WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY.

Omaha Woman's club will take place Monday afternoon, when officers for the coming year will be elected. As all the present officers are eligible to serve another term, they will probably be re-elected. There has been practically no political talk in the club this year, so far as the general club is concerned, but this very fact has led many to believe that there will be some surprises sprung at Monday afternoon's meeting. There are, of course other names than that of the present incumbent being spoken of for the presidency, but that is customary. Perhaps the most popular woman named is Mrs. J. It. Dumont, but she declines the nomination, as she did last spring and has done before. The fact is that the presidency of the club carries with it so many demands that there are few women who are qualified to hold the office who care to asume its responsibilities and this fact undoubtedly accounts for the present political tranquillity.

The approaching council of the General at Atlantic City is beginning to be the subject of discussion among club women and club editors. Being an innovation, the full importance of the council has not been generally recognized and it is only within the fortnight that western club women, at least, have evinced anything like an active eastern clubs will send larger delegations. excursion that will include several stops after the council is over. The delegation tion. There is some talk of appointing from the west and arrange for a special from there to Atlantic City if there are enough to justify it.

Announced originally as a council of club presidents and officers, club members generally have not understood the real im portance of the meeting. Mrs. Decker and the executive committee are urging the women to attend that they, too, may familiarize themselves with the matters to come before the council. For several years those at the head of the Federation's work have realized the handicap of a biennial convention. The increasing scope of its work seems to demand more frequent conferences between the state and national workers, and this year the council was decided upon. Many women prominent is the national organization are said to favor an annual convention, but the more con servative ones seem to feel that, with the council well established and vested with certain power, to alternate with the biennial, it will be unnecessary to call the larger meeting together oftener than once in two years. The newly organized bureau of information will undoubtedly facilitate Mrs. Henry Wells of Humboldt. Ia., and the work by disseminating information, but Mr. J. H. Connell of Chicago were guests it cannot supply the enthusiasm and the last week of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Benawa | many benefits that result from a meeting he presidents of State Federations by and Mrs. Wood. Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker:

Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker:

To every president of the General Fed-cration must come the thought that a closer relation between the State and the General Federation is absolutely necessary if the work of each is to increase in efficiency. How to bring about this amal-gamation is a question over which many have pondered long. I do not for an in-stant believe that I have in any way solved the intricate problem, but I desire your opinion upon a plan which may help you in a measure, and which I set forth for your consideration.

solved the intricate problem, but I desire your opinion upon a plan which may help you in a measure, and which I set forth for your consideration.

The General Federation has the following standing committees: Art, child labor, civics, civil service reform, education, forestry, household economics, industrial, legislative, library extension, literature, pure food, reciprocity. The forestry and legislative committees consist of members from each state and are, therefore, in a measure working under the proposed plan. The industrial and child labor committees could be combined for state work, also household economics and pure food. This would leave nine standing committees: Art, civics, civil service reform, education, household economics and pure food, industrial and child labor, library extension, literature, reciprocity—a splendid and comprehensive list of subjects for a state federation's study and work. Every commonwealth would improve physically, intellectually morally and spiritually if its intelligent, capable women were working along these lines.

The suggestion I make, therefore, is that the state federation shall harmonize their committees with those of the General Federation, adding, of course, such local committees with those of the General Federation, adding, of course, such local committees as may be necessary for certain conditions; but the general plan to follow the mother organization. I would go even further. I would ask that the State Federation suggest that each club formulate its year's programs as fast as possible upon these topics, thus gradually conforming, to a certain extent, into a harmonious whole, like city, state and mation. There would then be concerted action, there would be education in many communities at the same time upon like subjects—always a great influence. The civil service reform committee has had proof of the great effect produced by the January meetings upon that work. Clubs, speakers, newspapers, even preachers have written and spoken, and hanny thousands have been bro Mercer have left Phoenix and are now at Taxpayer Secures Restraining Order to Prevent Sale of City Hall and Park Issue.

Magdalena Pivonka of South Omaha has again tied up and stopped an early sale or disposal of the bonds recently voted by that city for a new city hall and for park purposes. Through a petition in the district court she has secured from Judge Sears a restraining order which will prevent Mayor Koutsky and the city council from issuing or selling any of the bonds voted at the special election of April 4 1905. The hearing for a temporary injunction is to be had on the opening day of the next term, May 6.

Messrs. John P. Breen and Will H. Herdman are the attorneys for Mrs. Pivonka and in the petition filed it is set out that the ordinances providing for the special election are null and void, for the reason that they were not read in full one time on three separate days. The ordinances seing void under this contention, it is then set out at length that the election must have been illegal and of no effect.
