

GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Flour Mills Closed by Light Demand from All Directions. GATES SAID TO RULE IN JULY CORN. Reports of Fine Crop and Early Harvest Comes from South and Southwest—Wheat Strong and Offerings Light.

Reports from Chicago are to the effect that all the local flour mills at that point are closed down on account of a very light demand for flour from all directions. One mill expects to start Thursday on a rush order.

It is said John W. Gates has been credited with the idea of closing the principal in the July corn deal and rumors are afloat that he proposes to take all the corn offered for July delivery and pay for it. This would mean a squeeze for the July shorts.

St. Louis reports say the crop is in fine condition in Southern Missouri and that nearly all the wheat has been harvested. The harvest is expected to be in full blast by the end of this week.

At the immediate start the corn market showed a little downward tendency. The close was steady with July a shade higher at 45c, after ranging between 45c and 46c. September opened a shade lower at 44c, and closed at 44c.

The leading futures ranged as follows: Articles: Open High Low Close. Wheat July 45 46 45 45.50. Wheat Sept 44 45 44 44.50.
