BEE STILL OFFICIAL PAPER

Secures City Advertising Without Competition for the Coming Year.

OTHER PAPERS DO NOT EVEN CONTEST

General Recognition Paid to Fact that The Bee Has the Largest Circulation and Therefore is Rightfully Official Organ.

Without any competition whatever The Omaha Evening Bee was awarded the city advertising for the year ending July 1, 1904, at a special meeting of the council yesterday, the prices submitted being the lowest for similar work ever obtained by the city. A contract was ordered entered into that will continue the Bee as the official newspaper of Omaha, a prestige that it has enjoyed by reason of its larger circulation for many years. Congressman Hitchcock, president of the World-Herald company, in response to an invitation to bid, submitted this note:

By reason of the fact that the bid made by the World-Herald company for city advertising, although the lowest, did not receive fair treatment at the hands of the city officials, the World-Herald declines to bid on the same this year.

The bids were opened by City Clerk Ellwood. The Bee's bid is a little under the maximum rates fixed in the charter.

The Bee has Largest Circulation. The explanation of the World-Herald's action is to be found in the city advertising contract last year, when for the first time bids were asked under the new charter amendment requiring newspapers seeking to be designated the official paper to show up an actual bona fide and regular daily subscription list within the corporate limits of the city in excess of 5,000. At that time The Bee and World-Herald both put in bids, the News abstaining for fear of exhibiting its deficient circulation. The statement of circulation filed by the World-Herald was attacked and on investigation by the council it was proved conclusively before that body that the latter did not have the requisite 5,000 circulation. The World-Herald took the matter into the courts, but the courts reviewing the case established the Bee's right to the contract. At that time The Bee took a thorough newspaper census of the city, disclosing the fact that The Bee alone had more than 5,000 carrier delivery circulation within the city limits.

Another similar census last month confirms that situation today.

The affidavit of the circulation manager filed with this year's bid shows a daily circulation for the past year in excess of 7,500 for The Evening Bee within the corporate boundaries. The Bee has also been

YALE WINS VARSITY EIGHT

Harvard Takes Four-oared Event in Contest at New London.

RACES ARE ROWED EARLY IN THE DAY

Few See Events, as Trains Are Not Ready and There is Much Complaint by Visitors.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 1.—The Yale-Harvard regatta was concluded today and again Yale took the premier event. In the big varsity race the Yale men crossed the line winners by seven lengths. The time was Yale, 2:09; Harvard, 2:16. Throughout the race the Yale crew never headed from the crack of the pistol the result was never in doubt. It was a case of superiority in rowing strength and rowing fundamentals. Within a quarter of a mile from the start Yale had established itself in a comfortable position a length ahead. This had been accomplished in spite of the fact that Harvard was rowing fully two more strokes to the minute than Yale. The New Haven crewmen increased their lead steadily until two and one-half miles had been traveled. Then their shell suffered from the sea grass section of the course. Harvard pulled up one length, but when Yale reached clear water again the superiority of the blue became more than ever evident.

Gradually the contest became a procession and Yale's victory was as decisive as the most ardent of its supporters could wish.

Just before the big race Harvard had snatched an eleventh-hour victory in the four-oared race. In this event, which was rowed up stream from the navy yard to Glass Ferry, Yale had led throughout and within a quarter of a mile from the finish was racing well and six lengths ahead. At this point the Yale men seemed to go to pieces. It was not a collapse of oarsmen, however. There was an unfortunate weakness in Yale's rigging and the outrigger on which Fish was pulling broke. This precluded all possibility of a Yale victory. Harvard, astern, saw his chance, spurred and won a victory which was confessedly hollow. With the results of today's events Yale carried off the palm of the regatta, having also won the freshmen eight race yesterday.

Aside from the races themselves the feature of the day was a regrettable one. It had to do with the mismanagement in the matter of official arrangements.

Visitors Are Disappointed. Yesterday the thousands of spectators were caused no end of inconvenience, but today the experiences of the race-goers were vastly more exacting. Without public warning the racing of the day was interchanged and set ahead. As a result the four-oared race was rowed without spectators and many newspaper men were allowed to wait in New London without a chance to witness the first race of the day. When the regatta was notified the oarsmen to prepare for the race the officials were not in position and the official boats were scurrying along the river in a panicky style. The railroad officials who were responsible to their patrons for race seeing transportation were bewildered. And the many motor cars which went up the river for the first event, with wonderful celerity the two crews of fours were hustled to the navy yard. Their launches had to be used as stake-boats and almost before the handful of river habitués were aware, the two crews were sent away without a cheer and practically unseen except by those on the official boats. In the city proper there was a loud outcry and the thousands of disgruntled racegoers scamped about looking for information as to the hour of departure of the regatta. The railroad officials, perplexed throughout the morning, were finally bewildered all the more when a "hurry-up" order from the regatta committee megaphoned to the drawbridge called the "varsity observation train." There was more scamping of hundreds. They finally reached the drawbridge at the last moment in time to see the big race.

When it finally became known that the "varsity" contest was about to be called there was a great flurry among the excursion boats and yachts on the river, and a mad race to get over began about the finish line of Red Top.

This Victory the Fourth. For the fourth consecutive year Yale today won the "varsity boat race from Harvard. Leading from start to finish the New Haven crew crossed the twenty-nine and a half second mile of Harvard, which in boating terms means seven lengths of an eight-oared shell. It was the worst whipping that Yale had given its old rival in recent years. In the "varsity four-oared race" Stuyvesant Fish, Jr., by a mishap which might have happened to any oarsman, just prevented the Yale men from winning three races of the annual regatta. In this race Yale, after leading by from one to fourteen seconds, was beaten out at the finish as the result of Fish catching a crab and then breaking his out-rigger. An eighth of a mile from the finish the Yale four-oared was ten lengths ahead of Harvard. Fish had already caught a crab earlier in the race and the second mishap of the Yale man was fatal. The Blues' shell literally stopped. The Harvard men saw their chance and although badly pumped out they strove before their stroke up and won out by one and a half boat lengths.

Story Briefly Told. The story of the "varsity" and four-oared races is summed up briefly by the official time, which for the "varsity eight-oared race is as follows: Half mile: Yale, 2:02; Harvard, 2:08. One mile: Yale, 4:08; Harvard, 4:14. Mile and one-half: Yale, 7:08; Harvard, 7:22. Two miles: Yale, 10:08; Harvard, 10:26. Two and one-half miles: Yale, 13:17; Harvard, 13:30. Three miles: Yale, 16:26; Harvard, 16:38. Three and one-half miles: Yale, 19:35; Harvard, 19:52. Four miles: Yale, 22:44; Harvard, 23:10. The official time of the "varsity four-oared race was: Half mile: Yale, 2:40; Harvard, 2:41. One mile: Yale, 5:40; Harvard, 5:50. Mile and one-half: Yale, 8:42; Harvard, 8:54. Two miles: Harvard, 12:13; Yale, 12:18.

In the "varsity race Yale got the lead almost at the start by running a stroke or far above its normal gait and then steadily increased its lead on every half mile with the single exception of the second half mile. On this half mile of the race Harvard cut Yale's lead down by just one-half a second. The two "varsity eights" rowed a faultless race. Yale simply had the better crew. Today's race demonstrated that there is just about half a minute's difference in the speed of these two crews for four miles. Yale was the favorite for the "varsity" race to the extent of 2 to 1 in some bets which were made last night. The race was rowed with a strong tide and a strong wind in favor of the crews. There was too much wind, however, for good shell racing and the time was correspondingly slow.

Water Was Choppy. The water was so choppy that both crews dropped their strokes down very low again and again on account of the heavy swells, which made a high stroke impossible. For this reason the race was unique. It has never before happened that two "varsity ights have raised and lowered their stroke to such an extent as these two crews did in today's race. Yale's stroke ranged from twenty-five to thirty-six to the minute. Harvard's ranged from a twenty-five to thirty-six to the minute. Yale's normal gait was thirty-two while Harvard's normal gait was from thirty-three to thirty-four.

In the opinion of the experts Yale's victory is due to its longer stroke and the fact that it used the power of the body swing and the leg drive simultaneously, while Harvard used up its leg drive power too quickly. So far as watermanship was concerned and the harmony of the oars there was no choice between them.

With two crews equally strong and rowing respectfully and equally well, and both crews striving to row the English "varsity" stroke, the explanation of Yale's victory lies simply in the fact that wearers of the blue approached in their perfection more nearly to the ideal English stroke than did Harvard. Upon the oarsmen of the Yale eight to their quarters, where they were accorded an enthusiastic reception, the oarsmen elected as captain for next year Richard Whittier of Staten Island, N. Y., who rowed at No. 8 in today's race.

At Harvard quarters it was announced that an election for captain would be held later. Keen disappointment was evident, but the oarsmen cheered Colon, their trainer, heartily. Coach Colson declined to discuss the race.

Later in the day O. D. Filley of Paris, France, stroke of this year's crew, was elected captain of the Harvard "varsity" eight.

FIRST TOWN ON ROSEBUD LAND

Nebraska People Lay Out City of St. Elmo, Ten Miles West of Bonesteel.

BONESTEEL, S. D., July 1.—(Special.)—The first town on the Rosebud lands to be opened will be St. Elmo, near the head of Willow creek and ten miles straight west of Bonesteel. It has long been conceded that one of the good towns of the new territory would be located on Willow creek, and by articles of incorporation filed this week the town became a reality. The St. Elmo Townsite company, incorporated for $100,000, is behind the new town and will enter it in the race for county seat honors.

The corporation is headed by O. E. Green of the First National bank of Geneva, Neb. Associated with him are several other prominent business men of Bonesteel. The new townsite is located on the south-east quarter of section 32, township 96, range 70. It is known as the "Mollie Eagle Pipe" inherited Indian land sold by act of congress by the heirs of Mollie Eagle Pipe. The corporation has a perfect title to the land, which gives St. Elmo an advantage over the other reservation townsites. It is an ideal location for a town. Willow creek, on which are also located numerous fine springs, furnishes an abundance of good water. The land is on a level and the railroad will surely run through the townsite. The promoters say the formation between Bonesteel and St. Elmo insures the railroad for that town whenever it extends west. A point on Willow creek near St. Elmo is a practical route for the railroad east to Rosebud, the formation of the country eliminates all doubt of St. Elmo being left out when the road builds west. A fifty-foot ledge of building stone is near the townsite, and this quarry will be operated by the townsite company. In thirty days a quantity of lumber has been ordered shipped to the end of the track, and will be hauled to St. Elmo at once.

Surveyors are busy platting the new town, and expect to finish by July 5. The town is situated in southern style, with a large public square in the center. As soon as the plat is completed the lots will be sold at auction at Bonesteel, and it is expected to start the sale by July 5 if possible. St. Elmo, having nearly two months' start of other towns, is expected to enjoy a large and bidding for lots promises to be spirited.

CHAMBERLAIN IS GETTING READY

Preparations Are Made to Care for Home-seekers on Rosebud Lands.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., July 1.—(Special.)—Chamberlain is rapidly getting in shape to take care of the rush for the Rosebud lands. Many hundreds of sets have been secured. The next speaker was Dr. Leopold Bohlen, commissioner of the German educational exhibit at the exposition. Mr. Bohlen told of the separation of teachers in Germany, explained the methods pursued in the training of the instructors in the various grades of schools in that country, "Why Should the Teachers Organize?" was the topic of an address delivered by Miss Margaret A. Haley, president of the National Federation of Teachers, Chicago. The concluding address was delivered by Aaron Dove, superintendent of city schools, Denver, Colo., on the subject: "The Limitation of the Superintendent's Authority and of the Teachers' Independence." The convention then took a recess until late in the day, when the final session, designated as the vespertine meeting, concluded the forty-third annual assembly.

URGENT IMPROVEMENTS

The final general session was held in Festival hall tonight. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the election of a supervisor of public schools in all towns, cities and counties; urging better salaries for teachers and equal pay for men and women teachers doing the same work; recommending increased appropriations for the bureau of education at Washington; advocating a better development of the high school; advocating the enactment of rigid child labor laws and popular local self-government in school matters, and thanking the exposition manager, the Associated Press and the St. Louis press for courtesies extended.

Those departments which did not hold final meetings and elections Thursday did so today.

EDUCATORS END MEETING

Final Session Held at Festival Hall on World's Fair Grounds.

CARDINAL SATOLLI IS A VISITOR

Delegates More Interested in Fair Than in Program of Convention and the Attendance is Light.

The final general session in Festival hall was opened with prayer by Rabbi Leon Harrison of St. Louis. Cardinal Satolli soon after entered the hall and the audience rose en masse when he was introduced and greeted him with an ovation of applause. Cardinal Satolli made a brief speech in which he expressed his pleasure at being present. The cardinal remained with the convention only a few minutes.

George A. Gates, president of Pomona college, Claremont, Cal., was then introduced and made an address on the subject "The Place of the Small College." The next speaker was Dr. Leopold Bohlen, commissioner of the German educational exhibit at the exposition. Mr. Bohlen told of the separation of teachers in Germany, explained the methods pursued in the training of the instructors in the various grades of schools in that country, "Why Should the Teachers Organize?" was the topic of an address delivered by

DEMOCRATIC DELEGATE DIES

Nevada Representative at St. Louis Convention Passes Away Suddenly at Hotel.

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—Joseph A. Ryan, democratic committeeman from Nevada and head of the Nevada delegation to the democratic national convention, died today at the Jefferson hotel of pneumonia. Mr. Ryan and his wife came to St. Louis direct from their home in Virginia City, Nev., Monday. It was their intention to spend several days viewing the fair before the opening of the convention. Mr. Ryan, however, contracted a cold en route and when he reached St. Louis was quite ill. He never left his rooms at the Jefferson hotel. His physician pronounced his case pneumonia, but a serious result was not anticipated. During the night, however, Mr. Ryan grew much worse and it became evident that he would not recover. Mrs. Ryan remained at his bedside all night. With her was Mrs. William E. Sharon, wife of a member of the Nevada delegation.

NEW OFFICER AT BONESTEEL

BONESTEEL, S. D., July 1.—(Special.)—The trustees today employed James Nelson, ex-chief of the Sioux City police force, to keep the peace of Bonesteel during the rush. Nelson has had over twenty years experience, and will take charge at once. His employment by the board is the result of the killing of "Kid" English here Wednesday night by Policeman Ault.

The property which Payne, Boatwick & Co. advertised in The Bee last evening and this morning under the head of "New Dwelling in Hancock Park District" was through an error quoted at $3,000. It should have been $3,000.

MINING MAN ASSAULTED

Beat Over Head and Left on Railroad Tracks for the First Trolley Train.

TRINIDAD, Colo., July 1.—T. D. Mitchell, superintendent of the Francisco and the La Belle coal mines owned by the Rocky Mountain Fuel company at Jerryville, three and a half miles west of Trinidad, was beaten over the head and cut with a knife by two men at Jerryville. His unconscious form was placed on the electric railroad and would have been killed by the incoming car had he not regained consciousness and crawled from the track before the car arrived. He says he would be able to recognize his assailants should they be captured.

ARRESTS ALLEGED FUGITIVE

YANKTON, S. D., July 1.—(Special.)—A. B. Leno, wanted in Sioux City for alleged forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses, was arrested today by Marshal Hickey. Leno had been in the employ of the Ben Kutz Clothing company here for some time. He is an expert salesman and an agreeable fellow. His offense in Sioux City was the forging of a check while in the employ of the Albert Lindholm Furniture company. He left Sioux City when his crime was detected and has since succeeded in evading the officers who have been on his track. An attempt will be made to make a settlement of the case.
