Now for the Suit Sale with "Ginger" in it—the kind that makes men glad to draw money from the bank—the sort that causes talk in office, counting room, store, shop, factory and packing houses. An event that wives urge their husbands not to miss. When you see a well-dressed man hailing a friend on the street today the chances are that he is giving a tip as to what's going on at the "Nebraska Store." This is what happened: One thousand nice, new, neat Spring Suits were purchased by us from one of the world's best manufacturers of men's clothes at a deep concession in price.

The styles are inviting. Their perfection appeals to the most critical. The variety and beauty of the suits strike the most casual observer forcibly—while men who are up in comparative values recognize them at once as phenomenal suits at the prices. The patterns vary from the sober dark shades and the stylish "Quaker Grays" to the most pronounced effects.

The "Asbury" at $2.50 is the new hat for the up-to-date man. We are harping on the excellence and elegance of this swell hat. It's the peer of any $3.50 hat of the hat store.

The "Nebraska Special" at $1.50—In point of actual intrinsic value this hat is better than the hats sold elsewhere at $2.50.

"Stetson's Hats" direct from their famous factory at $3.50. The patrons of this store have the additional advantage of making their selection of this famous hat from a great variety of styles—in full and complete lines of styles and shapes, greater than that of any other concern in this western country—in about the ratio of four to one. This makes it possible to make your selection of a "Stetson" that is just exactly becoming to you—"the best that is"—for... 3.50

GOOD WORDS FOR C. J. GREENE

Members of the Omaha Bar Endorse His Candidacy for Circuit Judge.

STATE ENTITLED TO APPOINTMENT

Fellow Practitioners Say Candidate Has Qualifications in High Degree Which Fit Him for Important Post.

The Omaha bar is taking a decided and active interest in the matter of the appointment of a judge of the United States circuit court of appeals to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge Thayer. The general consensus of opinion is that the circuit judgeship should come to this section, from the fact that it is nearer the center of the district, or, properly speaking, is in the central division of the eighth circuit. Nebraska has never been represented on any federal bench outside of the district court of the state. Its prominence agriculturally, industrially and commercially is unquestioned, and Omaha is one of the great and growing cities of the west, and is located in the center of the group; that is to say, midway between the Mississippi river and the eastern boundary of Colorado.

Opinions of Lawyers.

J. M. Woolworth: There are very convincing reasons why the support of the late Judge Thayer should be selected from the central part of the circuit, comprising the states of Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota. The eighth circuit contains eleven states and stretches from the northern boundary of the country to Texas. This vast territory has varied interests, associations, habits, instincts and sentiments. The northern part with St. Paul as its center, the western part with Denver as its center, the southern part with St. Louis as its center, and the middle part with Omaha as its center, differ from one another in important particulars and are broadly distinguishable. The judges of the court of appeals, which has such extensive jurisdiction, should be distributed with due regard to this fact, and each section should be fairly represented. This certainly would be of great advantage to the court itself. Judge Thayer, who represented the northern, Judge Vandeventer the western, and Judge Hook the southern section. Each brings to the court the traditions, habits, modes of thought and sentiments of the people among whom he has been trained and lives. For these reasons, I think the successor of the late Judge Thayer should come from the central section of the circuit.

While Minnesota, Iowa, Wyoming, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas have each been represented upon the circuit bench, Nebraska never has been. This is due to the fact that our state has not furnished material for this office, for its bar has long been distinguished by eminent lawyers of national reputation. In commercial and industrial interests Nebraska is in the vanguard of the first class and heretofore has had in the federal courts, especially in the supreme court, more cases of the first impression, involving difficult and novel questions and vast interests, than any other state in the circuit. It further seems to me proper that a judge should be selected from either Iowa or Nebraska not merely as a matter of geography, but for the convenience of litigants who are desirous to apply to a judge for orders when the court is not in session. Were the appointment to go to St. Louis, the southern section of the circuit would then have two circuit judges and a justice of the supreme court, besides having at least three of the circuit judges residing there during the winter term of the court. So far as the candidates are concerned, Mr. Charles J. Greene is most admirably fitted in every way to fill this great office. He is a man of great experience of good judgment in affairs and at the bar has a wide and deep professional learning, is accomplished in letters of an amiable disposition, positive in his opinion and enjoys the esteem of the members of the profession and of the citizenry among whom he has lived for the last thirty-five years.

Reasons for Appointment. John L. Webster says a number of good reasons why the appointment of a United States circuit judge should come to Nebraska. The first of these is that Charles J. Greene is a mighty good fellow and is deserving of the appointment. The others are that Nebraska has been a state since 1867 and has never had any important appointments, except in subordinate clerkship or consularships. Of course, the democrats put Bierling first in the cabinet, but then as far as the judgeships are concerned, the states all seem to be equal. There was an appointment in the circuit bench. There was Dillon of Iowa, Turner of Missouri, Hook of Kansas and Vandeventer of Wyoming. Nebraska has had none. Nebraska has just as strong and really stronger claims than any other state in the circuit for the appointment. Mr. Greene is the most eligible man for the office. As I said, he is a splendid good fellow, a fine lawyer, fine in body and mind and is in every respect qualified. He deserves the appointment and the president could not make a better selection. I sincerely hope Mr. Greene will be appointed. Judge E. W. Webster: In the appointment of a judge of the United States circuit court of appeals to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge Thayer, the state of Nebraska should be given the controlling influence. There is on the part of the appointing authority a strong letter I wrote in favor of Mr. Charles J. Greene, who was a candidate for the office of circuit judge at the time Judge Hook of Kansas was appointed. I am still of the opinion I entertained then, that the appointment should not be made worthy to be bestowed than upon Mr. Greene, and I sincerely hope that he will receive the appointment. C. J. Smyth: While I think the appointment should not go to one whose entire practice, or the greater part of which, has been in the interest of railroads and other great corporations, yet if such a one is to receive it I know of none who would make a greater effort than Mr. C. J. Greene to throw off the natural effect of his life's training at the bar in the interest of even-handed justice for all who might appear before him. He is a man of high ideals in the profession, broad-minded, sympathetic and big-hearted.

The island of Cuba, which promises to be one of our insular possessions one of these days, has got a well deserved reputation throughout the entire world for the production of delicious tobacco. Heavy dew at night; tropical flowers in such profusion produce conditions that are nowhere else apparent. Each locality of the island raises tobacco with its own peculiar quality.

There never has been a cigar manufacturer in the United States who had the courage to declare that he was using any certain grade of Havana tobacco except the McConnell Segar Company of Indianapolis, Ind. They make a segar called Sir Jonathan that they sell under a bona fide guarantee to be a strictly imported Yara Havana filler. The factory has made this one segar for thirteen years. It certainly is a delightful and fragrant segar.

EVANS IS GRAND COMMANDER

Columbus Man Advanced to Head the Nebraska Knights Templar.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS ENDS CONVENTION

Two Days' Session of the Grand Commandery of State Sees a Lot of Business Rapidly Transacted.

The grand commandery, Knights Templar, closed its thirty-third annual meeting at Masonic temple Friday afternoon. The principal business of the day was the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: Grand Commander—Carroll D. Evans, Columbus, Omaha. Grand Treasurer—H. C. Akin, Omaha. Deputy Grand Commander—John W. Huzbes, Hebron. Grand Generalissimo—Elias W. Beghtol, Holdrege.

Captain of the Guard—F. J. Scheffersberger, Hastings. The grand officers were formally installed by Grand Representative for brick, stone and St. Paul, after which the grand commandery adjourned sine die.

The convocation has been a very successful one throughout and one of the most largely attended in the history of the commandery. Most of the visiting Knights Templar returned to their homes on the afternoon trains.

MIRACLE PRESSED STONE.

A Material that is Successfully Used in Place of Brick. Dealers in building material throughout the United States have during the last few years become universally interested in concrete as a substitute for brick, stone and wood, and its use in form of hollow building blocks is becoming more general every day. Plants are being established throughout the country in every hamlet and town worth doing at all it is worth doing well. The Miracle Pressed Stone company of Minneapolis, by correct business methods and continually advocating the manufacture of the highest possible grade of this material, have established a point of supremacy in the business of manufacturing machines which is the envy of all their competitors. They have given the public and their customers to understand in every instance that the Miracle name stands for the very highest quality of building blocks that can be produced with a correct and honest mixture of the proper proportions of cement, sand and gravel, and their proper tamping and curing before being used. They have realized that in order to make this business permanent and in order to force the hollow concrete block into the class in which it belongs, the utmost care must be taken in the manufacture, practically under whatever process, and have made it one of their strong cards to send out a competent man to thoroughly instruct each and every one of their customers in the use of the outfit purchased. It is true that there are certain distinct features of the Miracle block which place it in a class by itself and every purchaser of their machine secures a monopoly of a right to manufacture under their basic patents, covering hollow concrete block and wall in which there are two rows of air spaces, so arranged that the openings in one row are longer than and overlap the intervals between the openings in another row. It is this particular feature of the Miracle block that places it in a superior class, unapproachable by any competitor, and the Miracle name is recognized as
