

NO ONE CAN ALWAYS AVOID

Catching Cold on the Street Car

Peruna Prevents Catching Cold.

One Dose in Time, Saves Nine.

Many people persist in riding on the street cars, insufficiently protected by clothing. They start out perhaps in the heat of the day and do not feel the need of wraps.

The rapid moving on the car cools the body unduly. When they board the car perhaps they are slightly perspiring. When the body is in this condition it is easily chilled. This is especially true when a person is sitting.

Beginning a street car ride in the middle of the day and ending it in the evening almost invariably requires extra wraps, but people do not observe these precautions, hence they catch cold.

Colds are very frequent in the spring on this account, and as the summer advances, they do not decrease. During the spring months, no one should think of riding on the car without being provided with a wrap.

A cold caught in the spring is liable to last through the whole summer. Great caution should be observed at this season against exposure to cold. During the first few pleasant days of spring, the liability of catching cold is great.

No wonder so many people acquire muscular rheumatism and catarrhal diseases during this season.

However, in spite of the greatest precautions, colds will be caught.

At the appearance of the first symptom, Peruna should be taken according to directions on the bottle, and continued until every symptom disappears.

Do not put it off. Do not waste time by taking other remedies. Begin at once to take Peruna and continue taking it until you are positive that the cold has entirely disappeared. This may save you a long and perhaps serious illness later on.

Bad Effects From Cold

Mr. M. J. Deutch, Secretary Building Material Trades Council, 151 Washington St., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I have found your medicine to be unusually efficacious in getting rid of bad effects from cold, and more especially in driving away all symptoms of catarrh, with which I am frequently troubled."

"The relief Peruna gives in catarrhal troubles alone is well worth the price per bottle. I have used the remedy for several years now."

and have spells of coughing that would sometimes last for a half hour.

"Now we can never thank you enough for the change you have made in our little one's health. Before she began taking your Peruna she suffered everything in the way of cough, colds and croup, but now she has taken not quite a bottle of Peruna, and is well and strong as she has ever been in her life."

Peruna for Colds

Mr. James Morrison, 65 East 18th St., Paterson, N. J., writes:

"I have given Peruna a fair trial, and I find it to be just what you claim it to be. I cannot praise it too highly. I have used every bottle in my family for colds, and everything imaginable. I can safely say that your medicine is the best I have ever used."

Spells of Coughing

Mrs. C. E. Leach writes from Atwood, Colorado, as follows:

"My 11-year-old son for advice my little three-year-old girl had a cough that had been troubling her for four months. She too, cold easily, and would wheeze

FARMS ARE IN BIG DEMAND

Good Prices Are Paid by Men Eager to Buy.

OMAHA IS PROFITING THEREBY

Sheep Men Buy Seventy Thousand Acres in Wyoming for One Dollar Per Acre, While Omahans Buy in Texas.

Farm land is selling rapidly. Omaha agents having made big sales during the week, and the demand is greater than for many years.

The favorite localities are in western Nebraska, northern Kansas and South Dakota, while the Colorado lands are in great demand. Many old farms in Nebraska are changing hands, and the owners, selling for good prices, go westward, where they can secure larger tracts of good land.

J. H. Osborne of the Osborne-Hansen company has returned from South Dakota and western Nebraska, where he closed a number of sales, among others a farm of 320 acres near Hecla, S. D., sold to John Anderson for $30 per acre, showing the value now placed on South Dakota lands.

After a trip through Box Butte county, Nebraska, Mr. Osborne said:

"I never saw the country looking as well as it is now, and the way Box Butte county is being settled is surprising. The lands are all producing crops and those who went there a few years ago made no mistake, but have made a barrel of money."

John Q. Edwards of Omaha has bought 240 acres of land near Bullard, Tex., from the Osborne-Hansen company.

Thomas Brennan has returned from Texas, where he went ten days ago to look after lands which he has there. "As the map shows, there is plenty of land in Texas and there is also plenty of good land. Many are buying Texas land for fruit culture. The industry buying proved a big success in all parts of the state where tried."

Out in western Nebraska W. L. Selby has sold two sections of land in Kimball county, while numerous sales have been made of land in Grant county, where many are moving up on homesteads taken under the Kinkaid law.

Seventy thousand acres of land in the winter range of Wyoming has been sold by the land department of the Union Pacific Railroad company to the Sweetwater Range association for $20,000, being exactly $1 per acre. This tract will be used for sheep grazing.

West Being Rapidly Settled.

The west is being settled this spring at a rate never before equaled in the history of the country. The demand for land in the west has reached the point where the "land hunger" and yet the immediate future offers vast areas for homesteaders. New irrigation projects are being thrown on the market, the government is providing large tracts by forcing illegal homestead entries to be abandoned, dry farming is being perfected and the west has the call of the entire country today.

Thousands of landseekers are roaming over the west in search of homes; they are beginning to realize the value in a family of the asset of a 160-acre farm, a permanent home and revenue producer for their posterity.

A million strong emigrants are coming to the shores of America each year and a million young men arrive annually at that age when they must face the problem of self-maintenance. Agriculture has never been the source of wealth in this country it is today, and each succeeding year brings heavier and heavier returns to the educated farmer.

Railroads are running crop specials through the country, having the leading professors from the colleges and agricultural schools and the farmers show their appreciation of the effort of the railroad managers by turning out to the agents of the auditoriums. The Burlington started a new idea last winter by sending a car east, laden with sample products of the west, and this was crowded from dawn to dusk with farmers, eager to learn something to their advantage.

Good Land is Limited.

There is after all, just so much good farming land in this country to be had. The acreage has a limit and yet the population of the country is increasing at a rapid rate. Western lands are passing into the hands of a wiser generation, either by purchase or homestead.

Warnings are being issued by the railroads and the government that the land will soon be gone and then it will be too late to secure an heritage from the nation.

A glance back will soon show the way this land has been going. From twenty to forty years ago land could be homesteaded for $14 a quarter, or bought from the government at $1.25 an acre or from the railroads at $2 to $7 an acre. This land is now worth from $50 to $125 an acre. This should be an indication of the future value of western lands.

What the Rainfall is.

The rainfall of eastern Colorado and western Nebraska is now from eleven to eighteen inches per year, in Nebraska the precipitation averages from eighteen to thirty inches and in Iowa and Illinois from thirty-six to forty-nine inches. It is said the population of the west is now increasing at the rate of 30 per cent per year and the better methods of raising the crops give the state of Nebraska more to sell in proportion than the increase in population would indicate. This is essentially an agricultural section, and besides learning how to raise large and more valuable crops on the land the farmers are learning more and more how to use their crops after they are obtained. They raise more diversified crops and have learned to use the products of their farms more judiciously in feeding large quantities of it to cattle and sheep.

Nebraska is the state of deep soil and pure waters and ample sunshine, with plenty of moisture annually, of temperate climate, free from malaria, with an atmosphere which develops energy, and recognized as the healthiest country on earth. Its soil will not only support its own population, but millions besides.

Sellers are flocking into the Big Horn basin to take up the land under the Irrigation ditches, which are now being opened up. The state of Wyoming is looking after the water rights to see that the new settlers are protected. All this country is tributary to Omaha and Omaha, more than any other city, will reap the benefit of the enormous growth and development of the glorious west.

The Union Pacific is placing little land on the market, but what is offered for sale is eagerly snapped up. A short time ago a tract of 40,000 acres was sold by the Union Pacific. The Burlington road, another of the pioneers and builders of the west, has no land of its own for sale, but is doing what is possible in helping build up the west by assisting in bringing in settlers.

INDIAN BOYS LAND IN JAIL

Responding to Call of Spring They Quit Their School.

THEN OFFICER MAN HE GETS 'EM

New Sons of Nature Pile in Staffy Prison Until Taken Back to the Lawrence, Kan., School.

Woodlands and prairies, peaceful lakes and gentle flowing rivers, birds and beasts, all wild nature awakening from the winter's sleep into the glorious morning of spring, call in vain for Adam Vivivar and Joe Gulion.

Adam and Joe are held prisoners in the city jail. They were captured on advice from the authorities of the government Indian school at Lawrence, Kan., and are being held until someone comes to take them back to the school room, which they hate, and to the white man's books of learning, which are not equal to the wisdom of Wawakicho and Papomono, wise medicine men in the days long ago before the white man came and stole the happy hunting ground from the Indians.

Adam and Joe are only boys, 15 and 16 years old, respectively. They had been telling away at the books which the Great Father in Washington said they must study all through the winter. They had studied their longings to run away and had tried to do what their teachers told them. Their spring came. The great spirit who dwells in the cave of fire down in the land of the Ukuchukos awoke from the slumber into which the Snow God had thrown him, and returning toward the north, drove away snow and ice before him and brought back burst into greenery and called the animals from their holes.

Then Adam and Joe looked out one day and the feelings in their breasts would no longer be stifled, not even by the wishes of the Great Father. The blood of 100 generations of forefathers who had lived in wigwams, who had spent their lives by quiet lakes and crystal streams, walking along deeply-worn paths and living the free life, stirred within the breasts of the two boys in the white man's school. They looked at each other and each read the other's thought. The thoughts were the same.

Set Their Faces Toward Home.

That night the boys left the school. They set their faces to the north toward the wigwams of their fathers which are in Minnesota on the banks of the Great River. At first they walked, mostly by night, in order that they might not be caught. Then they ventured upon one of the great trains drawn by the iron horse of the white man. This train carried them swiftly toward the north.

They sniffed the fresh spring air and it was sweet to their nostrils. They devoured with hungry eyes the trees and the animals and all the nature which they loved. And they dreamed of the joy which would be in the wigwams of their parents when they should reach home, and of the many long summer days when they would hunt and fish in the reservation which the greedy white men had left out of all the great land that their forefathers owned.

They woke up Saturday morning in a great village of the white men. They did not like that because it is hard to hide in a village of the white men. Then came two white warriors in blue coats with white buttons. And the two white warriors asked Adam and Joe and took them to a house with bars upon it. And they told them they were to be taken back to the school.

And so Adam and Joe look with deepest sorrow from the barred windows of the city jail and dream of the wigwams of their fathers who are not equal to the wisdom of Wawakicho and of Papomono.

EX-PIREST TAKES A WIFE

J. J. Crowley Married in Washington to Miss Mary McLeod of Schuyler.

The mystery of Jeremiah J. Crowley has been cleared up, according to dispatches from Chicago. The former priest is married to Miss Mary McLeod of Schuyler, Neb. The ceremony is said to have taken place near Seattle, March 5, 1908.

Local priests know nothing more of Crowley than that they have seen in the few papers when the former priest has made a sensation in some way. Recently a Boston lecturer created much talk by delivering an address on "Where is Father Crowley?" but all the time the Omaha priests have known, through Father McCarthy of Schuyler, that the priest was in Ellensburgh, Wash., where he is said to be engaged in the real estate business.

Miss McLeod was not a member of the Catholic church, according to Rev. P. C. Gannon, editor of the True Voice. SCHUYLER, Neb., April 4.—(Special Telegram)—Mrs. J. J. Crowley, whose marriage has caused some comment in Catholic church circles, is a sister of Postmaster D. D. McLeod of Schuyler. She was Miss Mary McLeod, formerly of this city. Information here is she was married in North Yakima, Wash.

STICKERS THAT DON'T STICK

Postage Stamps Have Poor Glue and Many Complaints Are Filed.

General complaints are heard at the post office on the character of the "stickum" used on the later issues of postage stamps, which is said to be no good. About half the time the postage stamp sticker does not know whether the stamp is going to stick to the envelope or to the wall. I think the fault is in the glue, and then it is not likely to stick at all.

Postmaster B. F. Thomas said Saturday morning: "Please don't mention it. We are having no end of complaints and have reported the matter to the Postoffice department so frequently that we are afraid to tackle it again. I think the fault is with the contractors who are furnishing the stamps for the department and every effort is being made to remedy the trouble. We hope to have the matter satisfactorily adjusted shortly. In fact, I think that you will soon notice the improvement."
