WEEK'S BUSINESS PLEASES JOBBERS

Gains Over Corresponding Period of Big Sale of Lemons.

Lemonade seems to be increasing in popularity as a summer drink, to judge from the quantity of temons which have been sold during the week. Oranges have also had a large sale.

There is still a remarkable demand for Holland herring, family whitefish and mackerel, and other cured fish are having a moderate sale. The market is strong at last week's prices. Canned salmon is steady. The pack this year on the northwest coast is said to be of a very good quality, the fish being in good condition.

There is a fair demand for woodenware, with no change in prices.

Syrups show no change and, of course, there is but a light demand. Cereals are in practically the same position as last in practically the same position

The tendency in rice is for an advance, hough there has been but little real though there has been but little real change. No lower prices are expected until the appearance of the new crop, which is said to be small in comparison with the crops of other years. There is no tendency on the part of holders to dispose of their stocks. ieir stocks. Fruit merchants are having a good trade.

As hot weather advances the trade in fancy groceries shows a gratifying increase. All lines of fancy goods in glass and tin are covered by the demand. There is an enormous demand for French sardines. Olives and olive oil are enjoying a big demand. What is called the Fourth of July trade in these articles, which of course is now past, has been the best in years.

LONDON, July 1.—Money with the month turn was abundant in the market today. Though it was estimated that over $50,000.000 was owing to the Bank of England it was realized that the dividends due would meet the requirements. Discounts were steady. Trading on the Stock exchange opened dull after yesterday's failures and there was much uncertainty in some quarters regarding the immediate future. The tone improved later on the cessation of forced liquidation, but later was inactive. Consols were easy. Home rails were irregular. Americans opened irregular and advanced mostly to above parity, notably Erie. The edalings were narrow, owing to the holiday tone in New York. Prices closed firm. Foreigners were dull. Russians were little changed despite the Black sea troubles. Japanese receded somewhat. Japanese imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 102%.
