DELEGATION NOT SURPRISED

Coreans Consider It Natural that Emperor Should Disown Them and Mission.

THE HAGUE, July 6 .- The members of the Corean delegation here say they consider it quite natural that the emperor of Corea should officially repudiate them in his interview with the Marquis Ito, the representative of Japan at Scout, who sounded him on the subject of their mission, adding:

"To have admitted that he instructed us to represent him at The Hague would perhaps mean his being dethroned, or even murdered."

The delegates suggest that if the United States or an European power had made a similar inquiry of the Corean emperor the answer would have been different.

To keep order and assure the maintenance of peace in the far east the United States and the European powers, the Coreans added, should uphold the independence of Corea by declaring that country to be a neutral state.

ber of additional officers from their commands.

and John D. Archibald, as vice president of the Standard Oil company.

Since the enactment of the Interstate Commerce law in 1887 the Standard Oil company has most carefully observed its provision and in no case has wifully violated the law. It welcomed the passage of the law, and the principle of equity which was embodied in it. The old system of special rebates was obnoxious and was never a source of profit to the company. The net rate paid for freight was always used as a basis for the selling price in the markets and the consumer had the benefit of it. Moreover, every shipper could secure such special rates and was no uncommon experience for the Standard Oil company to discover that its competitors had lower rates than it was shipping under. The assertion so often made by sareless and sensational writers and critics that 'rebates' were the basis of Standard Oil prosperity is absolutely untrue. Its prosperity has come through its correct apprehension of the possible magnitude and importance of the petroleum business; through its having provided better and more economical nethods for doing the business than have its competitors and through a better service to the public in price and quality than others have given. It has made the petroleum industry great; has held it for this country as against foreign competition; and we assert has been a blessing and not a bane to the country. Its downfall through any cause would be a national disaster. "Owing to the necessity for detaching officers for duties, and also because at all times some officers are sick or absent on annual vacations, we have left a comparatively very small number to do the duty with the companies, troops and batteries, where the work becomes so onerous to the few that are left that considerable diseattefaction ensues.

"It is impossible to relieve these officers from detached service or order them back to their commands without materially intrained administrators from civil duties of great importance, suspending or diminishing the peace training of the army or releasing the number of recruiting officers. If this latter were done, the army would gradually go out of existence, as we should steadily lose more men by discharge than we got by recruiting.

More Officers One Remedy.

"In my judgment, a better way would be for congress to pass a law allowing a exciting series of events in Standard Oil number of extra officers, equal to those litigation and the final chapter of a spec- now detached for necessary purposes, facular search for the oil magnate. When whose services during peace could be utilthe United States government last August last as they now are and who when war secured the indictment of the Standard Oil suddenly breaks out would afford us a company of Indiana for having accepted small body of trained experts, who could rebates from the Chicago & Alton Railroad be drawn upon for assignment to the mulcompany neither United States District At- tifarious administrative duties connected with the sudden and very great expansion of our amail army when international trouble arises.

Rockefeller would ever be called as a witness in the case. After a hard-fought legal "It is a mistake to assume that any inbattle before a jury in Judge Landla' court telligent citizen can efficiently perform without previous training, the duties of a military staff officer. The blunders and mistakes for which the War department was so severely arraigned during the early tion, it being within his discretion to place days of the Spanish-American war, were unavoidable because of the absence of a sufficient number of well trained officers available for assignment to administrative staff duties. A nation which depends for defense upon a patriotic and citizen soldiery as we do, who are to be enrolled and mustered into the service in enormous numbers when trouble arises, ought for selfish reasons, if for no better, to keep a fully equipped framework with which a large expansion could be promptly and efficiently accomplished when sudden necessity arises. There is not time to train the necessary officers then. They must be trained during peace,
