ANNOUNCEMENTS

LEARN TO BE A TELEGAPHER

The old method of serving several years as a messenger or helper to become a telegrapher is becoming as obsolete as it is becoming unsatisfactory to the superintendents and managers of big railroad systems, gigantic telegraph companies and brokerage concerns.

BOYLES' COLLEGE now has the largest and most complete telegraphy department throughout the entire west. And, depend upon it, it would not be teaching telegraphy at all unless it was in a position to produce practical telegraph operators-men and women who can send and receive with "chained lightning" rapidity and unerring accuracy.

FOR EXCHANGE.

If it was not equipped to graduate pupils who would have every technicality, every trick of the art, every little "knack" of telegraphy at their fingers' ends, it would not have been selected as an official training school by the Union Facific R. R., and the Union Pacific R. R., and the Union Pacific R. R. would not have installed its main line train dispatcher's wire into the school and guaranteed to take all the competent telegraphers it produces; and the Union Pacific R. R. would not be furnishing Boyles College with all its telegraph and railroad blanks to be used in the telegraphy deif it was not equipped to graduate pu blanks to be used in the telegraphy department, free of charge The Union Pacific R. R. is doing these very things and encouraging Boyles College telegraphy department in order to help supply the demand for telegraph operators for its system. It must be understood, however, that it is not a requirement of Boyles College that any student accept a position with this company unless he chooses to do so. Seven teen other railroads center here and ar needing hundreds of telegraphers now and will continue to be calling for them for years to come.

A special telegraphy bookiet is furnished promptly to any person upon applica-

A 76-page catalogue is also published covering all departments of the school. Apply for either or both of them. BOYLES COLLEGE,
