SPORTING GOSSIP OF THE WEEK

There are no end of furnity things to be South Omaha, Council Bluffs and other met with in the course of a person's every suburbs, and it is not improbable that by day existence, provided he only has the another season at the outside a club house faculty of seeing the funny side. To a will have been erected at a centrally loman acquisinted with the bowling game, cated point, by and for the use of the pat-Its joys and its sorrows, there is nothing rons of the horseless. The tendency seems quite so mirth provoking as to see and to be, according to the dealers, in favor hear the average woman attempt to down of supplanting the low horse power, twothe plus. So, just to make a good fellow of herself, she makes up her mind to knock the varnish all off those pins or perish in the attempt. Besides, she quietly assures herself, it looks so easy. So when Johnny comes marching home from the office or store, she digs out that new shirtwaist and her new patent leather shoes and all her finest-and tightest-fixin's. Then she puts on a new collar a little higher and chokier than her every W. D. Bancker's is a Knox. eight-horse-

Of the many men who have taken as their life work the alleviation of the miseries of the poor in London, few have done the work better or endeared themselve to the people as has Mark Guy Pearse. author, artist and preacher, who has bee lecturing in Omaha during the last week In company with Hugh Price Hughes h started the settlement work in the west end of London. There was perhaps n spot in London better suited for settlemen work than the west end, generally sup posed to be exclusive to aristocracy and wealth. Here are to be found the residen ces of royalty, the fashionable clubs and the playgrounds of Vanity Fair. Bi around these beautiful edifices are a cluster of miserable hovels and sweat shop and the ever present low class saloon And in sharp contrast to the dwellers

Mayfair, "the ladies and gentlemen of the world," are the shrunken, hollow chestespecimens of humanity which are not possible in any other city but London. A life of never ending toil and misery, o impure air and lack of food for genera tions past and a life steeped in every pos sible crime, have produced the result, and the result is more brute than man. the rich, red wine of life is coursing through the veins it imparts vigor and strength to the body and healthy action to all parts of the system. A healthy family is a wealthy family; it may be poor in worldly goods, but possessed of a priceless jewel that all the riches of earth cannot buy. A healthy family may not carry in their veins the blood of titled nobles or distinguished ancestors, but vigorous health is always an evidence of the best and purest blood, for the vital fluid contains all material necessary for the making of bone and muscle and the growth and development of the body, and upon its purity rests our chances for good health. One or two strong amateur nines will be or have been organized at the Bluffs, so that with the Ideals, who led the Tri-City league, and the Crescents, there will be no lack of entertainment the coming summer, even if a local league isn't organized-and besides the boys may change their minds before schedule is made up. Too much good duck hunting near home is responsible for the lack of Omaha attendance at the Seneca, Kan., Gun club's shoot last week. When it was cold and snowy a month ago a dozen of the local gunners were almost sure they were going. but as the cold went and the ducks came they forgot all about it until at the last Billy Townsend was the only man who had not lost his appetite. If he had realized just what he was up against in the matter of getting there it is doubtful if they would have seen his smilling countenance, for it takes a full night and day on the road to complish the trip. But having got there he got a look in at some of the prize money although none of the firsts came his way. Neither did any first prizes get winged by any of the Nebraska contingent, though L. F. Reed of Ohlowa, scored the highest average in the target shoot. As a matter of fact, without the slightest disposition to knock, the Seneca meet was not in the same tier of berths with the one held her last month. George Nicholson, W. K.
