ADJOURNED TERM RESUMED

Federal Court Convenes and Takes Up Liquor Selling Cases of Lulkart and Lambert.

The adjourned term of the United States court was resumed Monday morning, with Judge Munger on the bench. The first case set for trial is that of John Lulkart and Logan Lambert, indicted for infraction of the United States liquor laws on the Indian reservation. Owing to the non-appearance of Mr. Lulkart and certain witnesses for the government an adjournment was taken until 2 p. m.

The adjourned session of the courts will continue for the remainder of the month of June, in order to clear up the criminal cases in the district court. These are largely minor postoffice cases, wherein the indicted parties are charged with infractions of the postal laws.

Yellowstone Park and Portland. Personally conducted party will leave via the Burlington-Route June 29th for Portland, stopping at Gardiner, Mont., for a six-day tour of Yellowstone Park. PROBLEM OF THE FRATERNALS

Question of Assessing Securities Up to County Board of Equalization.

STATE AUTHORITIES INSIST ON THE ORDER

If County Commission Does Not Adopt Reed's Assessment, Letter is Instructed to Appeal to Courts.

One of the problems that soon must be solved by the County Board of Equalization is whether the fraternal insurance orders shall be assessed or not. There are now on file protests from the sovereign camp, Woodmen of the World, and supreme forest. Woodmen Circle. The protests set out the value of personal property and securities held in safety vaults, and it is claimed that all of this property is wholly exempt. It is the protests claim, all hold and used for charitable purposes and not in any sense for profit. There is no capital stock and the property and assets are alleged to be purely in the nature of a trust fund.

The Woodmen of the World protest gives these figures: Number of members in Nebraska, 7,500; office furniture, $5,000; credits with banks in Omaha, $402,189.06; securities in safe deposit vaults, book value, $2,018,197.55.

This last item is held to constitute the credit of the society and to be exempted by liabilities wholly or partially matured. The order received from the assessor in Nebraska for the year ending March 31, 1904, $33,341. Of this amount 12 per cent goes for expenses, 10 per cent is invested in securities and the balance is used in paying benefits. Assessor Reed's return on the sovereign camp is $38,540.

The Woodmen Circle has 1,448 members in Nebraska, from which it received $15,233.35 for the year ending March 31. Of this $4,433.30 went for expenses, $1,777.49 was invested and the balance went to pay benefits. Personal property is given at $1,000, bank credits $5,115.75, securities $308,003.30. Assessor's return, $16,230.

State Board Determined.

The State Board of Equalization has evinced a determination to assess the fraternal as other insurance companies are assessed. Even if the local board should cancel the assessment the state board will order an appeal. Neither Assessor Reed or any member of the Douglas county board would dispute the action to be taken in advance of the day when the question is to come up.

A complaint was received from the street railway company against a general assessment of $5,000,000. The company is willing to accept an assessment of $5,000,000. Referred for consideration. The company was allowed a reduction of $10,000 on the old power house at Twentieth and Izard. It now stands at $30,000.

McCord-Drady Grocery company made a return of $214,000 on personal property.

LOCAL INTEREST IN THE BANK

Omaha Persons Watch for Investigation of Mail Order Concern at St. Louis.

NO MONEY LOST, SO FAR AS IS KNOWN

Institution Conducted on Novel Basis is Under Inquiry of Government, but Fraud is Not Certain.

Several Omaha persons are interested, it is said, in the developments of a postoffice inquiry into the methods of the People's Bank of St. Louis, which was started a short time ago on a mail order basis. It is not known positively that any Omahans put money in the bank, but several were thinking about doing so, at least.

According to press dispatches the state of Missouri filed complaint against the institution recently and the bank closed for a day and then re-opened and continued doing business pending investigations by the postal department.

The People's bank was started by E. G. Lewis, who made a huge financial success in a few years out of the Woman's Magazine published in St. Louis and sold for ten cents a year. Deposits were solicited by circular and other advertising, the attractive feature held out being some sort of a profit-sharing scheme in addition to the 3 or 4 per cent interest to be paid on money entrusted to the house.

Herbert H. Fish, secretary of the Western Newspaper Union, was one of the prominent Omaha men who were contemplating investments in Lewis' bank.

Put No Money In.

"I first heard about the bank in Chicago, where it was talked of with a good deal of favor," said Mr. Fish. "I cannot say I am directly interested in the bank, however, because I was inclined to wait developments and see how the venture was going to pan out before risking money. The remarkable success that Mr. Lewis had with his publication caused me to think he might work similar wonders with the bank. I understand the bank is still open and doing business and that it is by no means settled that there is anything fraudulent about it."

"My understanding is that the bank expected to get deposits from all over the country, attempting something along the lines of a postal savings bank scheme and to extend facilities for investment and saving to parts of the country not accessible to banking houses. There was some sort of a profit-sharing plan in connection apart from the ordinary interest paid. Dispatches stated that Lewis was to have a hearing before the Postoffice department June 15, but I have not learned of the outcome."

Other men connected with the Western Newspaper Union who were reported to have placed money in the St. Louis bank denied that they had done so. In financial or business circles nothing further could be learned concerning the bank's local operations.

EXTENSION OF LINE BEGUN

Work of Lengthening Tracks on South Sixth Street Actually is in Progress.

Work was begun by the street railway company Monday morning on the Hay street extension on South Sixth street. This line will be built at once as far south as Lincoln avenue, formerly known as Central street, and will open up a thickly populated portion of the city and furnish better car facilities to a large number of people. The street has been graded and paved for some time. The Grand View Improvement club, which has a large membership of residents of that section, has been holding weekly meetings for several months in the effort to secure an extension, until it was finally rewarded at the meeting of the directors of the company last Tuesday.

CAPRICES OF DRUNKEN SPOUSE

Certain Idiosyncrasies of John Napinaw Lead to His Temporary Change of Residence.

Police Judge Berka holds that it is not nice for a man to go home drunk, throw his wife, feather bed and trunk out of the window and then lie down to pleasant dreams, as John Napinaw is reported to have done Sunday at his home, 230 North Ninth street. Mrs. Napinaw appeared in police court against her fractious husband and told of the rapid transit of her feather bed and trunk through a window. Napinaw will not be at home for thirty days.

Mt. Clemens, the Mineral Bath City, is reached without change of cars only by the Grand Trunk Railway System.

Time tables and a beautiful descriptive pamphlet will be mailed free on application to W. Vaux, A. G. P. & T. A., 125 Adams St., Chicago.

FLEMING CUTS OFF BEARD

Parts with Whiskers that He Had Worn for Twenty-Five Years.

Tax Commissioner Fleming had to produce proof of identification before City Treasurer Hennings would recognize him at the city hall Monday morning. This was due to the fact that the commissioner had discarded the lines of a postoffice savings bank scheme and to extend facilities for investment and saving to parts of the country not accessible to banking houses. There was some sort of a profit-sharing plan in connection apart from the ordinary interest paid. Dispatches stated that Lewis was to have a hearing before the Postoffice department June 15, but I have not learned of the outcome."

Other men connected with the Western Newspaper Union who were reported to have placed money in the St. Louis bank denied that they had done so. In financial or business circles nothing further could be learned concerning the bank's local operations.
