VICTORS TO MOVE PICTURES Michaelsen Suggests Each Successful Candidate Take His and Opponents Cards Off Poles.

Now comes City Electrician Michaelson with a suggestion to the successful candidates at the recent primary. "Before election," said Mr. Michaelsen I tried to keep candidates from violating the ordinances by tacking their pictures to electric light and telephone poles, but it was no use. They were too many for me. Now it would be a great help to me and a service to the community if the successful candidates would go out and remove from the poles not only their own pictures but those of their defeated rivals as well. Some of the streets are veritable picture gallaries and the posters do not

Valuables. By a rare bit of good fortune Mrs. C. A. Hull of the Bernard flats is still the possessor of several valuable diamond rings which she lost a day or two ago. While returning from down town on an open Hanscom park caf, she dropped her shopping bag, spilling some of its contents. It was not until she reached her destination at Park avenue and Mason street that she discovered a case containing her diamonds, which she had carried in the bag, was missing. Suspecting it had rolled from the side of the car when she dropped the shopping bag, she followed the car track for several blocks back and found the case lying beside the track on Leavenworth streets, its contents not having been dis-

FORCES RETAIN THE CITADEL General Jim Will Not Disturb Entrenchments of the Riffes.

General "Jim" Dahlman was seen at his office. When asked about the capture of the city market house by the Thurston Rifles and the Dahlman Rifles Monday night, the general smiled in a rather successful imitation of the great Napoleon. "We shall make no attempt to recapture the citadel," he said. "We would require a large army to do it and I do not care to lead a large force of men on such an expedition. Besides, I think the market house is in very good hands now. Hardly expect me to lead a force against the Dahlman Rifles, would you?"
