Not for years, if ever before, has there been the continued series of brilliant affairs that have marked this winter's social season. They have not only been more numerous, but each succeeding function has been more brilliant, at least, as it is called.

There have been little innovations, too, that were quite delightful, among these the visiting party that went down to Fort Crook Friday afternoon to call upon the officers and ladies of the Thirtieth Infantry.

And then there were the dancing parties, so many of them in fact that one woman insists that "something will have to be done about it."

According to The-Man-Who-Knows, if half the society gossip in circulation just now could be cashed there would be no further occasion for charity teas this year.

The women who have played whist all winter are beginning to realize that how ever delightful that game may be, it is not conducive to strong arms or strong backs, and the delightful days of the week past that have tempted society out of doors at intervals between tea parties, luncheons and the like, have been longed for.

The following is taken from a Manila letter in the Army and Navy Journal: "Of those who have recently gone from us none are more keenly missed than the Jolly Colonel John O'Connell of the Thirtieth Infantry and his charming wife and daughter."

The announcement of Mr. Tallaferro's resignation as manager of the Cudahy plant at South Omaha and of their intended departure from Omaha was received with regret by their many friends here.

Among the presents received at the Rose-Adler wedding during the week was one from Hon. D. E. Thompson, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Brazil, an old friend of the bride's family.

WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

At a meeting of the executive board of the Nebraska State Federation recently held in Lincoln much routine business was transacted.

The matter of the club organ was thoroughly discussed and the subject referred to the president and secretary for further investigation.

The Massachusetts Federation Bulletin was presented as a members' wealth and perhaps wisdom, that federation has a subscription price of 50 cents on its club organ, which is edited and published by its experienced president and secretary.

The board agreed that the plan presented at Fremont by the committee whereby each of the 4300 club women in the state should receive a free monthly federation leaflet, would greatly assist in disseminating federation knowledge and in aiding club interest and club extension.

In response to an appeal from the National Congress of Mothers the secretary was instructed to write to the Nebraska senators requesting their interest in the investigation of the charges against Senator Sweeney.

The year book of 1934 will contain only such matter as is absolutely necessary to carry on the business of the federation, all reports being omitted except the treasurer's, and considerable attention given to the altruistic work of individual clubs.

RETALIATE ON POPE

do not wish to see all these marionettes wherever I go." A famous French painter, M. Gabriel Ferrer, succeeded the other day in obtaining a sitting from the pope in order to paint his portrait.

The latest of the hard work he had to perform and the long confinement within the walls of the Vatican, the pope said: "I think it will be much better for me to abdicate and give up the position. We shall then be able to go back to Venice together and lead the happy life of the past."

The difficulties lately experienced in the condition of the Vatican finances did not diminish the pope's inclination to joke. When Cardinal del Val reminded him of the generosity of American Catholics the pope is reported to have replied: "I really think that the only way out of these troubles would be the discovery of a rich American uncle, which expression is proverbial in Italy as the last hope of those in financial troubles."

The latest of the new pope was reported on Christmas day on a cardinal who had severely remonstrated on several occasions against the democratic ways of Pius X, and the unheard of custom recently introduced at the Vatican that two of the prelates in attendance should always have with him, Pius X sent to the objecting cardinal a personal invitation to dine at the Vatican Christmas day and astonished his guest with the presence of his sisters and nieces and several prelates.

When Archbishop Farley of New York arrives here next month he is expected to officiate at the dedication of the American chapel of the new church of St. Joachim, in which many American bishops have sent gifts and presents of money, New York contributing a beautiful marble statue of the Virgin.

Bishop O'Connor of Newark, N. J., is expected to reach here tomorrow (Sunday) evening, and will probably be received by the pope on Tuesday. It is generally believed in Rome that when the archbishop of New York is received by the pope the insignia of a monsignor will be sent through the him to Rev. Father Lavetto of the New York cathedral, who was lately made vicar general of the archdiocese.

It may not generally be known that the president of the French republic is honorary canon of the Basilica, having succeeded in his capacity as head of the state the ancient kings of France. In answer to the greetings received, the French Foreign office forwarded to Rome a beautifully illustrated letter signed Emile Loubet, the text of which has just been made public. It is addressed to the "Venerable Canons of the Chapter of St. John at the Lateran," and runs thus: "I have received with pleasure the letter of greetings you sent me for the new year, and while accepting your best wishes for France and myself, I thank you sincerely for the same. We can assure you that we shall always be glad to give you proof of our affection and consideration."

The program at Monday afternoon's opening of the Woman's club for Monday afternoon, January 23, for Mrs. Martha Glew's presentation of her "Plantation Folk Lore."

Club women who are really in earnest and who feel the high inspiration of the work they have undertaken will gain much encouragement from the following, taken from the Massachusetts Federation Bulletin: "It is the testimony of nearly all our admirers that the club movement is one of the most hopeful of the modern progress."
