Panama Canal Bond Issue Will Be Made to Avoid a Deficit

Further Legislation Necessary to Meet Problem of Providing Market Without Complications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Machinery was set in motion today to provide for an issue of Panama canal bonds to end a drain upon the working balance of the treasury, which now threatens a deficit.

Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh had a long conference on the subject with Senator Aldrich, chairman of the senate committee on finance.

It was said that several complications had arisen and that further legislation would be necessary if the proposed new securities are to find a market.

Under the authorization for the issue, $20,000,000 additional Panama bonds it was provided that they might bear 3 per cent interest.

Secretary MacVeagh advanced the idea that if the new 3 per cent bonds were made nonavailable for bank circulation it would prevent a curtailment of the demand which exists for the 3 per cents, as the latter would continue to be required by the banks as a basis for circulation.

An issue of bonds without circulation privilege, it is pointed out, would be in the nature of an experiment.

CITY DADS FAVOR THE REFORM

Believe Big Saving Could Be Made by Following Suggestions.

MAYOR ALSO LINES THE PLAN

Success Achieved in the City Engineer's Department Arouses Interest of Other Officials—

Members of the finance committee of the city council and some of the other officials are strongly in favor of the proposed revolution in city bookkeeping that would follow the adoption of Deputy Comptroller Cosgrove's standardized system of accounts.

Finance Commissioner and President Brucker are very strongly in favor of it because it affords a means of determining at the close of each day just how the funds stand in all the departments. The city engineer and his staff who have been using it for a year are enthusiastic in praise of it.

City Councilman Lee Bridges is rather inclined to hesitate because it might prove costly.

"The system is very much like the one that is required in all Ohio cities by the state law with modifications for our local conditions," said Mr. Cosgrove.

He is in a position to have it established at very little cost because the comptroller's office could make use of the information collected when I made a trip through thirty-four cities in the east, Chicago paid $5,000 to a company of expert accountants for installing a similar system in their city offices and $100,000 more for extending it.

Baltimore paid $50,000 for an examination of its books and $70,000 for an installation. The Omaha city government paid about $700 for my trip and the system in the city engineer's office alone has saved more money than that in one month's economy.

The extra expenditure for installing this system in all the departments here without the help of experts would be about $500 for stationery.

Mayor Dahman is another member of the city government, who is much in favor of a complete change in the city's methods of keeping books and will favor the ordinance. The opposition will come from employees, whose jobs will be endangered by decreasing pay rolls and from officials who may take the change as a criticism of their former methods of doing business.

WITNESS MAKES A SENSATION

Declares He Believes the Erdman Jury is Fixed.

LAWYERS WOULD PROSECUTE

Judge Estelle Refuses to Take Any Notice of the Man's Statement, Although It is Made in Open Court.

Exchanges of sarcastic flings by County Attorney English and John G. Yeiser, attorney for the defense, and grilling cross-examination of witnesses marked the closing hours of the taking of testimony on the trial of Frank Erdman, charged with attempting to kill Tom Dennison with an infernal machine.

More sensational than any other incident of the sitting was the confession on the witness stand of H. G. Brass, a South Omaha undertaker, who is active along lines of prosecuting liquor law and gambling law violations, that he recently declared that Erdman was the convict because the judge and the jury are fixed.

Many lawyers who had dropped into the court room to hear the testimony heard Mr. Brass' statement, which was wrung from him by the county attorney on cross-examination, who bitterly resented it.

The Key to the Situation—Bee Want Ads.

Several attorneys expressed themselves in favor of instituting contempt of court proceedings against Brass. It is not likely, however, that any action will be taken.

At noon the state and the defense rested and an adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock Monday morning, when the arguments will be begun.

H. J. Brinkert, a negro attorney, and J. M. Leidy, superintendent of the Omaha district of the Nebraska Anti-Saloon league, were placed on the stand by the defense to show Erdman was in Omaha at the time the state claims he was in Louisville.

For the same purpose Brass was placed on the stand. To show that witness is prejudiced for the defense, the county attorney wrung from him his confession that at a dinner in South Omaha a few evenings ago he declared the judge and jury are fixed. "That was my private opinion," said Brass. "I didn't want to state it here."
