Attorney Wadsworth Draws First Blood is the Contest Now Being Waged.

STORZ CASES ARE NOT YET DISPOSED OF

As Attorney Fee of $25 Goes with Each Case, This Represents a Fair Day's Work for Attorney Wadaworth.

Attorney Wadsworth, representing the Storz Brewing company, has drawn first blood in the saloon fight emanating from the attack made by Attorney Benjamin and others on the Storz company's saloons in this city. While the suits brought by Benjamin against nix of the Storz company's saloons are still pending. Wadsworth stepped in yesterday and secured from Judge Thornell permanent injunctions against thirty saloons of the city.

The proprietors of the saloons against Wadsworth obtained permanent injunctions are: Charles E. Armour, Burke & Bell, A. S. Goodrich, Mithen & Kroll, Hooper & McKee, Kildare & Hultz, Hansen & Nettsen, M. Madquhe, Lindley & Hartwig, Kahler & Washington, M. T. Sullivan, William Pfaff, Olsen & Mortensen, Martens & Kempkes, J. S. Bruner, Jarvis Wine company, William Quick, Holst & Spetman, Boysen & Steinberger, Henry Gerber, Otto Becker, S. Adrian, H. A. Larson, William Harkins, Charles Leibold, Frank Hahn, George L. Smith, Tate & Co., H. E. South-Charles Schultz.

No infunctions were asked against the owners of the buildings in which these saloons are located and the 'cases so far as the owners of the property are concerned were continued. Each injunction carries with it an attorney fee of $25 as provided by law. Until a few years ago the attorney fee allowed by statute in such cases was $100.

The injunction suits brought by Wadsworth against E. Sherlock, Charles Poore, a condition for a franchise in the city, and, C. Burright, L. Rosenfeld, F. Schroeder and the Grand hotel went over, as the defendants have entered appearances in these cases and they will have to be tried to the court. In the thirty suits in which injunctions were granted yesterday there was no defense made.

Alderman Casper, at the request of a large number of citizens, has inaugurated a campaign for a better quality of gas than that at present supplied to its consumers by the local company. Ever since the new management assumed control of the local lighting company complaint has been made about the poor quality of the gas and its lack of illuminating power.
