TALK OF THE POLITICIANS

All Attempts to Rearrange Pslitical Geography Prove Futile.

EQUAL RIGHTS STILL A BIT SHY

Not Yet Come to Time with Endorse ment of Bob Smith, as Per Agreement with the Fontanelles.

All attempts to re-arrange the political geography presented by the republican primary ballot seem to have proved futfle so far. The Equal Rights club has not yet delivered the endorsement to "Bob" Smith that was bargained for by the Fontanelle machine as the quid pro quo for the Fontanelle endorsement for sheriff, nor has the endorsement of Best as the Equal Rights candidate for comptroller, which was held back as a forfest for the fulfillment of the contract been forthcoming. The three candidates for treasurer, who were figuring on pooling their forces to combat Frank A. Furay, have been unable to agree as to which two shall retire and those left off the slates are proceeding on the theory that they have just as good a chance as state breakers as they would have had on the slates.

"Funny, fsn't it, how a man always disfovers that an endorsement isn't worth having after he finds that he can't get it?" was overheard as a chance remark in a street group. "It is almost as funny as how quick a man proclaims himself opposed to any newspaper telling people how to vote as soon as he realizes that his requests for special favors have not been Rasmus Hannibal, running for justice of the peace, served in the legislature as state senator, representing the Howard and Hall county district, and making a good record. Previous to that he was several times elected county judge of Howard county. In his former home he was invincible in politics. He has lived in Omaha now for five or six years and achieved a high position among the Danish republicans here similar to that held by him in Howard county.

"The fellows who are running the Fontanelle machine these days must be easy to be duped into endorsing the candidate of the Equal Rights club for sheriff without getting anything in return. If, as he publicy boasts, he didn't even fisk them for signed by the mayor and final action in their endorsement, nor give them any kind the matter will not be taken until Mr. of a promise, then they are the worst quibblers yet. BEECHER'S ISLAND BATTLE

Thirty-Ninth Anniversary of Great Conflict to Be Celebrated.

HAIGLER TO BE THE PLACE

Arrangements Are Practically Complete for This Military Demonstration and Great Interest is Aroused.

All arrangements have been practically completed for the celebration of the thirtyninth anniversary of the battle of Beecher's Island, to be held near Haigler, Neb., September ff. It is expected about twenty of the survivors of that sanguinary affray will be present. The battle was fought September 17, 1888, by a detachment of Kansas volunteer scouts under Lieutenant Colonel George A. Forsyth, and took place on an island in the Arickaree river, near its junction with the Republican river. The fight lasted eight days, during which nearly half of the command was killed many others wounded. Among the killed was Lieutenant Beecher of the regular army, a nephew of the late Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and from whom the island receives its name. During the fight the command had to subsist upon the putrid flesh of their slain horses. The party was finally relieved by a detachment from Forts Wallace and Hays, Kansas, and were found in a most pitiable pilght by the relieving party. The Indiana were under command of Chief Roman Nose, who was killed during the engagement. The number of Indians engaged in the fight was about 1,000, while Forsyth's command consisted of about thirty men.

In 1905 the Beecher Island association erected a monument on the island to comnemorate the fight, and the survivors of the fight and rescuing party hold annual reunions there. The headquarters of the association are at Wray, Colo.

PATTERSON WILL APPEAL CASE to Compel Millard to Pay Taxes on Stock Cayried Higher.

D. C. Patterson, who unsuccessfully attempted to induce the County Board of Equalization to assess Senator Millard on 2,000 shares of stock in the Omaha & Council Bluffs Bridge company, will appeal to the district court and has ordered a transcript of the proceedings before the board for this purpose. He asked that Millard's assessment be increased $150,000 to cover the value of the stock. The board refused to assess the stock on the grounds that the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Rallway company, lessees of the bridge, paid the taxes on the property. Patterson contended the stock, as well as the physical property, should be taxed.
