In looking over the program for the convention the mayor said he was surprised to read the titles of some of the subjects to be discussed. "I had supposed," he said, that the meeting of retail grocers would be more likely to discuss 'How to put the largest strawberries on the top of the box and hide from the view of the purchaser the scrubs,' and such kindred subjects." Following up this little pleasantry Mayor Macrae spoke on the question of exposing vegetables and other foodstuffs n the sidewalks where the filth of the treets blows on them. Address of the President.

In his annual address, President A. M. Hough of the association dwelt at some association had unsuccessfully endeavored to have passed at the last session of the state legislature. The bill allowed $40 a month to be exempt to any married man, all of his income in excess of this being subject to garnishment for his just debts. President Hough recommended that the association have the bill brought up again and that every individual member of the association use his best efforts to secure its passage. Referring to the need in this state of pure food legislation, Mr. Hough said that no state in the union needed pure food legislation more than Iowa, which he claimed was today the dumping ground o impure foods and adjulterated articles of all kinds. He said in his opinion it was no use to wait for national legislation, but the association should endeavor to have the state legislature enact some remedial measure. He recommended that the members of the association refuse to handle goods with premium coupons attached. Trading stamps, he was glad to say, were almost a thing of the past in lows, but they should be driven out altogether.

He suggested that the convention pass resolution condemning the practice of short weights and demanding that all cracker factories, and in fact all manufacturers, pack their goods net weight and full count He urged the members to do all in their power to defeat the parcels-post bill, which, he claimed, is framed for the benefit of the large catalogue houses. In concluding his address he recommended the publication of a weekly bulletin from the office of the secprovided the venture could be retary, financed

It is unfortunate that the rank and file of the labor unloss have been led to be of the labor unions have been led to be-lieve that this legislation would be against their better interests. We know from the experience of other states which have laws experience of other states which have laws in operation such as we ask that this legistation would be a hardship to no honest man with good intentions; on the contrary, it would establish a basis of credit for every one. The result and benefits from this law would be its moral effect upon the debtors. Men will live within their means and provide for and pay for the necessaries of life for their families instead of buying indiscretly and using their salaries for luxuries and extravagance. Exemption laws were placed on the statute books to protect the men's families. We ask a change that will compel the man to provide for the family necessaries.

It is my opinion, however, that the proposed legislation favored by the grocers is altogether too sweeping. It is extreme, and would take away from the wage-earner what little protection he now has. Of course I am aware that this protection is often taken advantage of by the deadbeat class, but that is to some extent unavoidable. I certainly do not think that the federation wishes to save these kind of people from being compelled to pay for "the groceries to feed their dishonest bodies," but it must certainly be admitted that the head of a family is entitled to protection for his loved ones in time of temporary misfortune, and to take away all his legal exemptions would be to real him of his right to live and It will be rather difficult for the two con-
