"Who said so?" sweetly inquired his better half. "L" said Cock Robin, otherwise her ford CHIEF QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE, and master, "I have arranged everything.

"we'll move, but, of course I'll have to give Mary two weeks' notice, and I'll have to pay up all the bills in the neighborhood. Two hundred dollars will about cover them, I think." If the Boss experienced a sudden sinking of the heart he gave no sign.

"All right," he said, "it may inconventence us at first, but we'll save money in the end. The storage people will have a van here at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

house steak is 5 cents a pound higher than it was last year."

"Well, that needn't worry you any more," his wife hinted darkly. "You'd better look up the market quotations on chuck steak or round. That's all we're likely to get where we're going now."

"Then you won't hev to be a climbin' over the parlor furniture inside."

And then suddenly the housewife was lost in the pretty woman.

"Oh, look at that girl with red hair that has just come in! Aren't those gorgeous pearis? And isn't she beautiful? Do you won't hev to be a climbin' over the parlor furniture inside."

The Boss gasped. Evidently the storage that not called, or his wife had disobeyed his explicit orders.

where we're going now." Of course, as the Boss hadn't condescended so far to name the apartment hotel in which they were going, his wife positively was unhampered by facts. But after several years of association the lady had learned that in marriage the doctrine of least resistance is often that of most effective opposition. The Boss never found his wife quite so exasperating as when she most abjectly agreed with him.

"All right, dear," she said. And all next day he reflected proudly upon the ease with which women are managed if only a man knows how to be masterful enough. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the Boss received a telephone message from his spouse to the effect that everything was lovely in the new apartment and that he must hurry home to give her the benefit of his taste and experience in arranging things.
