Colonel Pratt on Stand.

Colonel James H. Fratt was on the stand for an hour or more in the criminal branch of the district court Wednesday morning. The colonel appeared as a witness in the case of State against August Klabunde, a young farmer who is accused of having stolen eight cows from a pasture belonging to Colonel Pratt on December 14. The groes rushed to the scene, when a body of whites stopped them with rifles. The leader among the negroes was choked into insensibility and the others were subdued, trouble

Omaha Press Club Housewarming.

The Omaha Press club gave a house warming in its new club rooms in the Union block, corner of Fifteenth and Far-Union block, corner of Fitteenth and Farnam streets, last evening. It was purely an informal affair, but a general turnout of the newspaper men and many of their friends is usually accompanied by a display of genuine and good-natured fellowship that renders such an occasion one of those to be remembered. The club has two conveniently appointed rooms, one equipped as a reception room and the other as a billiard room. They are well lighted and neatly furnished. Further arrangements were discussed for the reception of Robert L. Dunn, the photographer for Collier's Weekly, who will give his illustrated lecture, "First in Corea," before the club on Wednesday evening, April 26.

Elmer Jones Badly Cut. Elmer Jones Badly Cut.

Elmer Jones aged 26, of 204 South Eleventh street, was assaulted and severely cut by Al McDonaid in a room in the Cambridge hotel. The two men, with two women, named Maggie McDonaid and Maggie Riley, were drinking beer in the room when a dispute led to the assault. Jones received a deep liesh wound in front of the right shoulder, cutting the pectoral muscle. He was also cut on the face and neck. Several slashes were made in his coat, indicating that a number of thrusts were made with the knife. Both men were arrested and locked up. McDonaid was released yesterday from the county jail, having served a thirty days' sentence for larceny.

COMPROMISE COLLEGE MATTER

President Smith Points Way Out Perplexing Situation for the Mormons,

LAMONI, Ia., April 12.-(Special Telegram.)-Long before the appointed hour scating room in the large upper auditorium was at a premium for this afternoon's business session of the Latter Day Saints' conference. The crowd of over 1,000 people was indicative of the intense interest taken in woman had paid $7.50 a week for sixty-six the subject which has been before the body for two days. The prevalent opinion that at today's session the vote, and that most likely a delegate one, would be taken brought out a full house,

The question as to whether the college board of trustees and the church bishopric should be sustained or censured for their action last year in continuing the college against the expressed will of the confer ence at its last convening is one upon which there is wide difference of opinion. The feature of this afternoon's debate was a speech by President Joseph Smith, his son Frederick being in the chair. The prophet opened up new lines of thought concerning the discussed topic and shed a great deal of light upon it. He suggested that the report of the majority part of the committee as well as the minority report and that of the bishop relative to the college be received and ordered spread upon the minutes without adoption. He pointed out that to lay them on the table would be disrespectful and to adopt either would be the disparagement of the other. Thus, as all concede that these men have all acted in good faith and integrity and have tried to serve the interests of the church as they saw them, this measure of compromise met with much favor.

When it came to vote five men favored a delegate vote being cast, which broke the conference up into a confusing caucus. Coming as it did at the close of a long session it was nearly dark before the members were permitted to leave the building The exact vote was not announced, the secretaries stating only that sufficient count had been made to show conclusively that not endorse was carried by a large ma-

Jaques-Orcutt.

The wedding of Miss Anna Ri Orcutt and Mr. Louis Tallmage Jaques of Chicago was solemnized at 8 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride on South Twentysixth street. Owing to recent bereavement in the family of the bride, the wedding was very quiet, only thirty-five guests witnessing the ceremony, including the relatives, a number of whom were from out of town. It was a green and white wedding, and throughout the house Easter lilles and white flowers were combined with smilax, ferns and palms in effective decoration. The stairway was wound with smilax and at the newel posts and landings stalks of lilies were fastened with white illusion bows. In the reception hall beyond the orchestra was hidden behind a bank of palms.

The ceremony was performed in the rear parlor in the bow window, which extends across the entire width of the room: Here an arbor of smilax and Easter Illies was constructed and beneath it an altar and priedleux. The altar cloth was of lace and on it were burning candibs and illies. At either side were tall, white candles in heavy brass standards, and the supports of the bower were tied with huge white illusion bows. The wedding march was played by the

They carried stalks of Easter lilies. Mrs. A. J. Beaton, sister of the bride, came next, as matron of honor. Her gown was of white net and lace over white silk, and she carried Easter lilles, and also wore the short tulle veil. Miss Jane Orcutt, as maid of honor, walked next, in a charming gown of apple green chiffon, made princess, over green silk and with trimmings of panne velvet and duchesse lace, and completed by the short veil and lilies. The bride walked last with her brother in-law, Mr. A. J. Beaton. The bridal gown was of ivory white satin, cut princess, with yoke and bertha of rose point lace, and the skirt was embroidered with chiffon orange blossoms. The long veil was caught to place with a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower of lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a pendant Austrian pal camee, surrounded with diamonds, sus-
