board, recommending the condemnation of the structure and declaring it unfit for use. The board will meet today and likely take the matter up.

All the repairs that a reasonable amount of money would put on the shell would not make it safe," said Inspector Withnell. "An entire new foundation is needed, the sills and studs are rotten and the floor badly decayed. The general condition of the Coliseum is bad and it will take thousands of dollars to reduce the danger that exists under the strain of large crowds. I shall spare no effort to have the building condemned and do not think much difficulty will be encountered in securing this judgment from the board."

DEMOCRATS MAY HAVE WON

Second Charter Election in Denver Seems to Be Victory for the Fusionists.

DENVER, Dec. 9.—Returns from the election for the choice of delegates to the second charter convention up to 8 o'clock indicate that the ticket nominated by the democrats and the anti-Wolcott wing of the republican party is elected by about 6,000 majority over the "civil" ticket, which was supported by the street republicans. The "civil" republican ticket was supported by three or four daily newspapers of the city and was pledged to favor municipal control and ownership of public utilities.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that enters the hair at the root, and cleans the scalp of dandruff and lice and in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair as long, and in six weeks he had a normal scalp of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., special agents.

Entertains Messenger Boys.

There is not much sunshine enters the lives of the messenger boys, who respond to calls at all times of the day or night, but they are not to be pitied, for they are well paid. One bright streak marked up last night. The Carl E. Green, a first class messenger, visited the entire A. D. T. force on the porch of his house instead of the customary perch in the gallery. To celebrate the occasion the Green dressed in a suit of blue, which in this particular instance was new and trimmed in gold braid. Without looking over his shoulder he stood on the stage known there was a new electric present. There was a search in the applause from the front seats, which was inspiring to the performers and infectious in the remaining portion of the audience.

SISTER CLINGS TO BROTHER

Mrs. Nina Robinson Avows Her Faith in Frank Ford's Innocence.

AFFECTING MEETING OF PAIR AT PRISON

Devoted Woman Will Ask Rich Uncle for Money to Save Humorous Burglar from Penitentiary.

A demure looking woman, dressed in gray and wearing a handsome fur scarf, appeared at the police station yesterday and asked to see Frank Ford, the "humorous burglar," whose real name is Frank Henderson.

"My name is Nina E. Robinson," the woman said, "I am Frank Henderson's sister. We were motherless almost from childhood and a stepmother drove us away from home before we were really able to take care of ourselves. Frank left home at the age of 8 and I have seen little of him since."

"I do not believe him guilty," and there was a preceptible tremor in the voice of the little woman. "I am on my way to Arlington, where my uncle lives," she continued. "He is B. F. Mitchell, and he owns a ranch and has money. I will see what he thinks is best to do. I shall not desert Frank and will come back here and employ attorneys to take care of his case. He never was a bad boy and I don't believe him guilty of these crimes."

Another charge was filed against Ford by Joseph A. Brainard and he was arraigned and pleaded not guilty while his sister waited for him in the office of Sergeant Dempsey downstairs. Ford was identified by both Mr. and Mrs. Brainard, who live at 1515 Park avenue and who alleged he entered their home November 15 and stole $1 in cash.

Brother and Sister Meet.

The meeting of the brother and sister was affecting. Ford threw his arms about her neck and held her close, while she, who had appeared so brave and determined before, gave way to her pent-up feelings and cried bitterly.

Mrs. Robinson said that she had lived in Argentina for several years, but had recently sold her property there and was now prepared to move away.

"If they find Frank guilty he will be sent to the penitentiary at Lincoln," she said, "and I will move there. I shall not desert him."

Mrs. Robinson left for Arlington last evening, but will return to this city in a few days to arrange for her brother's defense.

Card of Thanks.

Being unable to thank each one personally, I desire in this way to extend my heartfelt thanks to the many friends and neighbors, who kindly offered their assistance and kind words of sympathy in the death and burial of my beloved husband, William M. Burmeister, especially do I wish to thank the city officials, members of Omaha Fire department and Knights and Ladies of Maccabees, also for many beautiful floral offerings.
MRS. WILLIAM M. BURMEISTER.
