MAE WOOD REVISITS OMAHA

She Says Her Affair with Senator Platt Shattered Her Health.

JUST SEEKING FOR REST AND RECREATION

At the Fancy Strikes Her, She May Settle Down Again and Resume Business as a Practitioner at the Bar.

Miss Mae C. Wood, looking hale and hearty and attired in a stunning spring gown, is in Omaha circulating among the friends and acquaintances of the days when she lived here and distinguished herself as the only woman lawyer practicing at the bar. Miss Wood will be remembered as the former clerk in the Postoffice department who achieved widespread notoriety in connection with the hastened marriage of Senator T. C. Platt of New York, to whom she was reputed to have been engaged. "I arrived here Wednesday and am stopping with some old-time friends," declared Miss Wood, as chaperon over. "You wouldn't perhaps believe it from looking at me, but I am trying chiefly to recover my health, which was completely shattered by my experiences. I was down to Bermuda during the winter and have just come from a visit with some of my folks up in Michigan. I expect to spend a little time on a ranch in Southwestern Nebraska which is owned by an uncle. I rather think, however, I will stay right here in Omaha most of the time. You know I have never given up my residence in Omaha and have always regarded it as my home ever since I first located here. "No, I am not through with the people who have been persecuting me yet, although they doubtless wish I were. But I don't want to talk about it until I am in good mental condition. The half of the story has not been told and I have the documents to prove everything I say. And when it does come there will be more sensations in the affair than have come out of it so far. "I think I'll go over to the court house and see some of my lawyer friends. I wonder what kind of a reception I would receive if I should resume my professional career among them."

LITTLE DAMAGE DONE BY RAIN

City Streets Show Slight Effects of the First Torrential Pour of Spring. Reports received by the city street department indicate that the hard rains of Thursday did little or no damage to streets, alleys or private property. Debris washed down as usual from unpaved hill streets and some grading was displaced, but not enough to warrant serious attention. The rain caused a large number of covered sewer trenches to sink, meaning work for the contractors who have to fill the cavities up to the surface. This condition happened on many of the sewers that were put in last year, the dirt in the trenches not having had time to be settled by heavy rains. One of the worst places was on North Twenty-eighth street, where a deep trench was cut for two blocks. In front of 2345 Wirt street a bad hole was made by the caving in of a sewer. At Thirty-eighth and Burt streets holes were also made by the caving in of sewers. Bad washouts are reported at Thirty-third and Franklin streets, Thirty-fourth and Seward, Thirty-third and Lafayette, Thirty-third and Lincoln Boulevard and on Miami street between Twenty-second and Twenty-fourth.

RAIN HELPS WINTER WHEAT

Heavy Shower of Much Benefit to the Growing Grain.

LOCAL DEALERS SAY IT WAS TIMELY

Weather Bureau Reports that Belt is Generally Soaked and Outlook is Most Encouraging.

The rain of Thursday is considered by all grain men to have been a splendid thing for winter wheat in Nebraska and the other wheat states. "It has had a splendid effect," said Nathan Merriam. "The rain was general over the state and puts the ground in fine condition for growth. If there was anything in the reports we have received of the wheat being injured by the dry state of the ground, and turning yellow from it, the rain of yesterday will restore the fields to first-class condition. What we need now is sunshiny, warm weather so that wheat may overcome the slight setback it has received by the cool weather. By this I mean, the last two weeks have been so cold that the plant has not grown much." "The rain could not have come at a better time," said Charles T. Peavey. "Warm weather is what we want now. The soil is in condition now so that we can go some time without further rain and the fine condition of the winter wheat plant will be maintained well into next month." "The conditions are now normal," said G. E. Barnes. "and the wheat has a splendid chance. The rain was worth any amount of money, for the ground was beginning to get rather dry in some places. Even if we should not have a rain for two or three weeks, things would not get in a bad shape."

Rain is General.

Heavy rains prevailed throughout the wheat belt Thursday, including eastern Nebraska, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, though not so heavy in the Dakotas. The heaviest precipitation in this state was at Ashland, where 2.51 inches of rain fell, 2 inches at Tekamah, 1.16 at Omaha, .89 at Grand Island and .80 at Columbus. These figures are for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 o'clock Friday morning. Other points in the state report from .40 to .50 of an inch of rainfall, while in Iowa, Indiana and Illinois the precipitation averages from one to one and a half inches.

In speaking of the outlook for Easter weather, Forecaster Welsh said: "It is still cool in the west, but there are indications of warming up, and we may count on it being slightly warmer Sunday. However, the conditions in the west point to continued cloudiness, with a prospect of showers, and it is probable that we may get showery weather here Sunday."

Technicality for Sullivan. Judge Day was presented with a somewhat important point of law in the case of the state against Robert Sullivan, a prisoner who is charged with perjury. Sullivan's attorney has raised the question of insufficiency of the information, on the ground that the date of the alleged offense is not set out with definiteness and certainty. All of Friday morning was taken up with an argument on this point and the judge reserved his decision for the time being.

Jurors to Play Ball. There is to be a ball game out of the ordinary on Saturday at the old Y. M. C. A. park. The jury which acquitted Mrs. Jessie Starkey is to contest on the diamond with a nine from the jury which is trying the case of James Sulz against the street
