FAITH IN LOCAL OFFICERS

P. S. Barton, Pinkerton's Omaha Agent, Believes Police Will Get Man. CHIEFS THUS FAR WITHOUT A CLUE T. J. Mahoney Will Preside at Mass Meeting in Auditorium Tonight to Condemn Thomas Bomb Outrage.

The speakers will be Rev. H. C. Herring, Congressman G. M. Hitchcock, Warren Switzer and Rev. Father P. A. McGovern. Resolutions will be drawn up during the meeting by a committee and presented for adoption. With reference to the presence of Governor Mickey at this evening's meeting Mr. Mahoney said: "We have no reason to believe the governor will not be here, published reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The governor accepted our invitation to come and speak and has not advised us yet to the contrary. We certainly have at least a right to expect him." Mickey Will Not Come. Governor Mickey decided yesterday that he would not attend the meeting at the Auditorium this evening. He has questioned the propriety of coming from the first, for he has no desire to interfere in local affairs of Omaha. He deeply deplores the outrage, but does not understand how his presence in Omaha could affect the case other than to give support to what he believes to be unfounded allegations of inefficiency and corruption on the part of the Omaha officials. He was led to this conclusion in a large degree by reading the vicious attacks made by the World-Herald this morning. One of the clues run down by the detectives on the Thomas case has revealed a rather humorous case of mistaken identity all around. At 4:30 of the morning of the outrage Bill Proctor, a driver for the Halbot Ice company, was hurrying along Twenty-ninth and Farnam streets, where he noticed two men suddenly separate. The men followed Proctor to a saloon on North Sixteenth street and saw him enter the place. Later they entered the saloon and thought the man behind the bar was Proctor. They believed they had a clue on the case and so did Proctor. Both sides of the case reported their clues to the police, with the result that the authorities established the fact that the two men are friends of Mr. Thomas and were out for evidence when they came across Proctor, who was going to work as usual. Motion for New Trial. In the case of Robert Britton, convicted of incest on the testimony of his sister, Mrs. Nellie Day and others, Judge Day will hear a motion for a new trial. The attorneys charge error. Britton heard the verdict of the jury without any show of emotion and has shown any during the trial. The statute provides for a new trial in such cases, but with ten years for a maximum.

FIFTY DOLLARS FOR ASSAULT

Fine Imposed on Negroes Who Violently Beat Street Car Conductor Kellogg. "Good!" ejaculated several spectators in police court yesterday morning when Judge Berka fined Bob Johnson and Mack Smart $50 each. Johnson and Smart are colored men who brutally and, according to the evidence, without provocation, assaulted I. A. Kellogg, a conductor on the Walnut Hill street car line last Friday night. The negroes denied their guilt, but their denials counted for little in the presence of emphatic affirmations by several witnesses, who declared the assault upon young Kellogg was an unexcusable and unpardonable as it was vicious. There was an evident feeling of sympathy for Kellogg in the court room, which was not entirely restrained at the satisfaction of seeing the defendants get their deserts. The assault occurred when Kellogg's car was at Thirtieth and Douglas streets. Smart and Johnson, another colored man and three colored women, according to the evidence of Kellogg and other witnesses, boarded the car. Another colored couple was standing at the Millard Hotel corner when they saw the car approach. The couple boarded the car. The conductor testified he gave the go-ahead bell after waiting more than the usual time. Just as he gave the bell the motorcar started and the couple started themselves. One of the negroes on the rear of the car took the liberty to ring the stop bell. Kellogg remonstrated with him for doing what he had no right to do, and this angered Johnson and Smart, who are said to have pounced upon Kellogg and beat him unmercifully. Having beat the young man until his face was badly disfigured and discolored, the negroes and their companions escaped. It was at first feared the culprits would not be captured, but Kellogg made a good mental note of each one and was able to identify them without any trouble. Kellogg is one of the most popular conductors in the city. He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is notably genteel and accommodating. The vicious assault upon him aroused great indignation at the time and it is thought this feeling had much to do with the speedy arrest of the assailants.

FAITHFUL SERVANT FALLS

Negro Woman Proves Too Weak to Withstand Temptation of Being Trusted. Agnes Cloud, a colored domestic employed at the home of M. F. Martin, 2025 Webster street, has been arrested by Detectives Ferris and Dunn and charged at the city jail with grand larceny. It is alleged the woman took a diamond brooch from the Martin home and tried to sell the jewelry at a pawn shop for $20. When arrested she said she was in jail and asking someone to come and see her. Mr. Martin responded in person, and at first felt indignant that so honest a person as he thought his servant to be should be arrested. He had access to every part of our home and to even our jewelry," said Mr. Martin. A few more questions by Captain Dunn convinced Mr. Martin that Miss Cloud had been trying to sell Mrs. Martin's diamond brooch. Miss Cloud has not yet had a hearing in police court.

IRISH HONOR DEAD PATRIOTS

Various Societies Pay Homage to Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, Manchester Martyrs. Thanksgiving day was the anniversary of the hanging of Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, the "Manchester martyrs," as they are called. In 1867 they were executed by the British government for political reasons. The various Irish nationalist societies of Omaha and South Omaha, are assembled to do honor to the three patriots. The various Irish nationalist societies of Omaha and South Omaha met Thursday night in Arlington hall, where Irish patriotism ran high and considerable oratory was listened to and cheered. Such meetings have been held in many cities. The following resolutions were adopted: On this, the thirty-seventh anniversary of the judicial murder by the English government of the Irish patriots, Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, we, the Irish nationalists of Omaha and South Omaha, are assembled to do honor to the three patriots, whose lives were sacrificed on British scaffolds because they loved their native land and resisted the tyranny of an alien power. That power has exerted every instrument of cruelty that could suggest itself to the ingenious mind of a relentless oppressor, but, thank God, all these efforts have failed and the Irish nation lives. We affirm our belief in the principle that Ireland should be a republic amongst the peoples of the earth. We believe it utterly useless, as heirs of the history of the past patriots and the attitude of present English patriots, to continue to petition a British parliament. We denounce the very recent efforts of Great Britain to secure an understanding with and co-operative action by this government in connection with an alliance with Japan—its cataspaw—in a vain effort to defeat Russia, the ancient and tried friend of the United States. Persons high in government office in this country are given utterance to expressions of friendship and sympathy for Japan in the present war. We hope our president will prevent their recurrence and compel faithful observance of neutrality. There are published secret as well as open efforts being made to influence a treaty between the United States and England, to be used by the latter to bolster up its waning strength. We protest against any treaty or alliance of any kind with England, knowing as we do, that its real purpose is one repugnant to the best interests of this republic.

GOES AFTER HIS OWN PAVING

Lewis Hill Has Douglas Street Repaired Without Any Foolish Red Tape. Following the example set by business men in Chicago, Lewis Hill, owner of the building occupied by Browning, King & Co., at Fifteenth and Douglas streets, has arranged to have the asphalt paving on Fifteenth street in front of his property repaired by the Barber Asphalt company. Despite the general repairs to asphalt made last summer, many holes existed in the down town pavement. The work in front of the Hill property was started Thanksgiving and finished Friday. The city a few weeks ago tried to get bids for asphalt repairs, but contractors refused to compete for the work because the funds available for the purpose are exhausted.

GENERAL BLACKMAR COMING

Commander-in-Chief of Grand Army Will Visit Omaha December 10. General W. W. Blackmar, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be in Omaha December 10. He intends to visit Denver, presumably to arrange for the national headquarters at the next encampment. He will arrive in Omaha, so he says in a letter to Herman Brox, in the morning and will depart for the west early December 11. The general does not want any sort of formal reception, but thinks some sort of camp fire entertainment could be arranged. Judge Estelle and other local Grand Army men are planning for a lively meeting for veterans and other citizens.

INSURANCE COMPANY SUES

Connecticut Mutual Life Resists City's Assessment of Its Gross Premiums. The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company is the latest insurance corporation to protest at law to the assessment of its gross premiums. It brings a suit to that effect in the district court against the city of Omaha and August H. Hennings, its treasurer. The company says its gross premiums for last year were appraised at $4,830, making a tax of $566.22. This it considers an illegal tax.
