Leaves Dahlman Free Handed. "The surrender of Dunn, not only cinches the defeat of Dahlman in the dog fight and obviates the necessity of a recapitalation by the mayor on the dog mussic proposition, but leaves the mayor free in the exercise of the referendum in his fight for dollar gas," remarked a city hall attache. "Since Jim had decided to employ the referendum as his weapon of war in the gas light his plans of campaign were simply annihilated by the blundering of Dunn in jumping into court with a statement for the mayor that the referendum was null and wold. It was the biggest mess I ever saw made of anything and the of the most thickly settled parts of town. mayor was dead right in calling Dunn to time and making him the fall guy. It's all well enough for Dunn to yell about this not being true at this stage of the game. He has made a mess and surrendered abanlutely in order to get out of it and Householders to Dispose of Refuse Properly.

Dr. Connell, city health commissioner, is deeply interested in the fate of the ordinance governing the care and disposal of ashes which will come before the council Tuesday night for action.

"This ordinance is one of the most important of those designed for the purpose of making Omaha a better place for homes. An inspection of streats, alleys and vacant proves that the average resident of Omaha does not know what to do with his ashes, and that as a result be throws them in the first vacant spot he can find, where they are blown about by the breezes or lie a spot of dirt upon the landscape. "Under the pending ordinance the penwill not only be shown how to care for their ashes, but be compelled to do so in the best manner known to me. It is practically the plan in force in Denver, where it is said to work with success.
