BURNS DETAILS HIS STORY Burns & Co., because O'Driscoll was not before Justice Gardiner. The police had Saturday night.

on Christmas day, at my sister's home in Colorado Springs, O'Haire said to Doyle:
"Jimmie, why don't you go up yourself and locate a claim?" That was about all was said about that matter. Doyle went back said about that matter. Doyle went back with us and at the camp an agreement was made between Doyle, O Driscoll and myself that if Doyle did any work for us we would return the work. We built a cabin on the Mary Alice. January 21, 1892, we ran out the lines of the Devil's Own to find vacant territory upon which to sink a discovery shaft. January 21 I located the Devil's Own in the name of J. F. Burns & Co., meaning O'Driscoll, O'Haire and myself.

Doyle Locates Portland. That evening in the cabin Doyle told me he had found a fraction, and on the next day he located the Portland, asking me to write out the stake. I wrote the inscrip-

The first important round in the present trial of the Doyle-Burns mining suit has been won by the plaintiff, James Doyle-Judge Thornell yesterday morning handed down his dectsion, overruing the motion of the defense as to the Devil's Own stock, argued before him at the night session Monday. In overruing the motion the court did not go into any details, but merely announced that he had decided to overrule it. This means that it will be for the jury now to decide whether Doyle had an interest in the Devil's Own claim as well as in the Tidal Wave and Bob Tall No. 2.

James F. Burns took the witness stand himself in the afternoon, his direct examination being conducted by Congressman Smith. It is expected that his direct examination will keep Burns on the stand the rest of the week.

His testimony yesterday related to the early stage of his mining experiences and connection with Doyle. His story in substance was as follows:

I first knew Doyle in Colorado Springs. I went there in 1881. I worked at steam and gas fitting after I went there until November. 1991, wheh I went to Crippic Creek with Jerry O'Driscoll and E. M. Stevenson. During the months of November and Doyle and the location certificates were mone of the monty her in the Portigol Creek with Jerry O'Driscoll and E. M. Stevenson. During the months of November and Doyle and the location certificate were mone of the monty her in the Portigol Creek with Jerry O'Driscoll and E. M. Stevenson. During the months of November and Doyle at this time was working on the Jumpser. When I located the Tidal Wave on June 19, 1882, I signed my name. The first was been done that the camp about the middle of August 1892, and did not return until after gold was found on, the Portland. When the Hob Thal 2 was Jumped I went up with a rifle and tilled the shaft that had been dug by the claim of the time that it was being done Doyle and none in the Prof. Grubbs. Doyle left the camp about the middle of August 1892, and did not return until after gold was found on, the Portland. Whe

The witness expressly denied that he had made any statements to the effect that Doyle had any interest in the Bob Tail 2 the Devil's Own or the Tidal Wave.

J. R. Bischoff, former bookkeeper for the Portland Gold Mining company, testified that he frequently discussed with Doyle the affairs of the company and that Doyle told him he got his interest in the company solely through his share in the Portland claim.

F. T. Caley of Littleton, Colo., a new witess at this trial, testified to being interested in the Tidal Wave through a lease and later becoming a stockholder in the Portland company. He said he had never heard Doyle claim any interest in the Tidal Wave, Bobtail No. 2 or Devil's Own until this suft was begun. New Turn in Manawa Litigation.

Another chapter was added yesterday to the litigation over the vacation of certain streets asked for by the motor company. Judge Smith McPherson of the United States circuit court, on application of the any grass, leaves or rubbish on any of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company, yesterday issued a temporary in-junction restraining James Chrisman, of their front lawns on to the streets.
