Movement of the Market is Still Under Constraint.

DEALING LARGELY PROFESSIONAL

Fall of Discount Rate Abroad Brings Out Realizing Sales and Prices Slump Sharply at Lant.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The movement of the stock market today was under constraint and professional operators were not able to make much impression on prices. Their dealings made up a large portion of the total transactions. The reductions in the offical discount rates of the Bank of England and the Bank of France were made the occasion for opening prices here on a higher level. The promptitude with which advantage was taken of the advance to make asles for the purpose of realizing profits was accepted as illuminative of the desires of the larger speculative class. But when the professional traders attempted to follow this hint by sales of stocks in continuation of the movement they found an abatement of the offerings coming on the market and feit obliged to turn again and cover their short contracts. An inference was drawn of strength on the part of the buil party owing to the subsidence of selling pressure on the decline, but a desire to reduce their holdings at profitable levels was argued from the eageness of the selling on the advance. Prices fell back sharply to the lowest at the fast.

The pause in speculative activity was in harmony with the tenor of news or affairs. The rapid progress towards ease in the money market was unaccompanied by any positive evidence of a revival being thus atimulated in trade activity, although improvement in sentiment in various lines of trade was discergible as it applied to hopes of foreign revivals. This was true of the iron and steel trade, regarding which, however, the appearance of the United States Steel quarterly report next Tuesday is awaited before forming any definite conclusions on the subject. The reduction of the Bank of England official discount rate from 5 to 4 per cent was wider than was anticipated, but the accumulation of the Bank of England official discount rate from 5 to 4 per cent was wider than was anticipated, but the accumulation of the Bank of England official discount rate from 5 to 4 per cent was wider than was anticipated. But the accumulation of th NEW YORK, Jan. 23.-The movement of in order to conserve the central institution in the open money market, where the new discount rate was still higher than the prevailing open market rate, which also receded before the reduction in the bank rate. The acceptance of this example by the Bank of France confirms the universality of the easing tendency of money. It was significant of the feeling existing towards questions of new capital issues, notwithstanding the rapid accumulation of money resources that suggestions of new loans, even when reported to be already arranged for, caused depression in existing securities of the companies affected. Delaware & Hudson was an example, the severe recent decline in that stock being followed by well defined reports today of the placing of a $10,000,000 one-year note issue. The seeking of only short-time accommodation by this company, as was done also by the Consolidated Gas company, and extension secured for some other short-time loans soon regarded as offering but moderate promise of immediate advantage to seekers of new capital from the evident piling up of funds in the banking centers. The announcement of a treasury call on the New York banks for $10,000,000 of government deposits was passed over as an unimportant incident. The same was true of the advance of foreign exchange towards the gold export point. The handful of railroads which have reported their net exemings for December cannot safely be accepted as a criterion of the general showing to be made, but the shrinkage shown by the few roads is so heavy as to leave a formidable impression of the possible exhibit to be made by more complete figures. Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,284,000, United States bonds were unchanged on call.

eral of the trains were late in arriving, so that the market as a whole was considerably delayed.

There was no very great change in the market for beef steers. Good cattle of that description have been so scarce all the week that receivers who were fortunate in having anything desirable today generally reported that they met with no difficulty in securing fully as good prices as yesterday. On the other hand, there have been a good many warmed-up cattle every day this week said the more common and inferior kinds were prelly slow all the morning, but still it is a question if they sold any worse than yesterday.

The market on cows and heiters opened in fair season in the morning and the good kinds were reasonably active at good, steady prices. In fact, salesmen in some cases were reporting their best cows as strong. The common to medium grades, while not so active, nevertheless sold in about the same notches as yesterday.

Good feeders were scain in active demand and feeder buyers were out early in the morning picking up the most desirable of the offerings. It is safe to quote good feeders as fully steady and active. Light stockers have been slow sellers all the week, due to the fact that they have been quite pientiful, while the demand has not been overly brisk.
