John Feagle Charged prolific in opportunity for attack. It has always been true and will continue to be true so long as there is a duty on imports. Parmer Not Too Well Paid. The lows senator challenged any mem ber to state his belief that the farmer was receiving too much for his products. He declared it had been intimated the middle man was getting too great a share of the value of farm products.

"If this be true," he demanded, "why strike at the producer? Why not go after the middle men direct? The tariff of 1909. in attempting to strike at a monopoly, put petroleum on the free list. The ref ners immediately reduced the purchasing price of crude oil and continued the high price to the consumer on refined oil. Thus the consumer was not benefited. Why repent this performance in the case of the farmer and his products?"

With the declaration that tariff legislation never could be made perfect nor universally satisfactory. Mr. Young urged that the duty of public men and the public press was to accept the Payne-Aldrich aw and let the country get down to the transaction of business. He pointed out that changes in the bill will not stem the the of criticism setting in from those interests whose welfare is touched.

"The tariff ought to be revised," he con-linued, "as the president has suggested, in scientific way; one schedule at a time I might not be willing to object to the rule proposed by my colleague, which would prohibit the offering of amendments to a schedule which might be pending, were not afraid that the first schedule to be pending would be the schedule covering arm products."

Barming States Would be Helpless. Such being the case, Mr. Young continled, the great farming states would be atacked by the south, the Rocky mountain states and New England. Under the comsined attack of the great manufacturing and mining regions the agricultural states would be practically heighess. Because of this condition, he said, he hoped the Cum- gram.)-Already Nebraska senators are bemins rule would not be adopted, and at this juncture indulged in a fling at his olleague.

Special Offering of Steinway Pianos

We have a number of very fine Steinway Upright Pianos that have been rented for a brief period, which we offer at a special clearance. These Steinways we recommend as equal to new. In fact, so confident are we that they are in every way equal to new, and that they cannot be distinguished from entirely new Steinways (save by an expert opening the case and examining the serial factory number) that we guarantee them as equal to new and sell them as returnable at full price paid if they do not prove so. Price, $450. Early inspection advised so as to obtain choice.
