

BRYAN CREATES FAMILY ROW

Dahlmanites Resent Hitchcock Bringing Bryan to Roast Dahlman.

SAY IT IS A SLAP AT DAHLMAN

Bryan Probably Will Hoist the Man He Severely Roasted but a Short Time Ago—Charge of Ingratitude.

The coming of William Jennings Bryan to Omaha to deliver a campaign speech at the seventh hour before election has provoked a rather furious family war among local democrats.

It has become noised around that certain friends of Gilbert M. Hitchcock are paying for the hall in which Mr. Bryan is to speak, and it is known, of course, that Mr. Bryan is not going to let anything complimentary to Dahlman creep into the address he is to deliver at the Auditorium tonight.

Therefore, Dahlman democrats are wrathful at Hitchcock, because they feel that Hitchcock is instrumental in bringing a stalling bombshell into the Dahlman camp.

Of course it is well known that Mr. Bryan has no real love for Hitchcock, yet since he has been arranged from his county again it is expected that he will say some nice things about Hitchcock anyway, even if he doesn't believe what he is saying.

"I have voted for Mr. Bryan for president ever since I was 21 years old," said one Dahlman wheel horse, "and I have smeared my clothing with grease many times while carrying flaming toches in Bryan processions, but I will never vote for him again. Here he comes to Omaha to turn loose his barrel of eloquence against Mayor Jim Dahlman—who has also voted for Bryan since 1884. I fail to see where Mr. Bryan is consistent if he lauds Bert Hitchcock in his speech tonight. He said numerous bad things about Hitchcock not so very long ago, and he is bound to know by this time all about the Bartley affair, in which Hitchcock is so badly involved, yet he is supposed to make a speech in favor of Mr. Hitchcock. I don't believe he has the gall to do it."

All over the city Saturday the Dahlman forces were cursing Hitchcock and Bryan, and the chances are that if Mr. Bryan does say nice things about Hitchcock tonight, he may be hissed by an audience in the metropolis of his own state—for in these campaign days a Dahlman rooster scorns conventionality.

The Dahlman club doesn't usually bestir itself in daylight—there really isn't much need of the club until after 8 o'clock in the evening, but Saturday is an exception. Various leaders of the club congregated early, and the coming of the sage of Fairview was the exclusive topic of conversation.

Young Still Draws Salary

Puts in His Own Pay Roll as Head of a Department and it is Allowed.

City Veterinarian George W. Young, who lost half of his salary when his efficiency as dairy inspector was questioned and he was relieved of that part of his work, and who lost the remainder of it when he was listed by Health Commissioner Connel with the ten men who were more or less superfluous to the health department and could be let out to make up the deficit in funds, is still drawing his pay and declares that he will continue to draw it for a year.

When the salary vouchers for November were brought before the finance committee of the city council Chairman Sheldon of that committee had a conference with Assistant City Attorney Dunn and they agreed that Dr. Young might be considered as the head of his own department and so allowed a specific fund without regard to Dr. Connel's authority. Dr. Connel refused to give his consent to a salary allowance for Dr. Young, so that tenacious official filed a pay roll of his own with himself as the only employe and his $15 for November was passed with the regular appropriation ordinance by the council.

"The matter can be arranged on the theory that Dr. Young is in charge of his own department," said Deputy Comptroller Congrove. "The council has a right to set aside any part of the health fund for any purpose that is embraced under the general head of health expenditures. It would be impossible for it to say that part of this fund should be given to the police department, for instance, but as long as Dr. Young is listed as a health employe he can have his salary set aside by the council."

Dr. Young has been continuing in the performance of his duties as city veterinarian and expects to remain in that position.

Small Boy Takes Remarkable Trip

Thirteen-Year-Old Herman Alexander Missing After Journey from Denver to Council Bluffs.

Because he didn't like Denver and wanted to live in Council Bluffs where he was born, 13-year-old Herman Alexander is missing, and his parents in Colorado believe he may have met an untimely death. When the lad's parents moved from Council Bluffs to Denver some time ago it was against the loud protests of Herman. He fretted and grew melancholy in the new home, repeatedly declaring he wanted to go back to Council Bluffs and see his boy friends again.

According to word from the father to the Omaha police, the lad finally ran away to carry out his purpose, and now is lost. Making a remarkable trip for one so young, Herman arrived in Council Bluffs several weeks ago on a freight train, looked up his former playmates and then disappeared again. It is feared he may have attempted to steal his ride back to Denver and met death under the wheels of a train.

The boy is short for his age, dark complexioned and is clothed in a tan suit with knickerbocker trousers, tan hat with brown band and black shoes and stockings.

The Omaha police are making a search for the boy traveler.

Eighty Years Young and Active

John Dale, the 80-year-old general life insurance agent, whose office in the Flange building is one of the busiest insurance centers in Omaha, and whose 80th birthday anniversary was celebrated last Monday, has had a strenuous week.

Being up to the octogenarian mark, Mr. Dale decided he would show his younger co-workers a few tricks in insurance business, so he set out the first of the week to break a record—and Saturday night saw the record smashed. Mr. Dale does not believe in the Oiler theory, and he heeds not the oft-reounding cry that this is a young man's era and that after a man passes the half century mark he is no longer useful in his community. Mr. Dale reached the fifty-year mark thirty years ago, and since that time has done what to a less resolute man might be passed as a lifetime work.

"I am aware," said Mr. Dale, "that it is a hackneyed expression, much overworked, but just the same, I am going to say that a man is just as old as he feels. I feel to be about 40, and a man at 40 is just in his prime. All this talk about retiring a man when the wrinkles 'cross his face is bosh—plain, unvarnished bosh. Some men are useless at 40 or 50—but then we must remember that those men were born to be useless, so age, therefore, cuts no figure. I do not allow myself to dwell upon contemplation of the infirmity that goes with old age, or rather that is popularly supposed to go with it. I cultivate cheerful thoughts, take plenty of outdoor exercise, try to live a correct life, morally and otherwise—and that perhaps accounts for the great blessing of physical vigor I am permitted to enjoy at the age of 80 years."

Every day except Sunday is a work day with John Dale. Sundays are devoted to rest and religious worship, for Mr. Dale has long been an active worker in the Methodist church.

SWEDES DENOUNCE LOBECK

Candidate for Congress Rapped by Swedish League.

BODY RESOLVES FOR SUTTON

Speakers at Republican Meeting Disclose Duplicitous Lobeck Used in Trading on Nationality—Resolution with Tart Protest.

"Defeat Lobeck; elect Judge Sutton."

This coupled with a denunciation of C. O. Lobeck for falsely trading on his nationality was the keynote of the meeting of the Swedish-American Republican league last Friday night at the offices of the Omaha Posten, the Swedish newspaper of Omaha.

Resolutions were adopted expressing this sentiment and it was freely declared and again and again by speakers of the evening "that Mr. Lobeck deserves a stinging rebuke for his hypocritical statements made in his campaign. He is asserting himself to be Swedish and has done this for years, when, as a matter of fact, his father is a German, and he holds himself out to be a German when talking to men of German extraction. He has caused it to be inserted in German newspapers that he is a German, while in Swedish papers he is the son of a Swedish man and his people are all Swedish. This last false statement has been his only stock in trade for fifteen years in claiming the support of Swedish-Americans to keep himself in office."

How earnest the members of the Swedish-American club are that all his compatriots shall learn of this state of affairs is shown by the fact that every one of the 200 men present at the meeting in the Posten offices volunteered to spend all Tuesday at the polls to warn every Swedish voter who comes up just what sort of a man Mr. Lobeck has attempted. With the 100 members of his congressional committee also at the polls, Judge Sutton will have an army of 300 non-paid workers out on election day.

President Albert W. Johnson, presided at the meeting. Among the speakers were Jacob L. Jacobson, N. F. Swanson, Alvin F. Johnson, John R. Helgren, Alfred Bloom, Martin Larson, Nels J. Anderson and J. F. Bloom.

Prizes Come In for Poultry Show

Many Editors of the West Show High Enthusiasm for Trans-Mississippi Event.

The Trans-Mississippi Poultry show is sweeping the west, and editor after editor of poultry trade journals have lined up in behalf of the Omaha show the last few days. A publicity campaign is in fact under way which will bear astonishing results when the show opens in December at the Auditorium.

The latest editorial enthusiast in behalf of the show is Ralph H. Searl, editor of Poultry Topics, of Lincoln. Mr. Searl spent Saturday in Omaha getting data on the show, and before he left announced that his paper would give six handsome silver cups as prizes for Nebraska fanners.

These cups will be given as follows: The six classes will be determined by the number of entries, the six biggest at the show being the prize classes. Then to whatever fancier who has the biggest and best showing in each of the six classes will go one cup.

Mr. Searl has contracted for cups which are well worth winning, but these are only a trifle among the many prizes hung up this year.

Correspondence with regard to the show is growing bigger and bigger every day and Secretary Anton Lindstrom has his hands full.

POWELL DIVORCE SET ASIDE

Judge Muench Declares Decree Granted St. Louis Millionaire Invalid.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—The divorce decree which was granted to James L. Powell, a wealthy railroad contractor, Tuesday, was set aside today by Judge Hugo Muench. Late yesterday Powell's former wife, Mary Louise Powell, was married to C. Frederic Ekfeldt, who was sued recently by Powell. Judge Muench, in setting aside the decree, appointed a lawyer to determine whether there was collusion between Powell and his wife to be legally separated.

Indictment for Dummy Entries to Large Tracts

Everett Eldred Charged by Federal Grand Jury with Getting Ten Thousand Acres.

When Everett Eldred is located by deputy United States marshals, he will be called upon to answer an indictment charging him with conspiracy to acquire title to government land in Banner county by what is technically known as "dummy or procured" entries.

This case involves 10,000 acres of land, and the arrest of Eldred, which has not yet been accomplished, will cause much excitement, as he is well known over a wide area in western Nebraska.

Garden county is a newly created county in western Nebraska, having been recently set off from Deuel county, and land in that section is in great demand. It is not anticipated that the authorities will experience any difficulty in arresting Eldred, as he is got the type of man to resist an officer, and taking him into custody is merely a matter of locating him, the officers say.

The indictment against Eldred has no connection whatever with other indictments against western Nebraska ranchmen, charging conspiracy to intimidate settlers. Leslie E. Ballinger and N. C. Hubbell, two of the defendants in the before mentioned budget of conspiracy indictments, came to Omaha Saturday morning and voluntarily surrendered to the United States marshal.

"We are peaceable citizens," said Ballinger, "and when we heard that indictments had been returned against us, we decided at once that we would show good faith by coming to Omaha for the purpose of surrendering."

Bond was fixed at $10,000 in each case, and it was readily given. Ballinger and Hubbell have the appearance of well educated, prosperous ranchmen. They will return to their homes in western Nebraska Sunday.

SUPPRESS EXPLOSION NEWS

Los Angeles Papers Agree to Withheld Accounts of the Grand Jury Investigation.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—All public information regarding the grand jury investigation of the Los Angeles Times explosion was shut off today when four newspapers here agreed, at the request of Presiding Judge Bordwell of the superior court, not to print any more concerning the deliberations.

This agreement was made after a conference of the managing editors, at which Judge Bordwell urged that the jury's work would be hampered by the publication of such information as is obtainable and that such publication would make more difficult the task of procuring unbiased justice in the criminal trials that may result from the investigation. Judge Bordwell's request did not include the Associated Press.

SEED CORN TESTS ARE GREAT

Direct Result is Ten Million More Bushels of Corn.

INVESTMENT OF ONE PENNY

Will A. Campbell Buys a Paper for a Cent Which Gives the Clue to What Caused Start to Be Made.

Will A. Campbell wanted to know himself for a cent one day last spring and as a result the Commercial club induced him to invest $1,000 and the farmers of Nebraska were made an extra $4,500,000.

This sounds a little "tall," but the facts and the sequence of results from the original investment of a penny are easily traced.

To begin at the beginning: Mr. Campbell, who is manager of the publicity bureau of the club, spent this important penny for a newspaper and in it he read of seed corn tests in Iowa. Having heard shortly after a rumor that the seed corn of Nebraska was not in good condition, an investigation was made. Thousands of samples were secured from all parts of the state and these given to experts to test. The verdict was guilty. The general run of Nebraska seed corn was found to be weak in germinating power. In a score of tests the average highest was shown to be 87 per cent and 23 per cent was the lowest. In other words, of corn received only fifty-seven ears in 100 would grow at the best, and of the poorest just twenty-three.

Then the campaign began. The publicity bureau issued 100,000 copies of a leaflet telling how to test seed corn. It sent letters and reports of tests to every newspaper in Nebraska.

Grain companies put up 2,000 yellow cards which read: "Test Your Corn." Creamery companies joined in the work and had 2,000 warning cards placed in local stations. Implement dealers in Omaha and Council Bluffs took chips in the game and from these 1,500 big cards were sent out. The Omaha Clearing House association, all the railroads, live stock dealers, the agricultural college of the state university and other institutions joined the Commercial club of Omaha in shouting for tests of seed corn by the individual farmer.

As indicated the original 1 cent investment has born several million dollars worth of fruition. The crop is now being harvested. It is 10,000,000 bushels greater than last year.
