of Circus Kinds Catches to the Delight Many Women Present.

Omaha jumped onto Gillen, Hendricks' choice to start the game and pounded him out of the lot. Hammond, the welterweight thrower with lots of motion attempted to stop the scoring, but was not there with the goods. Omaha won from Denver by a score of 9 to 4.

War Sanders was in the box for the Rourkes and after a poor start, which for a time looked disastrous, settled down and pitched nice ball.

Omaha won because the Rourkes played gilt-edged ball in the tight places and hit when hits counted for runs.

Denver began to slug the ball the minute the game started, getting two doubles and a single that netted two runs. After this War got to working right and with the exception of the fourth, when he was touched for three singles which resulted in two runs, made the Grizzies hike for the bench with monotonous regularity. At that he did not strike out a man. Neither did the two Denver throwers and the result was that the fielders had plenty of Omaha made its march toward victory in the first, when the onslaught became so fierce that Gillen was yanked after he had but one out. Shotton started off with a hit, went to second on Fox's out to first and scored on King's single. Kane got a hit and went to second on Kelly's error in handling the grounder hit to him by Corridon. Welch slipped a single over him home, making the third tally for that at Auburn.

Country Club Has Its Real Opening

Golf Course in Fine Shape and the Tennis Men Are Ready to Play.

Everything is in readiness for the open ing of the Country club Saturday. The golf course is in better shape at this time than it was on the opening day last year and interesting play in the first event of the season, which will be a medal handicap match, is expected. The recent rains have put the greens in fine shape. Friday the finishing touches were added by running the steam roller over the putting greens. The tennis program consists of a handi cap match between the members who play that game. In the evening a dinner will be served, after which the members will indulge in
