BREEN ADMITS HIS DEFEAT

South Omaha Annexation Question is Brought to Hitch.

TOO MANY NAMES WITHDRAWN City Attorney Murphy and Assistant seek to Withdraw 227 Names and Protest Right of Others—Breen Shows Fight.

Defeat of the proposition to submit to the voters at the November election the question of annexation of South Omaha to Omaha was admitted by J. P. Breen, representative of the annexationists, Friday afternoon, after he had hurriedly scanned the list of withdrawals from the South Omaha annexation petition, the withdrawal having been secured and filed with the board of county commissioners by City Attorney Murphy and Assistant City Attorney Winters. Breen said he would go on and thoroughly canvass the withdrawal list with the county commissioners' special committee and the representatives of the anti-annexationists, but said he considered it merely a formality. "I will go over the names and then throw up my hands," he said. Breen said it is improbable that the annexationists will make a campaign to secure names to replace those which have been withdrawn, though if this could be done and the number of registered names on the petition could be raised to the required 10 per cent of all the registered voters by fourteen days before the election of November 8 the petition still would be valid and the question would have to be submitted. "I don't think we could get enough names," said Breen. "We got all that could be got."

Withdrawals Are Filed. Withdrawals of 227 signers of the South Omaha petition for submission of the proposition of annexation at the November general election, were filed with the Board of County Commissioners by City Attorney Murphy and Assistant City Attorney Winters of South Omaha Friday morning, just before the board met to hold a hearing on the validity of the petition. Murphy and Winters also filed an affidavit of the city clerk of South Omaha that of the 60 names on the South Omaha petition 21 are names of men who are not registered voters of that city when the board met. J. P. Breen, representing the petitioners, raised the question of the right to withdraw signers of the petition and demanded a continuance of the hearing so that he might have time to investigate the report that many signers of the petition are not registered. After two hours' wrangling it was agreed that a committee of the Board of County Commissioners should investigate both matters and report at an adjourned sitting next Tuesday at 10 a. m. It was further agreed that the committee should check over the withdrawals at 2 p. m. Friday. Thirty-five or forty South Omaha and Omaha men interested in the annexation fight were present when the board was called to order by Chairman Commissioner Brunning, who announced the purpose of the meeting. "The opponents of annexation have just filed an affidavit of the South Omaha city clerk to the effect that 21 names on the South Omaha petition are not those of registered voters," said Breen. "They also file withdrawals of 227 signers."

Breen Makes Stand. "Now, our petition carries 60 names. The law requires 10 per cent of the voters. We got these names, figuring that the total of registered voters was 4361. That total, however, is the total after the revision in South Omaha. Since this petition must be based on the registry before the revision, which was 4301, only 436 names are required to make our petition valid. But, even at that, if their charges that over 200 names are unregistered are true, the petition must be invalid, and if these withdrawals can be considered and removed from the petition, it must be invalid. I doubt if they can withdraw. "Now, we should like some time in which to investigate these matters." Commissioner Bedford promptly declared himself in favor of granting more time. Chairman Commissioner Brunning made similar expression. City Attorney Murphy took the floor and, with flashing eyes and emphatic gestures, declares that this was the time set for hearing on the validity of the petition and the hearing should be had at this time. "We filed our protest and objections eight days ago," he said. "They have had time to prepare their case. We have prepared ours. One side got busy and prepared for the hearing and is ready for it. The other has set suitably by and now wants more time. Why did they not check up the books in the South Omaha city clerk's office? They knew what the charges were. Why didn't they get ready to refute them? We are doing nothing underhand. South Omaha always is candid and honest. We don't want this matter delayed. It might as well be settled now, but we are willing to abide by the board's decision. We'll bring the books right here, now—within an hour—for you to canvass. "We could do nothing," said Breen. "You didn't challenge a single name." Says Every Name Was Fought. "We challenged every name," answered Assistant City Attorney Winters. Mr. Breen asked a few days' continuance and suggested that the board name a committee to investigate charges regarding registration and the withdrawals. Commissioner Trouton called on Deputy County Attorney Magney for an opinion regarding the right of a petitioner to withdraw from a petition. Magney said he had looked the matter up and had found that petitioners may withdraw any time before the board acts on the petition. Commissioner Pickard moved that the chairman name a committee to investigate both matters and report next Tuesday at 10 a. m. It was carried unanimously. Chairman Commissioner Brunning named Commissioner Trouton and Pickard and the county attorney. Murphy suggested that if the withdrawals were sufficient in number to invalidate the petition it would not be necessary to investigate the registration matter, the county attorney's office having given the opinion that petitioners could withdraw. He asked a checking over of the withdrawals at once or in the afternoon. Breen protested, asking delay until Saturday morning, but finally gave in. Persistent Advertising is the Road to Big Returns. Cowgill Brings Back Convention

President of Grain Exchange Elated Over Securing the 1911 Meeting.

President F. S. Cowgill of the Omaha Grain Exchange received congratulations Friday on his success in getting the national association to hold its 1911 meeting in Omaha. Mr. Cowgill returned Thursday night from Chicago, where he, with the aid of Will A. Campbell of the Commercial club and Chief Grain Inspector George Powell, turned the trick. "You put over a good one," said friends to him. "Why, I don't think we did so much," returned Mr. Cowgill, "although it is a big meeting and will bring from 400 to 1,000 grain men here the second week of October next year." The actual dates of the convention are October 9, 10 and 11. Voting the convention to Omaha means much more than the usual convention benefits to hotels and so forth. It means that the grain dealers of the United States have recognized the importance of the newest of the big primary markets, though not the smallest by far. According to George Powell, the Chicago convention was noteworthy for its harmony. Uniform bills of lading was one of the chief topics of discussion. Receipts of grain on the exchange have continued light for some days and the expected increase has not yet arrived. The Key to the Situation—Bee Want Ads.

Two Held as Vags May Be Yeggmen

Police Find Quantity of Money in Socks of Two Suspicious Characters.

Arrested Friday morning as vagrants, Mike Kearns and H. C. King, upon whose persons were found a large amount of money Friday, are now declared by the police to be the men who robbed the banks at Oskdale and Meadow a short time ago. Policeman J. E. Wilson picked the suspects up on a charge of vagrancy and upon searching them found only a small amount of change. When Captain Savage of the detective department investigated the case he had the men searched more thoroughly, with the result that $50 was found in one of Kearns' socks and $10 on King. It is said Kearns was a pal of a man named Riley, who is being held on the bank robbery charge at Madison. There is a $1,000 reward offered for the apprehension and conviction of the robbers. An American King is the great king of cures, Dr. King's New Discovery, the quick, safe, sure cough and cold remedy. 50c and $1.00. For sale by Beaton Drug Co. Marriage Licenses.
